Capital Report

(By John Warren)

Allegations of impropriety on the part of two government members, appear to have been given final disposal. For the man who brought them into the House, New Democrat Garth Turcott, the end came quickly and overwhelmingly on Friday. He was officially rebuked in the house for having cast reflections on other members.

He was also asked to present the Speaker with specific charges and supporting evidence against A. J. Hooke and E. W. Hinman by Monday. It seems highly unlikely that the house will hear about the subject again this session.

Before the vote (35-1) with the other opposition members siding in with the government, Mr. Turcott asked permission to play a tape which he said would serve as part of the evidence requested. He was turned down on the grounds that such a move was against house rules and the rules of legal evidence.

That pretty well ended it.

But the vote followed one of the most bitter debates ever seen in the Alberta legislature. Premier Manning several times termed Mr. Turcott's charges reprehensible. Mr. Turcott replied in kind before a packed and highly-emotional gallery.

He said the government's motion smacked of thin ice extinguishable between and the epicenu of arrogance.

The scene certainly wasn't a very pleasant one.

But it may have been the most significant exchange this legislature has seen in awakening public concern about politics, a game that's not to be taken lightly.

The special committee that investigated rural education and school consolidation also tabled its report last week. The study, under the chairmanship of Roman Lazarko of Bonnyville, is the result of extensive hearings, meetings, interviews and research for nearly a year.

Although its work was thorough and its report comprehensive, the committee appears to have come up with little that wasn't already well known to most rural Albertans.

The report acknowledges at the outset that rural students don't have the same opportunities as their city counterparts. This is especially true in non-matriculation courses where shops and labs are limited or non-existent.

But it takes a very cautious approach to recommending centralization of small schools to single large institutions. And it clearly leaves the impression that the problem is with school officials and parents who don't want to give up their local institutions.

Then it calls first for a program to educate ratepayers on the advantages of consolidated schools. However, there are areas where the idea won't be accepted or can't be implemented.

For these small centres the committee recommends government aid to get top-notch teachers. Full advantage should be taken of films, television and library facilities. The province could kick in loans for teachers' housing, larger per-pupil grants and better salaries.

But too surprising maybe, but a fair working paper.

A Few Hardisty Flakes!

(By Pestle)

Well, here I am back after a very long absence due to illness. I feel well enough now to pack out a few items. To begin with, I'm sure new readers I must point out that I say what I think, and I like people to be the same to me. If I'm in the doghouse the shoe pinches, give it a little thought before you write letters to the editor about that man Pestle.

I would first of all like to thank all my friends and neighbors who have helped me and my family and my temporary staff during my illness. You are many and I wouldn't trade you for any others. You make my Postmaster job easy by your co-operation and consideration.

Now, first of all I am going to level off on you Longhead readers. I've paid two unofficial visits to your Postmaster during my time off last week, and invited him down to see my working, which I built myself, or I should say financed myself, as that I could give my patrons better service. First of all I find I cannot park in front of your office as you have a fire hydrant, and then I have to wade through a pool of water. I also know that one cold Christmas Jim had to sort mail with mitts on as it was so cold in the building.

You people can find money to build a fine curling rink either and I must admit is used more than ours, so why not give a little the't is getting behind Jim and give us a building, or move in one that can be fixed up, to give you better and more comfortable service. I find that Jim is trying to give you the best service he can; but he has no use to work with. But he lacks the space, and the Dept. will not give him any more equipment if he has no place to put it. Now I am not suggesting that you make this a gift to Jim. I had to finance mine. But he has to have backing a local support. You will never get a fine public building like Sedgewick and Killam as your revenue is not high enough to warrant the outlay.

My next topic to sound off on is this business of towns along this line trying to live by the code of Live And Let Live. It would appear to me that there is one town (no names mentioned; as we used to say in the army, "No names, no pack drill".) I am the first to admit that there is the trend toward centralization, but don't forget that it is your local businessman who has his money tied up in your town. He is the fellow in whom you can run and get those things when you need them. You think nothing of this service, he is providing, so pass off a will even better him during his time off in the evening. And he also accomodates you. This same business man helps keep your town going by paying taxes, serving on numerous committees with no benefit to himself financially. He wishes to do this to show his appreciation for your business. Let us not forget that our town is only as good as we make it, and we all have a share in this responsibility. Town and country people alike. So long for now. — Pestle.

Shower Held For Miss Grace Likness

KILLAM — Despite the very cold weather several well-attended events at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pasdgaard on Tuesday evening March 14th to honor Miss Grace Likness at a pre-nuptial shower. The Pasdgards had appropriately decorated the room with bells and streamers. During the evening several contests were enjoyed. A bridal scrap book was made up by Helen Pasdgard, Vera, Evelyn and Carol Larson and then was passed around during the evening and later presented to Grace as a token of best wishes. The gifts were brought in a wishing well made and decorated by Verna Larson.

Grace was assisted in opening the gifts by her mother, Maryita Pasdgard and other young girls. Grace thanked everyone, Verna Larson made a fun bid for Grace by covering a paper plate with all the bows and ribbons. Lunch was served.

Grace was married to Mr. Ralf Nesterud on March 18th in Bentf Lutheran Church. They will make their home in Sexsmith where he is on the teaching staff.

SOLUTION

The Homemakers

By Miss Irene Eby, Your District Home Economist

The Future?

Some day you may enjoy drumsticks that taste like chicken but were made from alfalfa. You may keep beefsteaks on the pantry shelf. You may shop at the supermarket from a computer in the kitchen and the groceries may arrive held together only by molecular action, not in bags.

Sounds pretty far out, doesn't it? However, these are the types of things that researchers are working on.

Food researchers are worrying about our population growth and how we are going to produce enough protein for its needs. For example, one acre of land yields small pounds of edible protein when grain is plant ed for producing beef cattle. However, if that acre of land was planted in alfalfa, it would yield 1,500 pounds of edible protein by extract ion.

Protein can also be produced from crude oil. Certain bacteria and yeasts can be raised on petroleum. Right here are a worry is jet pi ots since they will grow in fuel tanks. Due to work on synthetic oil conditions, they partially refine it. The yeasts or bacteria can then be separated and converted into dry, stable, bland high-protein products to be shaped and flavoured to order.

Food preservation is advancing, too, with irradiation and cryogenic freezing (using ultra cold gases such as liquid nitrogen and carbon dioxide).

Packaging will be for individual servings. Aerosol cans will be increasingly important, giving us salad dressings that "shrink" over the greens and coat each leaf surface, not the bottom of the bowl. Also combinations such as peanut butter and jelly may be spreadable from a pressured can.

Supermarket experts say that shopping can be computerized. The housewife could make her food selections on a push-into household computer and send her instructions. On arrival she could plug her little computer into a socket and in a minute the food would appear, probably held together by molecular action so she wouldn't have to wait for bagging. And the bill could be paid by the computer associated with her bank so she wouldn't have to carry money. Merle Kiefer, executive director of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States, says that food store architects expect to see such a shopping system in operation within the next five years.

The conclusion these researchers come to is — "... with all these improvements, it can't help being more enjoyable to eat." Personally, the whole idea leaves me rather cold. How about you?

SPRING-TIME IS FREEZE-P TIME!

One would be inclined to think that if water and sewer lines are going to freeze up, that the logical time is mid-winter when temperatures hit rock bottom. But is is not necessarily the case.

Most trouble occurs, as it presently is, in towns and villages, in the spring of the year. Frost seems to have a habit of going down instead of up and out in the spring. Summers are busy thawing out pipes and lines and getting water valves back in operation.

A particular source of trouble are those lines situated in low-lying areas where depth of pipe laying is as shallow as possible and yet allow suitable functioning of the facility.

WHIST DRIVE HELD AT BELLSHILL

A whist drive was held at Bellshill on Friday March 31st with ten tables playing. Prize winners were: Firsts, Mrs Wm. This was the final drive of the season and winners of the highest scores were: Mrs Paul Van Hache and Wm. Adamson. The session's consolations went to Emily McKenzie and Paul Van-Hache. Last drive of the season is at Coons Creek on April 7th.

HARDISTY NEWS

Mr and Mrs Jim Thorp have returned from visiting their son Robert in British Columbia.

In rain, water accumulates on a road surface and a car begins to "aquaplane" or "surfboard" as speed increases, particularly above 35 miles an hour. Above 70, the tires are usually riding off the road altogether, and the driver loses control. The Canadian Highway Safety Council warns, when it rains, reduce speed.

Centennial Boosts Tourist Industries

MONTREAL, MARCH 21 — Canada's Centennial celebrations can be expected to have a strong influence on the country's tourist industry in the years ahead, according to the Bank of Montreal, in its Business Review for March, just issued. The experiences of the visit urs who will be in this country in such large numbers are bound to have a lasting impact on the fortunes of the tourist industry.

"It seems reasonable to assume that, with all the activities planned in connection with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of confederation, the Canadian travel account will show a strong improvement in 1967, since these activities are expected not only to draw many more visitors to this country than ever before but also to influence Canadians to spend a dollar of their travel budget in their own country." The B of M states.

Spending on international tourism has been increasing by about 15 per cent annually in recent years and Canada's share of the total is about 4 per cent.

On a per capita basis, Canadians spend far more money on international tourist activities than the residents of almost any other country, and about three times as much as our neighbors to the south.

"Nevertheless, all the United States residents taken together spend a very great deal of money on international tourism and, although Canada's share of this has declined markedly in the postwar period, our travel account with that country in recent years has been showing a sizeable surplus."

But the bank points out, "the traditional deficit with overseas countries has widened with the result that Canada's overall balance continues to be in deficit, as it has been in every year but one for the past decade and a half."

Summarizing the various activities planned to mark the centennial the Bank of Montreal states, " Certainly Canadians will have an unprecedented opportunity to welcome both their fellow countrymen and tourists from abroad in such a way that they will want to come back again."

The Politic And Politics!

We became quite disturbed the other day when talking to a old friend. We were discussing public affairs, and he said, "politics is a real dirty game, and only for mugs." You can understand our being disturbed as we wondered how much truth there might be in his remarks.

Looking in the dictionary we found that the word politics is "the art of government" and a politician is one engaged in the art of government. Well, this sounded alright to us, until we looked at the word "politic" and discovered it meant a variety of things, among them, wise, expedient, shrewd and cunning..

From all this we concluded that our friend was half right and half wrong. Politics as we know it, and as it is practiced in our day, has become dirty in its name as well as practice. It has become "expedient" for the "wise" politician to be "shrewd" and practice "cunning" tactics if he is to hold his own in the political arenas of the country. In fact we sometimes feel that the cunning politician is more popular than the wise one.

However we feel our friend is wrong in classifying politics as a mug's game. This is the very character who must be eliminated from politics if we ever expect to get anywhere; and his elimination rests squarely on the shoulders of people like my good friend. There is strong evidence that a provincial election will be held this summer. How many of us will take a good hard look at the men and women running for office, pick the one best suited to guide the destinies of Alberta for the next four years? How many of us will vote the "ticket" regardless of the worth of the candidate? How many of us are directly responsible for placing "deadwood" in parliament, and keeping it there?

But There's A Problem!

The one big fault we can find with above argument is that the calibre of men and women we must have in politics are hard to come by. The individual who is a successful businessman, farmer, rancher, has no time for such things as politics. He is too busy doing what comes naturally for him. He's tending to it and that's why he's successful.

This is not to say, of course, that every aspirant for political office is a "floater", a no-good or a plain nincompoop. There are some good men and women in politics today. Our problem is there just aren't enough of them and there are too many of the other kind.

We, too, are faced with the age-old problem of party policy. You must adhere to the party policy even if you have to lose your conscience in the process. Impossible as it may sound today, there are still men among us who refuse to let this happen. These are the ones we need in politics. But they are just too honest to accept.

Are You The Man!

Recently an Associaiton included the following item in its bulletin to members: Help wanted — Nationally known political party is seeking a leader, one with mature judgement, a forceful leader, who will rule rather than be ruled. Candidates need not be bilingual but are preferred. The man selected will be capable of telling provincial premiers that Ottawa will run the country and that Canada will remain a Dominion & not a group of individual states. This leader must be capable of deciding between a minister of finance who will keep out of private enterprise entirely, or one who will enforce a program of wage and price freezing for everyone. Applicants currently receiving the old age pension will not be considered. Fringe benefits unlimited. Salary open to negotiation between the successful candidate and the men he selects to assist him. Considerable travel abroad involved. This is a senior position offering unlimited opportunities and challenge for a dynamic executive to go down—in history. Apply to Liberal Headquarters, Ottawa, Conservative Headquarters, Ottawa, Social Credit Headquarters, Ottawa, N D P Headquarters, Ottawa, Canada.

Car Check Campaign!

The annual campaign to emphasize the importance of vehicle maintenance will again be observed across Canada during April and May. The campaign will stress the responsibility of the car owner to maintain his car in safe operating condition.

Much prominence is given today to the safe car and to car safety features, but the safest car in the world soon becomes unsafe without proper care and maintenance.

The campaign will underline the ability of the car owner to discover potential weaknesses in his car's glass, horn, wipers & washers, lights, turn signals, the steering, brakes and exhaust, & have them repaired before they become serious.

Few owners remember the proper inflation for their car's tires. The manual provided with each car lists the correct inflation for front and rear tires, yet the motorist seldom can tell the service man how many pounds he needs in the tires. Strict adherence to these inflation rules is very important, not only for safety but for economic reasons. Underinflation of a tire results in flexing which builds up excessive heat and increases the risk of tire failure. It also causes rapid wear on the tire's outer edges and may cause internal damage to the tire.

Check the air pressure at least once a month, when tires are cool, preferebly after the vehicle has been parked for at least three hours, or driven less than a mile at slow speed. Under inflation results in improper contact with the road surface.

Judicial Inquiry To Investigate N.D.P. Charges

by John Warren

Suggestions that the matter of impropriety raised by Garth Turcot wouldn't be heard again cast misty proved incorrect.

As a matter of fact — except for an election date — no subject was given more thought or study during the entire week. And certainly the latest moves have made it the keenest topic for building up tension that the legislature has yet seen.

Mr. Turcot met the assembly's deadline by bringing in four specific charges and 54 documents as supporting evidence.

Premier Manning took only one day to premise "full and proper investigation." And he took one until Thursday to inform the house that this would take the form of a judicial inquiry into two of the four charges.

Originally these are that Municipal Affairs Minister Hooke and former Provincial Treasurer Hinman used their offices, or attempted to use them, for personal gain.

All week's end everything was simmering gently — waiting for Mr. Manning to get up Monday and announce what form the inquiry would take, what its terms of reference would be and so on.

If he failed to do so both Mr. Turcott and Opposition Leader Shumiatcher were prepared to ask for details — which, of course, the premier doesn't have to provide.

It makes for a very exciting climax to the session and an equally exciting way to start an election campaign.

Even the White Paper outlining the government's philosophy for years to come, can't compete with that. The White Paper, incidentally, was endorsed unanimously by the house after limited debate.

With that matter finally out of the way it almost appeared that the house had nothing more to discuss. But that was merely an illusion. The election possibility, of course, was on everybody's mind — just when would the announcement be made?

There was also the controversy over appointment of an ombudsman. The committee which studied 235 applications came up with the name of George McClellan, commissioner of the RCMP. But it put its recommendation in the form of a motion which opened the whole subject up for debate.

Then there were all the bills to study in detail. Some of them, such as the one that would provide closer scrutiny of trust company operations, came to for considerable wrangling.

Other bills were delayed for amendment after potential flaws had been pointed out.

There was a motion by Liberal Bill Switzer that old age pensioners who own their homes be exempted from the school land tax.

And there was the controversy over the new Municipal Act which will combine the provincial statutes that now cover cities, towns, villages and other municipal jurisdictions.

This was prompted a full committee hearing which allowed local governments to take up a long volume their objections to various clauses.

The most contentious is one that would establish a tribunal to study and review decisions of all local governments. It is intended only in for considerable study yet.

However the government promised in February that the bill would not be introduced in its final form until next spring. That still stands.

Annual Shuffle

OTTAWA — Appointments of Ministers of Justice in the Pearson cabinet have become annual events. The Liberal Government has been in power less than four years but last week saw the 4th incumbent sworn in, a member of Parliament for less than one and a half year's standing. And with each new appointment the age level has dropped. Pierre Trudeau, member for Mount Royal, Quebec, is just 44.

It is no reflection on the present Minister or his predecessors to say that the Pearson appointees so far that number, those of the Diefenbaker Government, have not been men of the stature of the late Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe or the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent. Mr. Pearson has restricted the practice of filling the post from Quebec but so far not with Quebec members. In the rest of the country Lionel Chevrier was sometimes mentioned as such, but in Quebec he was considered an interloper from Ontario. For this reason only his choice as the Minister of Justice was not a happy one and it at least entered the picture when he resigned to become High Commissioner to the United Kingdom.

Chevrier's successor, Guy Favreau fitted the picture better and was in fact until recently chairman of the Quebec caucus. His tenure lasted nearly a year and a half when a combination of ill-health and ineptitude which crushed political troubles on the Justice Department brought the transfer to the Privy Council portfolio. Lucien Cardin, his successor, who has held the post since July 1965, will be remembered for misdirectedly re-opening the Munsinger case and incurring the displeasure of Prime Minister Pearson. The surprise was not Mr. Cardin's resignation but the fact that it did not come sooner.

Meanwhile the department itself has been demoted, stripped of so many of its functions that it is little more than a drafter of Parliament's and legal advisor to Government departments. In these functions at least the new Minister will have his ability. A graduate in law from the University of Montreal he has done graduate work at both the University of Paris in law and the London School of Economics in political science and economics. In 1961 he was appointed associate professor of law at the University of Montreal.

Mr. Trudeau in cabinet could prove more than a competent drafter of laws and legal advisor. He was one of three bright Liberal hopes in Quebec in the last election. While they failed to swell Liberal ranks from Quebec in the House of Commons, they added three able politicians. Trudeau himself is a left of centre Liberal reformer. A strong individualist and intellectual. He has strong views on Quebec, no use for separatism and little more for Daniel Johnson except of associated status. He was one of the founders of Cite Libre, a critic of the policies of Government and in the past has had harsh words for the Pearson administration. This fact has not been lost on Mr. Diefenbaker who comments with characteristic irony that his conversion has been speedier than that of Saul on the road to Damascus.

If Mr. Trudeau does not succeed in breaking the chain of the weak Ministers of Justice he will bring a new type of colour to the portfolio. His individualism extends to his dress which is likely to become a legend on Parliament Hill. He is wont to wear sandals rather than shoes and often scorns ties. He says his reservation to Cabinet won't change his habits.

Few cabinet shuffles have been more accurately forecast in advance. Perhaps the only surprise was the Trudeau appointment to a senior post. Walter Gordon was, obviously due for a portfolio and the presidency of the Privy Council which is a nominal one, will allow him to devote full time to the Cabinet study of foreign investment. John Turner, brilliant 37 -year-old lawyer has represented St. Lawrence - St. Georges (Montreal) since 1962 & has been a Minister without portfolio since December 1965. He has been acting Registrar General during Mr. Favreau's illness and now assumes the portfolio. Jean Chretien, another lawyer whose ability is rivalled only by a modest claim which stands him in good stead, becomes at 32 one of the youngest Cabinet Ministers in Canadian history. He has been Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Finance and as Minister without portfolio will be free to continue the job Erwenyton he may well become the first Quebec Minister of Finance in recent history.

The Favreau and Cardin resignations not only from the Cabinet but from the House of Commons will leave two Quebec vacancies, Papineau and Richelieu-Verchere. Both seats have been Liberal since their creation. Mr. Favreau held Papineau in 1965, with an all-over majority over 6 opposition candidates. Mr. Cardin has held Richelieu-Verchere ever since 1962.

TURKEYS ARE AMERICANS!

Turkeys now on sale come from Turkey. They originated in the south parts of North America and prob ably the northern section of South America. The Spanish conquerer, Pizzaro, came across them in the 16th Century and sent a consignment to Spain, from whence they were introduced into the Near East by the Moors, who then visited most of the northern fringe of Africa.

Europeans brought the fowl from the Ottoman Empire (Turkey) to their home countries. So that is how Tom Turkey got his name.

To most people the most delicious meat available to mankind is roast turkey. Originally, it was the main course for dinners at Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day. It was then expensive. But now turkey meat is available at very reasonable prices throughout the entire year.

The modern turkey retains some of the instincts of its primitive ancestors. It is still, to some degree, a wild game bird, GOODBAAAA MARCH. It has been said that sometimes March comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb. Well, we've decided to show photographic pro- of the age-old saying. This little fella in British Columbia turned around and said goodbaaa on the final day of March. We're told he then winked quickly and gave a knowing glance to await the spring breezes and warm weather April brings.

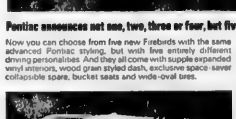
If you thought Pontiac was coming out with just another sports car, you don't know Pontiac!

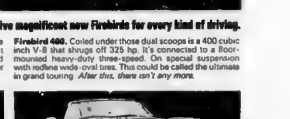
Pontiac announces not one, two, three or four, but five magnificent new Firebirds for every kind of driving.
Now you can choose from five new Firebirds with the same advanced Pontiac styling, but with five entirely different driving personalities. And they all come with supple expanded vinyl interiors, wood grain styled dash, exclusive space-saver collapsible spare, bucket seats and wide-oval tires.
Firebird 400. Coiled under those dual scoops is a 400 cubic inch V-8 that shrugs off 325 hp. It's connected to a floor-mounted heavy-duty three-speed. On special suspension with redline wide-oval tires. This could be called the ultimate in grand touring. After this, there isn't any more.

Firebird HO. HO stands for High Output. As a split second behind the wheel will attest to. The Firebird HO boasts a 285-hp V-8 with a four-barrel carburetor, dual exhausts and sport steering. Standard stick is column-mounted three-speed. Naturally, all Firebird options are available.

Firebird 326. Is there room for a family in a sports car? There is now. The excitement of a sports car with the practicality of a 326 cubic inch V-8 that delivers 250 hp on regular gas. Standard transmission is an all-synchro three-speed, but you can order an automatic.



Firebird Sprint. Now you don't have to go to Europe for a sophisticated road machine. This is the 215-hp version of our sager Overhead Cam Six. It's mounted on special suspension that practically welds it to the road. (Any road!) With a floor-mounted all-synchro 3-speed.



Firebird. This is our economy Firebird—with the same exciting options and interiors as the more exotic ones. It's Overhead Cam Six squeezes 165 hp from regular for inexpensive fun driving. See them all at your Pontiac dealer's.

SOIL SAMPLING!
We have word from D. H. Lavarty Supervisor of Soil Testing, that the Laboratory can process about 1000 samples per week. He points out that quite accurate estimates of the amount of fertilizer that should be applied with this year's crop, can be made through the testing of the spring soil samples. It is better to know how much nitrogen and phosphorus should be added to the soil rather than simply guessing.
Soil sample kits are available at your District Agriculturist's office in Alberta.

TREE GARDEN!
After several years of co operation the local Department of Agriculture, the Agricultural Service Board and the Sedgewick Golf Course have made some concrete progress towards planting a demonstration tree garden at "Arboretum".
Fifty different kinds of trees and shrubs will be planted on a triangular area in the north-west corner of the Sedgewick Golf Course. They will be labeled so people can identify the plants. Interest in tree planting is increasing and we feel this tree farm garden will help people become more familiar with the different kinds of trees & shrubs, how they grow and what they look like.
These trees will be arriving this spring. People will be welcome to inspect the planting at any time.

IT'S TIME TO PROJECT

Is Defence Minister Hellyer, as he presses relentlessly for unification of Canada's armed forces, marching them straight into the twenty-first century, or straight into an abyss?

It depends on whom you listen to. these days, as one admiral after another goes down with all guns blazing. But I don't like the idea myself

What will happen, for example, to the old, friendly give-and-take atmosphere that was prevalent among the services in World War II? You remember When our air force used to bomb and strafe its own troops and ships. And the army and navy regularly took pot-shots at their own aircraft. All this jovial camaraderie will be lost.

Another thing Who will the new forces fight when they go ashore on leave? If there are no soldiers, sailors or airmen to tangle with, they'll have to fight among themselves or beat up civilians A bad show, either way

But these are minor things,which could probably be ironed out in about 98 years. There is another, & more frightening, danger implicit in the formation of a single force. Dictatorship.

"Oh, come now", you say "Don't be ridiculous. It could never happen here. This is a democracy. Conditions would never put up with it."

Don't kid yourself! Canadians who will put up with the theft of government, taxes and weather we have now would put up with anything. And the whole business would be as painless as kicking off your old galoshes and putting on a new pair of rubbers.

Let's project a little Say 20 years into the future Here's the picture We have a doddering, fumbling, inefficient government So what's new, you ask.

Don't interrupt The only reason this government is in is that the opposition is even more hopeless

By its tax policies, this feeble federal government has alienated both rich and poor, and has infuriated the middle-class The provinces thumb their noses at it. Quebec treats it with Gallic scorn, while bleeding it to death with blackmail.

The United States is angry with it for its crushing taxes on the two-thirds of the country owned by U.S. corporations. The United States is also dagsmted with it for its vacillating foreign policy

A dim picture Yes, but there is one flaming torch in the heart of this darkness That is Unifarce.

It's the only thing in the country that Canadians are proud of. It is a crack force in every sense Every one of the 100 000 men is handpicked They are the physical and mental elite of the generation. Their pay equals that of the average university professor Their equipment is the best in the world Their esprit de corps is superb

And they've earned the right to swagger a bit, and push civilians off the sidewalk and spenly pinch the bottoms of young matrons In the Lower Frombosia incident, they proved themselves a tough, efficient and ruthless fighting machine. In the Upper Cambodia affair, they stamped out communism ,socialism, democracy and the entire native population in two weeks. Time Magazine sick-named them the Canadian Villians

And the creator of this magnificent fighting force, envied by the whole world? Two-fisted, jut-jawed Joe Canthold, the aggressive young Defence Minister, now safely main in the cabinet who got things done. And people done in.

Before entering politics, the Honorable Joey as the papers called him fondly, had fought his way to the top in the trade unions, thus learning what democracy was all about either guns down with all guns blazing But I don't like the idea myself

What will happen, for example, to the old, friendly give-and-take atmosphere that was prevalent among the services in World War II? You remember When our air force used to bomb and strafe its own troops and ships. And the army and navy regularly took pot-shots at their own aircraft. All this jovial camaraderie will be lost.

GOING TO THE HOGS United States farmers say they'll stand firm in their demand that creameries increase the price of milk paid to the farmers by two cents per hundredweight. Members of the National Farmers Organization are dumping millions of gallons of milk, and some, like these, are giving it to hogs. In Canada, farmers also are demanding higher milk prices.

A Few Hardisty Flakes

(By Postie)

Well, Postie is really overdoing it by packing out two columns in succession. I'm really not up to it today as I attended some of those wedding dances last night, and although a grand time was had by all, I must admit that the years are beginning to tell. I'm really beat.

This week I am going to address my few words to our younger generation. I've always felt that I have been able to communicate with them, having two daughters of my own; one out of her teens and the other in the last year of her teens. I do enjoy talking with all of our future citizens.

I was in conversation with a lovely young lady last week, and asked her if she had chosen a career yet. She replied, "Oh, yes, I'm going to get married." Now I think she was having fun at my expense, but I'm not certain. I think that our young people who are completing their school years a big decision to make. They have to decide on a trade or training that will have a bearing on their whole life. It was easy when I was in my teens for we had no such tough decisions to make. In most cases finance dictated that we either quit school or continue. I would like to see a career counselor and have to decide from the many fields or training that are offered today.

I do think that most of our teachers know your potentialities better than we do as parents, as they actually spend more time with you. I think that we are most fortunate in having a Principal like Mr. Stave at Central High, who shows so much interest in his students, not only when they are at school, but after they leave to go into other fields of learning. It amazes me how he can remember so many of them that have passed through his school. Yet he still asks how and what our daughters are doing.

I know that it is most tempting today, especially for boys, to quit school, as the labor market is after for such attractive wages for most jobs, even the unskilled. In my day I worked for 10c a day during summer holidays and was glad to get that much for spending money. I know I could have done much better in school had I put a little more effort into it. I found this out later in the army. I didn't join up until I received my registered notice after my 21st birthday, so decided right there that if I had to go I would make the best of it. I took several courses and even studied in the washroom until two a.m. It paid off as I found that I was always near the top of the class even though I was up against others who had completed their high school and even a year of university. I ended up the youngest W. O 2 in the battalion of 1000 men. I know it will sound like I'm blowing my own horn, but I am trying to get the point across that you can often surprise yourself by a little more effort.

To you young ladies who want to quit school to get married, I would say that an education is the best insurance you can invest in. You just never know when you may have to help bring home the bacon due to illness or other reasons, and it does give you that feeling of independence to know that you have something to fall back on.

Well folks, I've rattled on long enough and I'm afraid this might sound like a lecture, but it is not intended as such. It's just a little talk with you young people who will be moulding the future of Canada.

I would like to remind our Hardisty readers that we are not permitted to handle subscriptions in the Post Office, but my wife can take them at the house So if your Community Press is due just drop in a the house, or give her a call at 888-3883. With that I'll sign thirty and get this in the mail. — Postie.

Bank Of Montreal Goes Into Mortgage Lending Field

MONTREAL: The Bank of Montreal has moved competitively into the mortgage lending field on a national basis and will put limit loans to the large centres of the country.

The bank's chairman and president, G. Arnold Hart, said the full B of M branch organization, serving small centres across Canada as well as major cities, will resume mortgage lending under the National Housing Act and enter the conventional mortgage field, as empowered by the revised Bank Act, effective May 1.

Branches will commence processing applications immediately, on the basis of 7 1/4 per cent interest on N.H.A. loans and at prevailing rates in the areas concerned for conventional mortgage loans.

"We realize the great need for mortgage funds at the present time in the smaller centres of Canada and we propose to recognize this need in the allocation of mortgage funds," Mr. Hart said.

"With our strong branch organization, now exceeding 1,200 offices, we are in a position under the revised Bank Act where we can be of real assistance to home-buyers in all parts of the country — not only in those urban centres where mortgage funds have tended to concentrate hitherto."

Under N.H.A. provisions, loans for new construction will be available to a maximum of 95 per cent of the appraised value, and up to 75 per cent for new and existing properties under conventional arrangements.

Loans will not be limited to single unit residential property and in some cases will be available for small commercial and industrial projects.

Following an Ottawa announcement on Friday afternoon that the N.H.A. mortgage rate would be reduced from 7 1/4 per cent to 7 per cent, the Bank of Montreal said that it would accept applications for N.H.A. mortgage loans at the new rate.

EXPO 67 — A WEEKLY LOOK AT EXPO 67

By TRACY S. LUDINGTON

Canadians visiting Expo will see a Canadian Pavilion of which they can be justly proud.

The structure is spacious, tasteful and original in design.

It will take its place alongside the United States Pavilion or the Soviet Pavilion or any other at the exhibition, and not come out second best.

It is the largest of the pavilions, and one of the highlights will be indigenous Canadian dishes — fine foods and fine beverages.

While the way to man's heart, it has been said, is through his stomach, Canadian exhibitions and Canadian exhibits at other fairs and exhibitions have not always stressed the finest in Canadian foods.

But at Expo from the end of April to the end of October — things will be different.

Restaurants in the spacious Canadian pavilion will seat 650 persons at a time, and the snack bars will handle another 1,500 an hour.

What will be on the menu?

Well, for one thing, the Arctic specialties — including the famous Arctic char, and of course, whale steak.

Then, native Canadian dishes such as buffalo steak, tortieres and tarte-sous-cuve.

And chiefly - international specialties, but concocted with Canadian ingredients.

Then there's Acadian seafood, Gaspe trout, B.C. salmon, and many many more.

The decor in the main dining room and adjacent cocktail lounge will create an Arctic atmosphere, with Eskimo murals, carved soapstone tupcerina.

There will even be tundra shrubs and moss on an adjoining terrace.

Baptist Church

There was a good attendance at the Sunday morning service. Miss Betty Gordon sang a solo. Pastor Nethercott spoke on the topic, "Is It Really True?" Pastor Nethercott's daughter Joan arrived Sunday from Minneapolis to spend the next few months at home.

Two special numbers were rendered at the evening service. Mrs. Ralph Sorensen and Mrs Cecil Lewis sang a duet, and a duet was also given by Pastor Nethercott and his daughter Joan. Sermon topic was "Not By Might."

The CYF met Friday evening in the church with Judy Danielson in charge of the program. It was decided not to hold the regular meeting next week. Several members are in hospital, and we wish them a speedy recovery.

Quota from C. S. Lewis: "A silly idea is current that good people do not know what temptation means. This is an obvious lie. Only those who try to resist temptation know how strong it is."

IS A SALE A BARGAIN?

At this time of sales, be they Clearance Sales, Year-end Sales or White Sales, on seeing the word "Sale" or "Special" we immediately think it will be a bargain. Don't be confused or taken in by loud words such as these that mean synonymous but in reality are not.

The advertising people have a language of their own which may seem confusing.

"Regular" — When the word Regular appears before a price (regular $2.95) this means that the store normally sells the item in its regular stock for that price. Now it is marked down for the sale.

"Value" — Means the item was bought specifically for the sale and the value set by the retailer. It has never been in the store's general stock.

"Manufacturer's Close Out" — Things like leftovers, unwanted samples, discounted and soiled items will be sold at a reduced rate. The expensive and less-expensive will be sold; therefore, it is extremely important that you are able to distinguish the quality.

"Irregular" — Indicates a small deviation from Government standards. One of the best irregular buys is hosiery, as there must be much accuracy involved in the knitting, weaving and sizing process. There is no need to be afraid of this as the irregularity is so small one will not notice it.

Daysland Celebrates Sixty Years As A Town

DAYSLAND — On Saturday, April 15th Daysland celebrated their 60th Anniversary as a Town. It was also the occasion of the official turning-on of the Natural Gas System which is town owned.

A banquet was held at 6:00, prepared and served by the Homemaker Club, for the Government officials, gas officials, the pioneers who arrived in Daysland by 1907, Clergy, Mayor, Town Councillors and their wives. After dinner Mr. Holcomb proposed the toast to the Queen; the Rev. McNeil proposed a toast to the Oddtimers, which was replied to by Mr. Jim Gordon. definitely in. Deadline for entries is set at April 28th. All entering teams are to send reps to the meeting on that date in Killam Town Hall. The entry fee for this league is $10.00.

A motion was passed that the league be called the Flagstaff Fastball League. Statistics are to be kept for batting averages, runs, etc.

Discussion at first centered on the desirability of having a league. Most present felt that the enjoyment, interest and calibre of play would be improved by formation of a league. A motion that a league be formed was passed. A motion was also passed to set up a league board whose board would be composed of a player and a non-player from each team in the league, and be selected by the team representatives.

Discussion followed on teams who would be possibly entering. Sedgewick as yet seemed unable to raise a team. A rural team from Prague was a possibility. Killam would have at least one team. Alliance & the Young Social Crediters were

The last provincial election was held four years ago, on June 17th, 1963.

Fastball League Being Organized

On Saturday, April 15th a Men's Fastball League formation meeting was held in the Killam Town Hall. Reps were present from 3 teams — Alliance, Killam and the Young Social Crediters (playing from Merna). Dick White was elected as the chairman of the meeting and Doug Munro as secretary.

Socreds Nominate Mr. Jack Hillman

A crowd beyond expectations turned out to nominate the sitting member, Jack Hillman, to again be the Social Credit candidate in the Sedgewick Coronation provincial constituency; 133 voting delegates, plus many visitors attended the nominating convention held at Coronation on April 17th.

In his nomination speech Mr. Hillman referred to his ceaseless efforts in the past to this constituency. In his past four years of service he noted two new Seed Cleaning Plants, highway work on No. 13 and No. 4, new active and auxiliary hospital at Killam, development of the two provincial parks, and a new provincial building at Coronation. He noted that he was the first M.L.A. to introduce student trips to the Legislature, and the only one sponsoring an essay contest. His pledges for the future included more highway work and a Nursing Home and Senior Citizen Home at Sedgewick.

Mr. Les Isaman, who contested the nomination, expressed a desire for younger men, more highway work and better farm prices. He also sternly criticized the NDP member, Garth Turcott, for his destructive type of criticism.

A new constituency executive was elected as follows:

Pres., John Poloshyrbe, Daysland; 1st Vice, Les Isaman, Consort; 2nd Vice, Mrs. Butterworth, Brownfield; 3rd Vice, Art Carvey, Veteran.

Numerous guests were in attendance, including, Orvis Kennedy, Social Credit League President, Garnet Peterson, Prov. Organizer, Hon. Mr. Russel Patrick, Minister of Mines and Minerals. Play Draws Large Crowd

HARDISTY — A large number of local and district people enjoyed the three-act comedy play "Nothing But The Truth" produced by the Hughenden Dramatic Club, and sponsored by Hardisty's CWL.

The play, under the direction of Rev. M. C. Heffernan, was very well acted, with each character actually looking and acting the parts.

Five long months of rehearsing & practice was put into the play. Besides the work of the cast, a great deal of credit goes to the backstage helpers for the stage settings.

Entertainment of this type is seldom seen in this day and age, but from the applause and laughs, there should definitely be more.

The cast in the play was as follows: John Wagemaker, Bill Karth; Mrs. Hunter, Paul Lefebvre; Clara, Wagemaker, Don Brown; Mrs Gordon, Mrs Svolin; Mrs Black, Mrs. Davies; Alan Darcus. Director, Fr. Heffernan. The play was held in the Vista Theatre, Hardisty.

Babey Asks Support From Alberta Farmers

In a message which was relayed from Ottawa, Paul Babey, President of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, called on all farmers in the Province to support the Stop Burying action, announced that morning, in the nation's capital, by the National Farmers Union Council.

He asked all Alberta farmers to take their produce only to Canada from Ontario to B. C., and 48 States in the United States, in a international moratorium on the purchase of new farm machinery, cars and trucks, appliances & other durable goods.

Mr. Babey said the boycott is to remain in effect until such time as there is evidence that Government is taking definite steps to establish a realistic agricultural policy for Canada.

The FUA President also said that pledge cards are being mailed to the organization's 27,000 members. Each member will also receive an extra pledge card to give for those who are not currently members of the FUA.

Those receiving pledge cards are being asked to indicate the items they had planned to buy, to show the approximate value of the deferred purchases and return the cards to FUA Central Office.

In addition to a symbolic national agricultural policy the Stop Burying campaign has stated one of its main objectives to be immediate action to deal with the problem of diminishing farm net income.

Springlike Weather Late In Arriving

It may be spring according to the calendar, and it may be spring in some parts of the country, but between old man winter has not decided to leave the scene

On Saturday night heavy winds and snow put the area back into the winter, and with the prevailing cold winds this week, fields, roads and streets are slow in drying out.

The weatherman says there are better things in store soon, and we hope he's got the right message.

Accidents Down - Deaths Up

A slight downtrend in traffic accidents in Alberta during the first two months of 1967 has not been matched by lower death and injury tolls, says the Alberta Safety Council. A summary for February shows death and injury totals ahead of last year for the same period.

During February, traffic accidents reached 3333, below 3400 for the first time since October of 1966. Although the February period this year shows 413 more accidents than the same period in 1966, cumulative totals for 1967 are still 1.5% below 1966 levels on the same date.

However, there were 23 traffic deaths in February, two more than in February 1966. Total Jan.-Feb. deaths were 62, up 2.5% over 1966.

It is still too early to say that a trend has been established for the year. However, if this pattern continues, 1967 may see fewer accidents, costing substantially more in terms of property damage, lives lost and injuries sustained.

Legislature Ends After 41 Days

by John Warren

Well, it finally ended after nine long, tough weeks.

The fifth session of the 15th Alberta Legislature prorogued after 41 sitting days, 100 bills, half a dozen controversial reports and the promise of a judicial inquiry into the affairs of Municipal Affairs Minister Hooke and former Provincial Treasurer Hinman.

The inquiry prompted by the New Democratic member of Pincher Creek-Crowsnest — Garth Turcott, took most of the limelight.

Mr. Turcott's accusations, his methods and his alleged evidence drew the wrath of everyone in the house, including the other opposition members. But his charges also drew the first investigation of any aspect or members of the government in 12 years.

It will be up to the inquiry to decide whether there actually was any impropriety on the part of the ministers. But Mr. Turcott's allegations themselves made the session the most hectic in recent years. The issue also left a haggard Mr. Turcott very much in the public eye — for better or worse.

The controversy took much of the edge off the appointment of Canada's first ombudsman.

There were 223 applications for the $30,000-a-year job. A thorough screening job finally dealt with those and came up with the name of RCMP Commissioner George McClellan.

The selection of a policeman to help the public fight legal inquisition and big government has raised some eyebrows. It remains to be seen just what can be made of the position which will certainly be an experimental one for the first few years.

The White Paper introduced by Premier Manning was quiet and timidly the government's pride & joy. The Premier himself reiterated to it as the most important document in over 30 years of government.

At a few thousand pages it was also one of the largest. It outlined the government's program for development of the province, with the individual Albertan as the key.

Reports played a big part in the session.

There was one on health, suggesting a shake-up in the administration of the department. It also dealt with such diverse subjects as tobacco, sex and fluoridation.

A report on minor hockey paved the way for a committee that will help prevent exploitation of young players. And one on provincial jails said the service was in serious trouble unless better salaries and conditions are implemented at once.

The laws covering the sale of securities in Alberta were tightened up. The house passed a law against distributing the drug LSD, and calling for one year in jail for offenders.

Spending, naturally, hit another record. The budget of six million dollars calls for a second straight deficit of 67 million. Education will cost 306 million dollars and health will run up a bill of 198.

After all this it was only fitting that the legislature permit everybody to relax a little more, by loosening up the liquor laws. This they did.

And now it's time to start getting keyed up for the election, and for the results of the judicial inquiry. Centennial year will be a busy one.

No agreement or settlement was arrived at.

Three members of the Hutterite Colony located South East of Alliance interviewed the Board with respect to having two 15 year old children excused from further attendance in school. The children in question were required for help on the colony and furthermore, they contended, that in their way of life, higher education was unnecessary. The Superintendent felt that he, as attendance officer, could not recommend the children be excused from attendance because such action would not be in the better interest of the children, and further — this came under Provincial Authority for action. He informed the delegation however, that he would investigate further with the Chief Attendance Officer for the Province.

Correspondence was read and disposed of.

Meeting adjourned to reconvene on March 28th at 11:00 a.m.

SUGAR AND SPICE

by Bill Smiley

UNIFICATION: PART TWO

Remember where we left off? Twenty years from now. A weak central government, with everybody from the housewife to the U. S. government down on it.

A tough, ruthless Uniforce, popularly known as the Canadian Cobras, 100,000 strong. And jut-jawed Jon Garibaldi, former union leader, as Defence Minister.

The Honorable Joe vaulted into the House of Commons in a rather unusual fashion. One of his opponents withdrew from the campaign, his ballots promptly burned and cast in a world tear. The other was run down by a truck, just after addressing a meeting in which he had attacked the Honorable Joe. Both incidents occurred three days before election. Joe won.

He moved into Ottawa with several boozle-browned cohorts. A modest flat Not on your life. He took over an entire floor of the Chateau Laurier. There he lived quietly, with nothing to distinguish him from the average MP except the constant flow of champagne, call girls, and cocaine.

He was lavish with the press, and they liked it. He was always good for a story, because he had guts. Color and good whiskey, and manual combination in a member office House.

But the majority of his guests were stock-headed men who grew fat and sleep o'nights. Industrialists with a new gimmick, armaments makers with a new toy, politicians with a new angle, and all the other flies who gather around honey.

The Honorable Joe was the natural choice for Defence Minister. Black-jowled Lester Gordon, Prime Minister, last of Canada's Rhodes scholars, left in a vague sort of way the tiny Cabinet needed new blood.

Within two years he had quadrupled the defence repartment's slice of the national pie. That made it 80 percent. He served; taxes had not ticked but more, even though there hadn't been a new post office, a bridge or breakwater built in several years, everybody was proud of the Cobras, the world's finest fighting force.

And only a few oldfashioned members of the House thought it odd that the Cobras paid ten percent of their salaries, voluntarily, into the Old Soldiers Pension Fund. The chairman of the Fund, Joseph J. Garibaldi, fly 1967, of course, there were precious few old soldiers left, but they were well treated bythe Fund. Two glasses of beer a day, free candies, six-year-olds, and a sexy movie every Saturday night, whether or you wanted it or not.

Joe played it cool. He invited a couple of waiters from the Nanking restaurant up for a weekend hunt. Everybody thought he was flirting with the Chinese.

The U.S. State Department called an emergency session. The U.S. ambassador Ottawa, in the guise of civil servants. Of course, nobody recognized them. Each thought they were other civil servants spying on him.

Next thing he did was throw up a wing of Marines at Vancouver, Windsor, Brockville and St. Andrews-by-the-sea. He justified the expenses by pointing out, as a secret meeting of the caucus, that the men were stationed there, thus giving a boost to our pulp and paper industry. But the results were drastic.

The Americans pulled eight divisions out of Germany and sprinkled them along the 49th parrelled, about eight men to the mile They sent an aircraft carrier of the St. Lawrence Seaway. It got stuck sideways, but the residents of Prescott, Ontario, lost their coal for a few days, with those 10-horsers trolleys in them.

The entire U.S. Air Force was yanked out of South Africa, from which they had been supplying the Congolese. The Militz were ordered to be back in spot like Oswego, N.Y., where a hour was 25 cents instead of a buck. Families that wanted a whack at those Canadian Cobras, who were getting more spots to Life magazine than they were.

Also, once again, we have run out of space, and you must wait until next week's issue to find out how Canada was taken over by a dictator in the only bloodless invasion in history. Well, practically bloodless.

Drive Safely!

It takes from three to twelve times the distance to stop on snow and ice than it takes on dry concrete.

The expare driver keeps at least one car length between him and the car ahead, for each ten miles per hour speed he is driving.

This distance should be increased to even more space at high speeds, on slippery streets, and after dark.

Hardisty Flakes

(By Pestle)

Here I am, back again trying to find the hero on this odd typewriter. This week I am going to deal with this business of an acute housing problem in Hardisty. Ned Hamilton of Mrs. Pauline Butcher in the chair and nine members and two visitors present.

Hats off to those new residents who have enough confidence in the town's future to build new homes or remodel old ones. The problem as I see it is caused by those people who buy houses and then neglect them to do little or nothing to keep them up and improve them. Maybe they do not expect the rent received on the income tax returns, so do not have to be concerned about paying the income tax. To these people I would like to remind them that they may find things a little different if they were to have a lesson with the government where your building is inspected from time to time and repairs recommended. Further to this I would point out that by doing what I receive for rent as there is no way for me to avoid income tax if it applies. I even have to keep my sidewalks clear of snow, and before we had hard surface I had to rake up the rocks so patrons would not turn an ankle. Just to make things a little saier, when I am out mowing the lawns, I have people ask me if I am working off my taxes. Well they could be right, because if I paid for all these chores to be done I may not have enough left to pay my taxes.

I am informed by some farmers that they can find no room to park their trucks in the truck parking lot, due to it being blocked by farm machinery. Now before you consider parking your truck on main street, your are welcome to use the rest of my lot which runs from the P. O. to the alley behind the Red & White.

The other point that I am going to touch on is that I think our councillors and mayor should be paid for their monthly meetings. These men and women are letting their own work go and their recreation too, to attend these long meetings. This business of running the town's affairs is getting more complicated and demanding, and the meetings' agenda longer and longer. It is up to us as ratepayers to get behind this idea and promote it. Maybe then we could have elections as it is my bring forth other people capable of holding office. Well that's it for this go round. Hope that spring soon comes. — Pestle.

P. S. — In response to last night's news release I would say that a new broom sweeps clean, but an old broom also leaves lots of dirt.

Each competitor is given a 4 to 6 minute prepared talk and then gives an impromptu talk within one minute of receiving the topic.
One week later the Regional Eliminations will be held in the Killam Legion Hut. The top two speakers from each of the Camrose, Stettler, Coronation and Flagstaff districts will compete.
These 4H Public Speaking Eliminations are highlights for the club members & very interesting events to attend. Everyone is welcome to attend.
TREAT YOUR SHED!
Treat your seed this year to obtain maximum production at minimum cost.
J. B. Gurba, Supervisor of Crop Protection and Pest Control with the Alberta Plant Industry Division, reports that increased returns of about $4.00 per acre resulted when seed was treated with mercurials during field trials conducted over a five year period. The cost of treatment was about $1.00.
Although disease and invironmental conditions are different each year losses from disease are always sufficient to warrant treatment. Proper seed treatment will control such diseases as covered smut in wheat, oats and barley as well as loose smut in oats. Perhaps the most important benefit from seed treatment is the protection it provides against fungi in the soil. These fungi cause seed rot, seedling blight, root rot, etc. Fungi are particularly detrimental to seed germination and seedling growth under poor growing conditions.
Mr. Gurba strongly recommends treating all barley, wheat and flax seed each year with a recommended fungicide. Although mercurials are generally used, captan also can be used to treat flax.
4-H BEEF CLUB SALE!
This year the Annual 4-H Beef Club Sale will be held on Tuesday, June 6th.

Killam Old-Timer, Edward Forster Funeral Held At Knox United Church

Mr. Edward Henry Forster, an oldtimer of the Killam District, passed away on April 1st at the age of 68 years and 7 months. FILLING THE WORLD'S BREADBASKET
The harvest is in! A good harvest — a record-breaking history-making wheat harvest. And there is a story behind every bushel of it.
Although to the farmer goes vast credit for his knowledge, his ability and his labours, he alone could never have made the land yield the hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat that were harvested in the Prairie Provinces in 1966. This grain will now move from our granaries and elevators to the mills to help fill the world's empty bread basket. Only the joint efforts of the farmer and the scientist could have won the greatest single harvest of wheat ever produced in Western Canada. Looming large in this year's record harvest is the work of the Plant Scientists — the plant breeders, agronomists, pathologists and entomologists.
Conquering Wheat's Enemies.
Throughout the years, the Western Canadian wheat crop is menaced by many plant diseases, the most destructive of which are stem rust and leaf rust. diseases which have been known to damage over 100 million bushels of wheat in a single year. Smut is an ugly word and smut is the name of ugly spots in a wheat field. Covered smut (stinking smut) and loose smut can cause a loss of 3 million bushels of wheat in a single harvest. In the last twenty years, however, great strides have been made in curbing not only the dreaded rust and smut diseases, but in reducing losses from the root rots, leaf spots, head blights, and other diseases of wheat. Today, through the united efforts of Plant Scientists these diseases, as well as the wheat stem sawfly and many more crop-destroying insects, are slowly but surely being brought under control.
A Tribute. The Line Elevator Companies gratefully pay tribute to prairie farmers and to Canadian plant scientists for their outstanding achievement in 1966. By combining their efforts they were able to win the greatest single Canadian harvest of wheat ever produced to help fill the world's empty breadbasket.
Grain gave us strength to help win two wars. May Canadian grain help win world peace.

Banks Plan To Unveil Plaques

Trios of milestones will be commemorated simultaneously on Monday at Sedgewick and Daysland, when plaques are unveiled to observe the establishment of the first banks in the two communities, the Centennial of Confederation and the 75th anniversary of the Bank of Montreal.

The bronze tablets have been installed on the front exterior wall of the Bank of Montreal buildings in the two towns. At a local ceremony, Mayor Hedley Bailey will officiate, while at Daysland, Mayor William Stevens will perform the unveiling.

Clyde Clark and Charles Smith, managers of the Sedgewick and the Daysland B of M branches respectively, will preside.

It was in September, 1966 that the first banking facilities here were provided by the Merchants Bank of Canada, which later merged with the Bank of Montreal. Original premises were located in what is now a portion of the Pioneer Hotel. The branch was moved to other temporary quarters down the main street before being housed in the present State street building, erected in 1919.

OPENED IN SAME YEAR.

The Daysland branch also was established in 1906 by the Merchants Bank, six months prior to the opening of the Sedgewick office.

Initially located in the Angus Rental, the branch was moved the following year to premises on the east side of Main street. In 1933, an office was accepted at Main and Railway avenue and served until 1963, when the present building was erected.

158-YEAR-OLD BANK

The Sedgewick and Daysland branches are backed by Canada's senior financial institution.

Founder by nine Montreal merchants in 1817, the bank shortly afterward opened a branch in Quebec City. A third office at York, now Toronto, soon followed, and the branch-banking system was born. The B of M named Canada's first native currency loo.

Today, the Bank of Montreal has more than 1000 offices. Of these, 105 are in this province, directed by J. Buckley Jones, general manager for Alberta, resident in Calgary.

Other offices are located throughout Canada, and in the United States, Mexico, England, France, Germany, Japan and at Canadian armed forces' bases in France and Germany.

In conjunction with the Bank of London and South America, the B of M in 1958 founded the Bank of London and Montreal Limited, operating in Latin America and the Caribbean.

Annual Variety Show Presented At Hardisty

HARDISTY — The annual Variety Show presented by the Legion Auxiliary on Friday evening drew a crowd that filled the local school auditorium. With the theme of "Centennial Capers" the program featured both old time and modern numbers. Probably the most popular item was the singing of 4-year-old Curtis Archibald of Irma. His effortless stage manner coupled with his fine singing, have made him popular wherever he appears.

Action and costume songs by the school children were well done, as well as musical numbers from Lorraine Proudlove, the Jackson Orchestra of Irma, Laverne Whitehead and Eileen Rogers, and a fine duet by Nadine McClennan and Gwen Gascoyne. Mr. Steve of Sedgewick presented his puppet show and Murmer Sneed, to the special delight of the small fry. Members of the Auxiliary presented a pantomime, the "Shooting Of Dan McGrew" which though slightly marred by lighting problems, was well received.

A special feature of the evening was the salute to the Old Timers, during which a few items from the history of the district were given, with name of residents coming prior to 1914 and still here. In this respect the ladies wish to apologize to any who were omitted from the list. It was a large and complicated job & there may have been omissions.

Auxiliary president, Mrs. Ruby Brosnan, expressed her thanks to all who assisted in a successful production, especially those who came from out of town, and to the able M. C. Dick Gillespie.

Socreds To Collect Cast & Scrap Iron

The Sedgewick-Coronation Young Social Crediters met at the Sedgewick School gym on Mon. evening April 24th. A few games of Volleyball were enjoyed after which the group retired to Fardie's Banquet Room.

The nominations of Ralph Swanson and Jack Olsen were received for the position of President for the 1967-68 year. The complete executive will be determined at the annual meeting in June. Committees were appointed to be in charge of the float for the parades, and also one to be responsible for the plans for the Alberta-wide Young Social Credit Sports Day which may be held in this district. A Centennial Project (car scramble) was discussed.

Two new members were welcomed to the group, bringing the membership to thirty.

The football committee reported that they had attended the recent meeting and will be competing in a league. Much time was spent in deciding upon the type of ball suitable for desired. It was decided to purchase green with white uniforms with "Busy Bees" printed on them, and also the Social Credit crest and number. A motion was made that up to $25 be donated by the SCYSC for equipment.

The men decided to hold a scrap iron collection at which time they will visit interested farmers and gather cast iron and scrap iron, old batteries and copper, with all proceeds to go to the group.

Killam Hospital Auxiliary Makes 211 Visits To Sick

KILLAM — The regular meeting of the Killam Hospital Auxiliary was held April 6th with thirteen members and three visitors.

The quilt donated by Mrs. Badry was on display and books of raffle tickets were distributed. The H. A. will cater to the Lion dinner April 18th, and will serve luncheon at the official opening of the new Catholic Church on May 21st. The Cart circulated five times in March. Mrs. G. Bergerson and Mrs. E. Moser will take the cart during April.

Two hundred and eleven visits to the sick were reported. Mrs. N Moe or and Mrs Palmer Sr. are the April visiting and birthday committee.

Over 100 cards were folded during the meeting.

It is hoped several ladies will be found to attend the Regional Hospital Conference in Hanna April 28th.

Mrs. E. Chevrens and Mrs. Larmer presented a demonstration on May 4th when we hope to have a guest speaker.

Annual Hospital Day will be Monday, May 8th. The Auxiliary will be serving tea.

Golfers Elect Marvin Lawes

SEDGEWICK — The annual meeting of the Sedgewick Golf Club was held on Monday, April 17th with the following officers being elected: Pres., Marvin Lawes; Vice, Clyde Clark; Sec.-Treas., Ernie Lash. Executive and Grounds Com., Messrs Clyde Clark, Ralph Cooper, Hector Alexander, Adam Baptie, Jack Simpson and Erlin Lindquist.

The fees were set as before: For Goats $12.50, Ladies $5; Man and Wife $15; Family $17.50; Students at School $2.50. Green Fees 50c per round or $1 per day

The annual tournament was set for the last Sunday in August, the 27th, with R. Cooper and V. D Easthy in charge.

The district inter-club competition between Daysland, Forestburg, Viking and Sedgewick will start on May 15th and each Monday following, at 6:30 p.m.

A local tournament was suggested for around the end of May, with C Clark and H. Alexander to be in charge.

J. Simpson and A. Sapsie were appointed as membership committee. Some more efficient method of collecting green fees was discussed and left for decision by the executive committee.

Art Edwards and Brian Lee were to arrange the planting of different species of trees and shrubs in the plot set aside for the purpose, to be experimental in character, on behalf of the municipality.

Sunshine Club

HARDISTY — The April meeting of the Sunshine Club was held at the home of Mrs. Eugene Elm with 11 members and 1 visitor. Roll call was answered by giving spring housecleaning hints. Centennial projects were discussed. A donation of $10.00 was made to Red Cross. The quilted bedspread will be raffled on June 14th and will be on display in Young's Store in Hardisty.

Mrs. Danny Lawson won the beacon prize and Mrs Pearl Bowman the raffle. The next meeting will be on May 3rd at the home of Mrs. Don Fraser. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

HOMEMAKERS CLUB

LOUGHEED — On April 19th the Lougheed 4-H Homemakers held their final meeting of the year. Sharon Probst led the pledge. Roll call was answered with a clothing tag and a material sample.

Final arrangements were made for the trip to the Edmonton 4-H Jamboree on April 22nd. It was decided to hold another meeting to finish up the year's business. Achievement Day was planned.

Everyone is invited to attend the Homemaker Achievement Day to be held on May 3rd.

Board Of Trade Regular Meeting

SEDGEWICK — The regular April meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the banquet room of the Sedgewick Cafe with president H. W Smith presiding. There were 15 present, three of them new members, who were welcomed by the president.

Following supper, the regular business of the Board was attended to. It was noted that the Town had given a grant to the Board for the use of promotional work.

Crests are to be purchased for the Alberta Champion Bantam Hockey Team, out of Board funds.

Mr. C. Beairsto reported that the Kinsmen Club of Sedgewick have taken over the running of the Community Hall for a period of two years.

An investigation is to be made into grants, methods, etc for a program of further street paving in the town. A committee was formed to bring in plans, etc for a new illuminated bulletin board to be erected near the post office.

UNIFICATION: PART THREE

Remember? Its 1967 and we have Unilarce, alias the Canadian Cobras 100,000 strong, pure bone & gristle, master-minded by jut-jawed Jon Garibald, Minister of National Defence.

The Yanks are all upset because he is dickering with the Chinese, a couple of waiters from the Nanking restaurant. It's obviously a second Cuba in the making.

Joe gets a call from the White House. He states his terms, and bangs up. He knows his man. LBD, president of the U.S. of A., is a tough cookie. He came up through the unions, like Joe, but owns his position to the huge wealth of his wife, Mary Warner, of the hideously rich Boston Warners.

Twenty minutes later, Joe's phone rings. It's LBD himself. "Now, look, Joe. We don't want trouble. We paid eight million for Alaska and I think five million for the Louisiana Purchase thing. Yeah, yeah, we know there's inflation. How about a straight eight billion, after taxes? You want ten? Don't be ridiculous. We won't go a nickel past nine. After all, we own most of the country anyway. A deal? Right. Take over."

It wasn't quite that simple, of course. Joe had to call a meeting of the War Council. This group had supplanted the Cabinet, which was relegated to such tasks as studying the Immediate Housing Bill, introduced in 1968, and the Old Age Unemployment Act, prepared in 1969.

But it didn't take long. Joe had hand-picked his senior officers. Marshall-Admiral Lemuel Lamb had wanted to be King Louis the First of New Canada the Second. After Joe had explained how awkward this would be, Louis settled for the Honor conferred on all martyrs' shrines in the country.

The others went along. Colonel-Commodore Nils Jorgenson of Winnipeg balked a little at getting no more than the remaining mineral rights of the Prairie Provinces, but finally acceded, grumbling. The rest accepted what they got: The fishing rights in Hudson Bay, the Rocky Mountains, or whatever.

It was beautifully planned, perfectly timed. At noon on July 1st, our national holiday, the Cobras struck. Flying squads took over all communications media, without a drop of blood being shed.

Nearly everybody was pooped after the long, hot holiday, so that only a few heard Marshall-Admiral Lamb's announcement, on the 11 p.m. news, that Unilorce had unearthed and promptly squashed a Communist plot to take over the country.

Next day the full story came out, in all media, and the Honorable Joe was lauded for the speed and decision with which he had handled the emergency.

There weren't an iota of resistance. Parliament was on holidays. The Prime Minister was ill and in seclusion. The universities were closed, as there were no students' protests. The Mounties and militia had long since been disbanded as needless expense.

Everything was perfectly calm. Business as usual. Most Canadians were starting their holidays.

A few noticed that there were a lot of new radio and TV announcers and newspaper columnists, but they figured the new guys were just vacation replacements.

Then the good news started coming. Corporation, income and sales taxes were all to be reduced. Farm subsidies were to be raised. Food prices were to be lowered. Free housing for everybody making less than $5,000.

I guess I don't have to tell you the rest. Popular movement demanding a republic and "Joe for President." Joe's sincere statement that he had no ambition except to serve the Canadian people, through the democratic process. Big convention. Only stipulation for delegates was that they be members of Unilorce. Joe elected unanimously. You had to hand it to him. From President of the Destruction Workers' Union to President of the great Republic of Canada in a few short years.

That's all. Oh, a few people disappeared quietly here and there, but that was because of the new liquorless Act.

AGAINST WAR. A soldier from the famed U.S. Green Berets buries his draft card along with a number of other peace demonstrators during the recent peace parade in New York. It was the largest pacifist rally ever held in the U.S. with close to 200,000 demonstrators in New York alone. Some 140 Canadians were on hand to carry banners saying "Stop Canadian Complicity", referring to the Vietnam War

SNOW MOLD ON LAWNS!

If you have snow mold on your lawn this spring, you would be wise to step it from spreading by sweeping the white or greyish web-like growth off the grass with a stiff broom. A metal rake is not recommended because it scratches the grass roots.

According to F. D. McCalla, Superintendent of Horticulture with the Alberta Plant Industry Division, snow mold is by far the most common cause of winter injury to grass in Alberta. It may appear on the turf in the fall, winter or spring.

When the weather checks the fungus growth, injury to the grass may be only superficial, but even superficial damage can weaken the grass so that the point where snow mold crouchment is encouraged. Often the fungus penetrates the turf deeply enough to either kill or severely injure it.

Mr McCalla suggests that anyone who has snow mold on his lawn this spring might be wise to treat the turf toward the end of October or for protection the following year. He recommends using a 2-1 mixture of Calomel and corrosive sublimate at a rate of 3 to 4 ounces per 1000 square feet of lawn. Mixing of chemicals with sand makes them easier to spread.

"Lawn Building and Maintenance" specially prepared for Alberta gardeners by the provincial Horticultural Advisory Committee, will deal with snow mold and other aspects of lawn preparation and care. It is available from the Publication Branch of the Extension Division, Alberta Dept. of Agriculture in Edmonton and also from your D. A.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Wrong On Every Count

OTTAWA — Once upon a time not so long ago, there were people who said you could not build a World's Fair on an artificial island in Montreal harbour. A little later they were saying that the big fair that Montreal would be a crushing burden on the Canadian taxpayer.

Later still they wailed that Expo 67 would never be ready on time. And finally the complaint was that the criminal rackets had penetrated the Fair's organization and prospective visitors were being fleeced of millions.

They were wrong on every count. These voices are silent now. Those days it's hard to find a real, determined Expo-knocker.

The fact is that Expo is ready, that it's a fabulous achievement with success written all over. It is not crushed, its site is a thing of beauty and convenience, & it won't cost the Canadian taxpayer a cent.

As Expo 67 opens its gates for its six-month run, it offers a new world of marvel and delight to the 50 to 60 million people who are expected to be there.

Those who have been to the site for a preview of the attractions are almost unanimous — Expo 67 is clearly in the class of things superlative and a visit should be an unforgettable experience.

Sixty-two nations, from Algeria to Yugoslavia, have constructed pavilions on the man-made island in the St. Lawrence. Strange and wonderful shapes have risen there against the Montreal skyline, and the shapes contain exciting demonstrations of the best and finest of man's achievements.

In and around the site the Expo 67 visitor will have at hand the work of the best artists, actors and musicians in the world: there will be top sports attractions; displays of science and technology; expositions on the wonders of space, the promise of medical science; there will be fun and entertainment, food and drink of all kinds, for all tastes.

In short, the fair's theme of 'Man and His World' is all-inclusive, and its realization has been dramatically successful

Expo 67 was an ambitious project. It appears to be a smashing success even before opening day, but it's not surprising that from the beginning there were complaints and criticism

Three and four years ago, the determination of Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau to build a fabulous fair on an artificial island in the river seemed a rash and inopportune undertaking

After all, construction was starting two years later than it would have for most World Exhibitions The 1967 World Exhibition had formally been awarded to Russia, and it was not until Russian withdrew in 1962 that Canada was able to renew its bid and make the decision to go ahead.

What has happened since then has been an engineering and organizational feat that has probably never been matched in Canada.

The technical problems were immense, the costs frightening, the guarantees of success almost nonexistent.

Almost from the beginning, one of the major complaints of the numerous critics was cost. They predicted a deficit of hundreds of millions of dollars, and since so much depended on eventual attendance at the fair, it was difficult for anyone to make accurate estimates of the final cost.

Now, with the Fair upon us and most work complete, it is possible to make a fairly accurate estimate of costs. Every self-respecting taxpayer will be relieved to know that this monumental exposition will not really cost him a cent.

The fourth annual report of the Canadian Corporation for Expo 67 was published recently. Its financial reports are of more than passing interest. The report estimated total expenditures by Expo 67 at $378,- 446,000 Revenue estimates from admissions, concessions, sponsors, salvage and other estimates come to $241,000,000.

The net cost of the Fair is therefore estimated at $137,747,049. This will be borne of course by the three governments involved — the Federal Government, Quebec Government and the City of Montreal.

But the report also added that anticipated tax revenues from spending of visitors on the site of Expo alone, would put $135,000,000 into the coffers of the three governments

Off-site spending will mean that many millions of dollars more in the form of excise and sales taxes and municipal fees will come into the Governments' hands.

Canadian Governments, in other words, will actually profit from Expo 67. The money of course will come from the visitors who spend their money at the fair.

Spending money at this fair looks like it's going to be a lot of fun and good value, and if at the same time it pays for the Canadian costs of Expo, there shouldn't be many complaints.

Finishing or Refinishing WOOD FURNITURE

The beauty of any piece of fine wood furniture can be greatly enhanced by a proper finish correctly applied. The appearance of the less attractive woods can also be greatly improved by the application of a suitable finish. To apply these finishes there are specific steps that must be taken and certain technique that must be learned.

I have a booklet called "Finishing Wood Furniture" available free of charge from my office in Camrose. This booklet outlines the procedures to be followed and will serve as a guide to do-it-yourself'ers who are interested in finishing unpainted furniture, as well as to those who would like to refinish some old and previously finished pieces. For those who wish to investigate the subject further, a list of authoritative reference books on wood finishing is included.

Sanding is, of course, an important part of furniture finishing. The smoother a piece of wood, the finer finish it will have. Open grain woods such as oak require will coat after coat and later sanding and filling before the finish is complete. Close grain woods such as birch require less sanding and filling. Soft woods such as pine require more sanding than hard woods.

Details of the method of application are included in the booklet.

Linseed Oil Finish is more time consuming to apply but it gives the wood a beautiful looking, mellow lustre which many homeowners prefer. Though not highly water resistant, a linseed oil finish will withstand hot dishes. It is also less likely to show scratches than would a varnish finish.

Enameling procedures and surface preparation of previously finished furniture is also described in the booklet.

On Saturday, April 8th, 1967 at 4 00 p.m. the St Joseph's Catholic Church at Killam was the scene of a lovely spring wedding when Carol Ann Borgel eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. John Borgel of Sedgewick was united in marriage to Austin Arntzen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Arntzen of Sedgewick Reverend Father McCarthy performed the double ring ceremony with Mrs Helen Kimmer as organist

Given in marriage by her father the bride looked radiant in a floor length gown of white floral chantilly lace with a short train. The bride's bouffant veil of nylon tulle was held in place by a rhinestone crown. She carried a bouquet of red roses & white lillies of the valley. Her jewelry was a gold locket and matching ear rings, gift of the groom.

The matron of honor was the brides sister, Linda Borgel and Judy Borgel, sister of the bride was the bridesmaid. Both were identical dresses of Centennial Pink, split level empire line, the top of nylon and rayon lace over pale de nile. A floating panel of lace was held with two small bows at the back. They carried white clutch bags of nylon lace with carnations attached and matching mid arm length gloves. Their head peices were small white organza floral headpeices trimmed in simulated seed pearls. Grant Blesner, cousin of the bride, and Merlin Arntzen, brother of the groom, were bestmen. Ken Jacobsen and Ray Blesner were ushers. During the signing of the register, Gigi Gillign and Sel Latay sang 'What Happiness Can Equal Thine'.

The bride's mother wore an Alfonso sheath dress of celery green. White and black sunuries and a corsage of white roses completed her ensemble. Mrs. Arntzen, mother of the groom wore a yellow three peice knitted suit with white and black assuries and a corsage of bilkis roses.

Following the ceremony a dinner was held for the immediate family in Killam, and was served by the C.W.L. The brides table was center ed by a three tier wedding cake baked by the brides mother and decorated by Sister Emesta Rita of the General Hospital. Mr. Jim Grant, uncle of the bride was the master of ceremonies and Reverend Father McCarthy said grace and proposed a toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded. Grant Blesser proposed a toast to the bridesmaids. Mrs. Dianne Blesser proposed a toast to the bridesmaids. Mrs. Dianne Blesser was in charge of the guest book. Open house was held at the Sedgewick Community Hall and a dance followed.

For going away the bride chose a three peice coral textured rayon double knit suit with white accessories and a white rose corsage. Following a short honeymoon to Banff and Lake Louise the happy couple will reside on a farm at Sedgewick.

Out of town guests were from Daysland, Heisler, Strome, Forestburg, Edmonton, Viking, Calahad, Irma, Killam, Red Deer, Olds, Kinderly, and Hay Lakes.

HE WON'T GO BACK. Ham, the chimpanzee who went into space in 1961 before the first American astronaut, Alan Shepard, looked as though he enjoyed training for his flight (left). He is now in retirement after traveling 40 miles higher and 1,600 miles an hour faster than originally intended landing 125 miles beyond his target. His nose was badly bruised and he spent three hours in the capsule awaiting recovery. Today he refuses to go near a capsule as he wants nothing more than a back scratch (right).

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

PLENTY! The quality in Lennox furnaces begins where it stops with others. Compare the exact amount in measured blower heat and difference in fuel use, the efficient design of the heat exchanger. The difference in furnaces could be the difference between your having something comfortable and simply "getting by." Lennox dealers are the ones to know the extra heat of extraordinary.

SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

TAKE A BOW KIDS

Sometimes I envy the young. But very often, my heart aches for them. They haven't much in the way of armour you know, in an all-disconcerting world. And that's why they so often rebel and run away from home or get married, or do something which even they know is stupid.

Today's young people are confused and battered by an assault of sights, sounds and ideas they simply can't cope with.

Nothing is easier than to criticize them. They're spoiled rotten. They have too much money. They're born lazy. They're utterly selfish. They are immoral. They're materialistic. They're dirty. They're irresponsible . . . and so on.

There is nothing that rings one more than that kind of talk. And I'm afraid far too many adults are far too glib with it. Perhaps the worst offenders are old maids of both sexes, but we're all guilty, sooner or later.

Adults generally are envious of young people. From that envy springs a general rumor which comes out as a petulant blanket-disapproval of youth in general.

What causes the envy? Mostly, a host of misconceptions. Today's generation of teenagers has more freedom, more money, more luxury than any in history. It's pretty hard for a man who grew up during the depression — and has worked like a dog all his life — to be anything but sure when he sees a young punk just out of school riding around in a red convertible, with a doll lolling on his shoulder.

But what he doesn't remember is that while the kids have all the "mores" mentioned above, they have some others. They have more work, more decisions, more pressures, more problems, more temptations.

Certainly, some teenagers are bums. And so are many adults. But when you look behind the facade of fun-and-games that averages high school kid seems to be having, you see a different picture.

First of all, they spend six and a half hours a day in school, where they are supposed to be polite, attentive, industrious and obedient to a welter of rules. That's the meat and potatoes. For dessert they are handed between one and three hours of homework. That's a nine-hour day, Mac.

Many of them have after-school and Saturday jobs. Many are expected to do chores or help at home Others become involved in extra-curricular activities which gobble the time. Very, very few have any hours to dream or read or just goof around, the hours that are so essential to any human's happiness. And particularly so at this sensitive age

I know whereof I speak. My daughter came to us, almost in tears, the other day. She had just drawn up a list of things she had to do in the next two months, and she had that horrible feeling we've all experienced when things pile up to the point where we want to resign from the race.

Here's the list. And remember this is on top of a nine-hour school day. Play Rehearsals; night practice for three night's performances; Band Concert; night practices for string orchestra, concert band and symphonic band; one night's performance Music Festival: practice piece, play at festival, play at festival concert. Practice with Bev and Hugh for Hi-Y concert; play at concert. Body for music drama, History and Harmony. Prepare for piano scholarship audition. Practice with New Christian Minstrels for folk mass at church. Complete math and history projects for school. Study for final exams in June

And my daughter is no exception. Other kids are just as busy, and just as much is expected of them. They haven't even time to experiment with LSD or sex. They haven't time to go for a walk or listen to the birds, or realize it's spring.

Next time you feel like knocking kids, stop and ask yourself how you'd like to finish a day's work and then tackle about five more hours of demanding physical and mental activity. Personally, I wouldn't trade with them, even if they did give me back all those years between.

Sharon Heisler Married at Strome R.C. Church

A lovely wedding was solemnized at Our Lady of Fatima R.C. Church at Strome on January 31st when Sharon, youngest daughter of Mrs. Anne Heisler and the late John Heisler, became the bride of Rodney Zimmel, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Zimmel. Rev. Father McCarthy officiated at the double-ring ceremony and offered the nuptial mass with David Kelsdorfer & Dennis Eshpeter as mass servers.

Given in marriage by her elder brother Ed Heisler, the bride looked lovely in a floor length A-line gown of white velvet styled with a detachable train and featuring a fitted bodice, and long lily-point sleeves. Her bouffant illusion net veil of three layers was held in place with a coronet headpiece of crystal and pearl and she carried a bouquet of white mums and pink carnations.

The bridesmaids, Miss Audrey Tyrowski a close friend of the bride, Miss Sharon Zimmel, sister of the groom and Miss Cheryl Rakus, were identical floor length gowns of deep gold velvet and carried velvet muffs enhanced by corsages of roses.

The groom was attended by his brothers, Jerome and Grant Zimmel and Ken Heisler, brother of the bride. Ushers were Allen Heisler and Joe Kelsdorfer. Soloist during the ceremony was Jos Eshpeter with Mrs. Frank Eshpeter at the organ.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Heisler wore a beige and white brocade dress and matching hat, and a corsage of deep pink roses. Mother of the groom chose a jade green three-piece wool suit and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception was held in the Elks hall. Master of ceremonies was Marvin Krostek, brother-in-law of the bride, and Miss Bonnie Moser was in charge of the guest book. Bride's table was centered by a three-tier wedding cake decorated by Mrs. Zimmel, mother of the groom. Fr. McCarthy proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

Following open house and dance the bride changed to a jade green three-piece wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of talisman roses, for a honeymoon trip to the West Coast and the U. S. — Photo by Jun Mah Studios.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Ralph Roy Hobson who passed away on May 14th, 1952.

He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you dear Ralph, are always near.

Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Many think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrows
That lie with our hearts concealed.

Always loved and sadly missed by Your Loving Wife Vi and Son Leroy.

M.D. Council Minutes

The adjourned meeting of the M. D. Council of Flagstaff re-convened on Wednesday, April 26th with all councillors in attendance.

A letter from the Killam School Division dated April 25th advised that the two petitions had been delivered to the School Office in Killam, April 24th, one protesting the building of a new office in the Town of Killam and directing the construction of a joint office in the Town of Sedgewick, and the other supporting the Board's decision to build an office in the Town of Killam; that the petitions had been given careful consideration by the Board and the conclusion had been reached that the petitions served no useful purpose and actually led to more confusion, and that at no time had the Divisional Board been petitioned opposing the construction of a new office.

The letter further advised the council that the Board had accepted the low tender of $63,151.00 from C. Burrows Construction of Camrose, for the construction of the office, and that construction was to start immediately.

Considerable discussion ensued with respect to the advice received from the School Division, and the pointless possibility of the Council by the Council signed by 1300 ratepayers and electors.

It was moved and passed that the Council apply immediately to the Department of Municipal Affairs and the Department of Education for the County System of Government for the M. D. Flagstaff.

It was moved and passed that the photostatic copies of all correspondence and copies of extracts from the council minutes pertaining to the construction of a joint administrative office, together with photostatic copies of the petitions protesting the erection of a school division office in the Town of Killam and directing the Board to co-operate with the Council in constructing a joint administrative office in the Town of Sedgewick, be forwarded to the Dept. of Mun. Affairs by registered mail, in support of Council's request for a County System.

A phone call was placed to the Minister of Mun. Affairs requesting him to make an appointment for the Council to meet with the Dept. and the Dept. of Education at the earliest possible date in order that their request for a County might be discussed. All council members assured the secretary were in form a committee to meet with the Ministers when appointment arranged.

A letter from the Alberta Assn. of M. D's requested the Council to advise the executive prior to June 1st of any suggested changes or amendments they might wish to have made to Bill 50, the new Municipal Act for Alberta. The matter was tabled for the time being.

An invitation was received from the Council of the M. D. of Rocky View to attend the official opening of the new Municipal-School Administration building in Calgary.

Information received from the Alberta Assn. of Municipal Districts, concerning Group Life Insurance & Health Benefits insurance available to employees of M. D's. and Counties, was read and tabled pending a visit from the Sun Life Assurance Co. at the May 9th meeting.

Letter from Knaut, Knaut & Hall and Associated Engineering Service was received, regarding four parcels of land which Fred Stark from Forestburg wished to have sub-divided and transferred out of the S. E. 5-42-15, along with a sketch plan of the areas. This was examined & approval given, subject to Section 18 (1) of the Town Planning Act regulations and to the approval of the Council of the Village of Forestburg.

The secretary advised that the 1967 requisition in the amount of $67,284.00 was received by Alberta Hospitals Act, had been received from the Dept. of Municipal Affairs. The requisition showed an increase of $6,026.25 over 1966.

The secretary advised that the 1967 requisition had also been received from the Forestburg Consolidated School District. The requisition was in the amount of $10,330.82, an increase of $4116.01 over 1966.

Some discussion ensued with respect to the road crew commencing work. It was agreed that the road foreman would arrange to commence the 1967 road construction season where he felt conditions would permit.

Coun. Matthews advised that repairs to the residence at Hardisty, occupied by C Whitehead, which had been authorized by council in the fall of 1966, had not been carried out due to the poor weather conditions. It was agreed that Coun. Matthews would be a committee to investigate further improvements to the home and arrange to have the work done.

Secretary advised that he had been informed by the person owning the grader shed at Alliance that the shop was almost complete and power would be required as soon as possible. It was moved and passed that the secretary make application to Canadian Utilities to have electrical power installed, and that the Grant Council be requested to waive the shed for power if he would do it for the same price he tendered for the other sheds erected.

Coun. Morgan requested permission to have the Holsker grader shed painted. He was asked to obtain estimates on this and present them to the May 16th meeting.

The resolution requesting the Provincial Government to establish the County System of Government in the Municipal District, was approved.

Secretary advised that he had been approached by the Alberta Crop Insurance to take employment with them and that he was considering the position and would be in meeting with the General Manager on April 27th to discuss the matter.

Council interviewed Mr. Bouchard, Asst. Sec., and also phoned Mr. Walter Laskiw, Sec.-Treas. of the County of Athabasca, who they understand is applying for another position. Coun. advised that they would appreciate definite decisions from these two men just as soon as possible.

Meeting adjourned at 4:15 p.m. to meet again on Wed., May 16th.

The Letter Box

Mr. Editor:

Good people who do little things as and always receive recognition. It seems even if one finds out about a very good deed someone has performed over a period of years, one is still slow in giving recognition to the party who carried out these fine intentions.

Having been told by some people that their subscription to the Community Press had elapsed a year ago, but they were still receiving its paper. In some cases it may be easier to leave a certain name on the mailing list than to remove it. But there is always the cost of the mailing, not only printing as extra paper. One such extra paper has been printed at the Community Press and also remained on the mailing list for the past 20 years or more. This means weekly that this paper is carefully addressed and mailed so that the party concerned would receive the Sedgewick and district news.

We all know the lengthy illness Henry Blackman suffered. Our Editor in this district tried his best to let him know that he always remembered him, by sending the Community Press faithfully at no cost to Henry.

Now maybe somebody will think that there is not such a great cost involved during a one-year period of printing an extra paper and mailing — but the fact remains that it is the thought and the deed that is carried out without a break over a long period of time.

Have you ever heard an old lady say; "This only time I see my Minister is when I am sick in the hospital". Seems older people appreciate so much when you visit them in their home. But just try & make a point of visiting an invalided person without fail once a week. It is one thing to go visit the sick at your convenience, but it is a thing to make a contract with yourself— I shall do this once a week without fail, for twenty years.

Maybe our Editor, Mr. Art Eastly did not make a written contract; it could be that Henry and Art played ball together when they were younger, and Art just kept the ball rolling. But I am sure that Henry must have had a heart inside of it in order to keep rolling 20 years.

Just a note of caution! Please do not try to walk on the top of the Editor's head, cause a bald head is slippery and you could fall. In other words, we all receive enough criticism. Let's use a word of praise or encouragement when it is fitting & keep the ball rolling. — Thos Gellan.

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

REMEMBER THE BATTLES?

There's nothing like a good, old-fashioned family fight on Saturday night, to relieve the built-up tension of the week, clear the air, and get everybody squared around for a quiet Sunday.

For centuries, this was a tradition in many families. But, like so many of our other fine old customs, this one has been virtually destroyed by television.

Don't get me wrong. I don't mean the kind of thing in which the brutal [illegible] husband lurches home, beats up his wife and kids, robs the sugar bowl and piggy banks of their pennies, and staggers back to the pub and Pearl.

This happened of course. And still does. But I mean the ordinary family fight. The father, a decent working man, has gone up-town Saturday afternoon, with his $1.80 allowance. He's bought a pack of fags & had three of four beers. He's mildly merry.

His wife has been down the week's shopping. She has lugged four bulging bags of grub a block to the car. She has slaved to prepare a good supper. The baby is crying, just for the hell of it. The teenage daughter is whining about going to a dance with a known hoodlum. The 13-year-old son is still out fishing, it's almost dark and he's probably drowned. And her last hurt. And the dinner is ruined. Because the old man is late. Twenty minutes late, already.

Well, there's a dust-up. Pa comes in with a happy smile and the old lady pasts the lobe right off him. The boy comes in grinning, with 2 speckled trout, and gets a cuff on the ear. The daughter whines on & is sent to her room. The baby, no slouch at the game, yells like a banshee, to get some attention.

And it's all over, like a summer storm. Pa is ashamed for cuffing the kid. Ma is ashamed for blasting Pa. The boy gets doubles in dessert. Ma and Pa plead with the girl to go out with the head, who really isn't a bad offer all. The baby gets a bottle right in the mouth and shuts up.

The kid cleans his fish. Ma goes out and rants around the roosboat. Sis flies out, at the knot of a horn. Baby burps and smiles in his sleep.

Yeah, I'm old fashioned. It was, not too long ago. But television has wrecked it. Nowadays, instead of talking out their aggressions on each other, we huddle before the Great Squawk-box on Saturday nights, dinner balanced on our knees. We pour all our aggressions into a stiff body-check or a saloon brawl in a Western.

As a result, the fine old family fight on a Saturday night has degenerated into a querulous quibble about who's going to get up and fetch a beer during the commercial.

However, I am glad to say, although the family fight is dying, it is not quite extinct. The other day I read, with growing fascination, of a Christmas Eve squabble that has to rank with one of the great ones. It took place last Dec. 24th, and the legal aftermath is now in progress.

As the newspaper reported it, this young fellow admitted that he drank between 20 and 40 bottles of beer during the day. That is some beer drinker! You try puting down about 4 gallons of beer the day before Christmas, or any other day, and I guarantee you'll have a belly the shape, and a nose the hue, of S. Claus himself. But to continue the beers coming out sours.

It gets better. The Champ, as we shall call him, had an argument with his brother, who threw him out of the house. Imagine the glee and undaunted, The Champ climbed in a tree. Maybe he thought it was a pear tree and he was a partridge. Who knows.

Anyway, brother stepped outside with a shotgun. He claimed he fired a shot in the air, not knowing The Champ was up a tree. But several pellets entered the latter's anatomy.

The champ testified that he could not remember swinging his mother-in-law around by her hair, although he did admit having a fight with her.

It sounds like a swinging party. I'm just so glad I wasn't there, but it proves that the family fight still has a little steam in it, even though it is disappearing from our way of life.

THE Homemaker

By Miss Irene Eby, Your District Home Economist

In today's modern homes improved lighting, brighter wall colors and larger windows make discoloration or film on walls more obvious than in the past. The problem is not new but examples of some of the many causes of discoloration may enable you to better understand why discoloration occurs and how it may be controlled to some degree.

Discoloration or film deposition will occur in all homes, no matter what type of fuel is used for cooking or space heating. Even the most fastidious housekeeper cannot prevent some discoloration in his home by normal cleaning methods alone. Discoloration may be caused by one or a combination of several conditions:

Painted Areas — When exposed to direct sunlight over a long period of time painted areas will become faded. The areas which are not exposed to the same extent will therefore appear darker and suggest that there is discoloration where in fact none has taken place.

Oxidation of Paint — Some paint will tend to discolor because of oxidation with the surrounding atmosphere.

Chemical Attack — Such things as chemical oven cleaners and moth balls have been known to react with some paints & cause discoloration.

Smoking — Cigarette, cigar and pipe smoke will eventually cause discoloration of walls and ceilings, as the atmosphere gives up its residuals. More pronounced discoloration may be noticeable above the smoker's favorite chair or above & around lighting fixtures in rooms where heavy smoking occurs. The yellow stains on the fingers of the heavy smoker are an example of the intensity of this discoloration.

Exposure of Colored Materials To Daylight — This results in a gradual fading or, in the case of white wool, nylon and treated cotton, a yellowing condition due to the natural bleaching action of the sun's rays. The effect is most noticeable when parts of the same material are exposed more than others. You often see this fading effect on window drapes and clothing hung for long periods of time, with portions only exposed to light.

Candles — The candle flame is composed of glowing particles of carbon which produce the character istic orange color. When a candle flame is disturbed the carbon is liberated and is free to collect on surfaces causings discoloration. A true blue flame has no free carbon.

Aerosol Sprays and Leaking Refrigerants — These chemicals when heated to 500 degrees will break down forming corrosive acids. These acids will in turn attack paints and finishes in the interior of the home.

Lint From New Upholstery—This lint, when passing through the heat exchanger of a furnace, will liberate airborne contaminants which will discolor the area of the furnace registers.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

PLENTY! The quality in Lennox furnaces begins where it stops in others. Compare the quiet movement of blower fan. Find out the real difference in filter size; the efficient design of the heat exchanger. The difference in furnace could be the difference between your being completely comfortable and simply "getting by". Lennox furnaces are designed to handle the extra load of air conditioning.

HOME BEAUTIFICATION AWARD

A meeting on Home Beautification will be held in Strome on Friday at 8:00 p.m. on May 19th in the United Church basement.

Mr. R. J. Haigh, Horticulturist with the Public Works Landscape Division of the Provincial Government, will be guest speaker. He will cover the use of shrubs and annual and perennial plants in landscaping a home. Mr. Haigh has had a great deal of experience and his presentation will be interesting and informative.

This meeting is sponsored by the Strome United Church Women and the Alberta Dept. of Ag. Lunch will be served. Everyone interested is welcome to attend.

APHID CONTROL!

Last fall we mentioned the easy control of Aphids in Maple Trees by using Dimethoate.

Aphids in Maple Trees (or any tree but the American Elm) can be easily controlled by painting a six inch band of Dimethoate around the trunk of the tree 4 feet off the ground. The Dimethoate penetrates the tough corky layers of the bark in the tree, enters the circulatory system of the tree and is carried to the leaves and buds. Aphids eating the leaves and buds are killed.

Check at your Chemical Dealer, Drug Store or Hardware Store for Dimethoate to control aphids this year in your shade trees.

REGIONAL 4-H SPEAKING!

Brian Downey of the South Cenior Beef Club took first with his talk on "Canada, An Old Man's Country" at the Regional Elimination on Friday evening in Killam. He spoke on "Driver Training Should Be Included In The High School Curriculum" for his one to two minute impromptu talk.

Gregory Wood of the Gadsby Beef Club placed second with a prepared talk on "The Dwindling British Empire" and an impromptu talk on "Recreation Can Be A Business".

Margaret Probst of the Lougheed Clothing Club placed third and Dan Schaeffer of the Strome Beef Club placed 4th in the competition.

Judges for the District Speaking finals were Miss Sheila Purves of Daysland, Mr. B. Johnson of Castrose and Mr. Lyle McClelland of the Youth Dept. of Edmonton. They pointed out the importance of the length of talk, natural type gestures, the eye contact with the audience, free natural movements, clear enunciation of words and grammar.

Trophies were donated to winners. First was donated by the Daysland Lions; Second by the Killam Lions and Third by the Knights of Columbus, Providence Council.

The Sunday services were well attended. The Pastor's morning message was about "The Surrendered Life", with Scripture reading from Romans, Chapter 12. The evening message was taken from Genesis, Chapter. 6... Special numbers were rendered by Jean Wiebe in the morning and the Pastor during the evening.

It was announced that a Missionary couple will be present with us at the Wed. evening service.

Get-well wishes go to some of our number who are hospitalized at the present time.

Centennial Trees Planted At Schools

As part of a provincial Centennial project, a Royalty Crabapple (Centennial Tree) was planted at each of the schools in the Killam School Division last week.

Mr. Art Edwards, District Agriculturist, and Mr. John Roujan, Supt., were in charge of the tree planting ceremonies, and at each school were assisted by the principal and the students.

On Tuesday, May 9th the trees were planted at the schools on Highway 13 and the others planted on Thursday, May 11th.

Mr. John Puleshyze, Trustee, attended at Dayland, while Mr. L. Nielsen was at Heisler and Mrs. E. Steadman at Morris, Alliance and Galahad, to represent the Board.

In each case the principal introduced the program and Mr. Edwards and Mr. Roujan gave brief talks. The tree was then planted by one of the students assisted by Mr. Edwards.

The tree planting project was initiated by the Federal and Provincial Governments to commemorate Canada's 100th birthday, and trees were supplied by the Alberta Dept. of Agriculture.

FARM FIRE — Spring is always a dangerous time for a fire to start, especially around a farm where there is usually lots of dry grass. The above fire resulted from a spark from a welding torch which fell into dry grass and was fanned by a brisk wind. This fire, on the farm of W. H. MacLaren south of Sedgewick, destroyed one building, damaged a cultivator and burned two welders, plus a considerable number of tools and spare parts. Both fire trucks from Sedgewick answered the call, and the fire was kept from spreading to other buildings.

Farmers Field Work Finally Gets Started

After one of the slowest drying springs in many years, last week saw field work by local farmers become more or less general, as the rush started to make up lost time.

By the end of last week many farmers were starting to seed wheat and this week seeding has become general throughout the area.

A considerable number of farmers are admitting to having tried spring tilling on land that was too wet spot and becoming bogged down in the mud, as most low spots contain water from the late snows which have held up drying.

To date this spring the weather hasn't been very good, with only two days that might be classed as reasonably warm, and then on Sunday evening the first rain shower of the season arrived. Moss reports, however, indicate that very little moisture was received and not enough to delay seeding operations.

Locally the weather hasn't been the best this spring, but we have been much more fortunate than many areas in the south of the province where upwards of six feet of snow has fallen in the past month. We would even extend an invitation to our southern neighbors to "come north" and see what sunny Alberta is really like.

Killam C.W.L.

KILLA M —The May meeting of the CWL was held in the new R. C. parish hall with Mrs. Eddie Kasbet as the hostess.

Mrs. G. Bergerson read the correspondence, Mrs. B. Hamm gave the treasurer's report and Press report.

It was moved that all the small bills be paid and new garberator recently installed in the kitchen. It is requested that all Canada Packers labels and Nabob coupons be turned in at the next meeting. Main intention for May was for all Mothers of the parish. Mrs Sorken & Mrs Bible are on the visiting committee for the sick for this month.

Three ladies will purchase a new vacuum for the church. Mrs Helen Simon donated a 101-cup percolator to the CWL members to be used in the kitchen. Mrs. Sorken won the attendance prize.

The meeting was brought to a close with the Rosary, followed by a tasty lunch served by Mrs. Hamm, Mrs G. Bergerson and assisted by the hostess.

Central High Chorus Had Successful Season

The 1966-67 school term proved to be a very successful one for Central High's Centennial School Chorus.

Soon after the opening of the year the chorus began practicing for the Graduation. A group of Centennial songs were chosen and sung very well by the chorus. Since it was Canada's 100th birthday, the chorus decided to put on a Centennial program of popular songs and dances from the past 100 years. The Chorus, which was but a group of enthusiastic kids with no director, worked every noon hour getting ready for this program. Costumes, actions, stage settings and songs had to be chosen from era of music, which took a great deal of individual and collective work.

On March 3rd, the program was presented in the Community Hall in Sedgewick, where this group of kids, plus a tremendous audience presented a terrific show. The program was so successful that they were asked to put it on TV, an offer which after much discussion was accepted. But as was soon found out, performing for a TV camera is very hard and the venture wasn't very successful. The experience gained however, was worth the effort.

An April 9th the chorus again put on the program at Alliance, where it was well received.

Besides working on their program the chorus accepted invitations to sing at other places in the community, such as the Board of Trade Trade Welcoming Night, the Under Burns Night, Flagstaff Lodge Anniversary Supper and at the Co-op Annual meeting.

The Chorus members are to be commended for their effort and cooperation during the year. Some members who rode 80 miles a day on a school bus, came back after supper for draws rehearsals.

The Chorus thanks Mr. Stowe, the Staff, Gwen Gascoyne and all the parents and groups who helped to make their year a success.

Flagstaff Scout Council Meets At Strome

STROME — On Monday, May 8th the annual meeting and banquet of Flagstaff District Council of Boy Scouts of Canada was held in the Strome Elks Hall. Representatives from Killam, Forestburg & Strome were present.

Rev. Henry Haugen of Camrose was guest speaker.

Election of District Officers are as follows: Pres., Mr. Stan Coyne; 1st Vice, Vern Nielsen; 2nd Vice Bob McGrath; Sec., Mrs Bob George; Treas., George Bergel; Public Relations, Mr Norman Nielsen.

Mr. Bob Loy presented District commissioner A. Falkingham with a hand-made Lamp, from Flagstaff Council in appreciation of his work in Scouting in this district.

On Thursday evening Cpl. Dixon of Killam gave the Cubs and their friends a talk on Road and Bicycle Safety.

On May 4th Mr and Mrs. Scott of Tazmania were at Strome & showed slides to the boys of Australia & Tasmania. A question and answer period was most enjoyed.

The Cubs' project is making bird houses which will be for sale.

Home-Owners; Watch Swindlers

Every year about this time, complaints start filtering into the Better Business Bureau regarding dissatisfaction with contracts for some type of home improvements, inferior workmanship or materials, uncompleted jobs, or over charges.

When the whole story is known it usually turns out that the culprits were complete strangers who "just happened to be in the neighborhood" or who were supposedly offering such a good deal that it sounded "too good to miss".

Every dollar spent on such 'deals' is money lost to established firms in this type of business, to say nothing of the money lost to the homeowner. To try to help the public learn to "investigate before they invest" the Better Business Bureau has published a leaflet for homeowners entitled "Twenty-seven Questions". Individual copies are free.

The leaflet is also available in quantity at cost to businesses for distribution.

Monday A Holiday

Next Monday May 22nd is a Dominion-wide Statutory Holiday, and all schools and business places will be closed for the day. It is the first holiday of the late spring season.

Bank Didn't Forget But The Press Did

Those two plaques that the B of M unveiled at Dayaland and Sedgewick? You've been asking what happened. Well the banks didn't forget but we did.

The plaques were unveiled on schedule by Mayor Stevens at Dayaland and Mayor Bailey at Sedgewick and the Community Press filled the details in the "live" basket and promptly forgot about the whole affair for which we are sorry.

Blame it on hard work, over work, the election, or something, but at least it wasn't done intentionally.

Following is the wording which appears on the plaques which are securely mounted on the front of their respective Bank of Montreal Buildings:

"In March, 1906, the first bank in Deysland was opened on Main Street by the Merchants Bank of Canada which later merged with the Bank of Montreal. This plaque commemorates that event and was installed by the Bank to observe its 150th anniversary, in the Centennial year of Canadian Confederation. This building was opened on March 11, 1953, on a site occupied by the Bank since 1933. Unveiled by His Worship William Stevens, Mayor of Dayaland, May 1, 1967."

"In September, 1906, the first bank in Sedgewick was opened by the Merchants Bank of Canada which later merged with the Bank of Montreal. This plaque commemorates that event and was installed by the Bank to observe its 150th anniversary, in the Centennial year of Canadian Confederation. This site has been occupied since 1910. Unveiled by His Worship Hedley Bailey, Mayor of Sedgewick, May 1, 1967."

Debbie Nickerson Double Winner

DAYSLAND — On May 10th the Dayaland 4-H Clothing Club held their 8th annual Achievement Day in the Dayaland United Church social room, with Debbie Nickerson as chairman. The program opened with O Canada and the Pledge.

Presentations were made to the judges, Miss Irene Eby of Camrose, Miss Donna Kurluk of Wetaskiwin, the pianist Mrs. C. Westby, and the leaders Mrs. G. Spiller, Mrs. N. Nickerson and Mrs P. Pauligaard.

Following the introduction of the club members, the program consisted of club songs, musical numbers and skits. The program ended with the judges comments, singing Grace and God Save the Queen.

The Lougheed 4H Homemakers Club members and their leaders were part of the large crowd present at the affair.

First Crop Report

In their first report of the year, crop analysts with United Grain Growers today saw possibilities for a 1967 prairie wheat crop "above the 657 million bushel average of the last five years but less than the record 824 million bushels harvested last year."

The report said: "The chief reason for optimism is the heavy snowfall and soak-in during March and April. This definitely enhances the prospects for better yields of wheat seeded on stubble land. The improved moisture situation will also change the intentions of some farmers who planned to summerfallow rather than seed stubble fields during 1967.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics in their March 17 report estimated 30.5 million acres of wheat would be seeded this spring. This is an increase of .75 million acres over last year and 2.6 million acres over the average for the past 5 years.

MODERN PONCE DE LEON

Did you read in the papers recently about some drug, developed by a Rumanian lady doctor, which keeps you young? Apparently it works wonders. Old Konrad Adenauer, who packed it in not long ago, well into his nineties, was a regular customer

Wish I could get my hands on some of that stuff. In fact, don't be surprised if you learn that I'm off to Rumania this summer. It's appalling what they expect us old guys to do these days.

When I was 30, I knew I couldn't keep up the pace much longer, and looked forward to life beginning at 40. When I hit 40, I found myself running faster than ever, still in circles. Now I'm wondering whether they let you out of the rat race at 50, or whether you just keep going until you run all those other rats into the ground or fall flat on your foolish face Dead.

Trouble is, there are always new young rats joining the marathon, which makes it rough on us mature rats, even though we've got our second wind.

It's not the regular work that float gets me. No, I come from hard-working peasant, puritan stock, and know that you have to work hard to get rich and/or to heaven. It's the other week piled on top of it that makes me come out on life-boss loser, red-eyed, surly, frazzled and fractious.

It's when they expect me to be, in addition, as a bonus, a culture vulture, a social butter-fly, a dedicated community worker, and a general handyman, that I rapidly become a dam' old grump, so my daughter succinctly puts it.

Last week was a doozer, and not untypical. Monday, rush home, write column, then straight off to music festival. Sat on hard chair from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m., when daughter played. Worth it, when she took highest mark in the festival, but had sore bum all next day.

Tuesday, taught my own classes and gave guest lecture. Grade 10 is "doing" the invasion of Normandy in history, since I was the only available living relic at the battle, was asked to tell them some highlights. Like how our air force bombed our troops at Caen. Like how my squadron dive-bombed a German bridge three days in a row, 60 tons of bombs, three aircraft lost, and never knocked a chip of concrete off the thing, though we did kill a lot of fish in the river below.

This is known as living history and I had to do an encore the next day with another crack. A pack of "old sweat" lies, but they ate it up. It wasn't in the book.

After school, acted as judge in speaking contest. Wednesday night, final concert of music festival winners. Also picked up an armful of silver cups, which helped once another row rump from three hours on wooden chair. Thursday night, Library Board Meeting. Friday afternoon, presented prizes to winners in speaking contest. Friday night, school band concert, with daughter playing drum and another hard chair. Pain in rear slightly eased by post-concert party which produced pain in head.

Saturday, Open House at school. English department display in my room drew much attention. Ketchup on floor indicated last scene of Hamlet, which we did in the fall, and small pile of ashes on floor indicated remains of Saint Joan, which are Florence Mac week. Visitors deeply impressed with new realism in teaching of English.

Saturday night, fought all evening with wife and daughter. Latter want ed to go to teen dance, despite fact she had trouble staying awake because of afternoon and evening rehearsals all week. To every one of which I drove her and picked her up.

Spent all day Sunday looking for receipts to send with income tax return, one week late.

Here it is Monday and column night again. And the lawn isn't raked. And tomorrow night I have to play for the Russian Billiard Championship of the curling club, which closed three weeks ago.

And hours to go before I sleep. And hours to go before I sleep. Please pass the Rumanian Gerovital or whatever.

TREATER GRAIN NOTE!

This is the time of year when farmers will be handling seed grain treated with fungicides and insecticides. Treated seed is poisonous, and should be kept away from the children, and not fed to livestock.

If any treated grain is found in a a whole carload of grain by Government Inspectors, that carload is condemned resulting in a big loss.

Chemicals used for seed treatments are an excellent investment on the part of the farmer. However he must take care in the handling of the treated seed. Grain boxes & bins must be thoroughly cleaned before they are used for other purposes. Protect yourself, your elevator agent and the consumer of your products. Do not allow treated grain to be fed or mixed with grain for marketing.

An Open Letter to the People of Alberta

For the past several years, I have stressed the need for developing a new understanding and unity among constructive, freedom-loving people and parties in Canadian politics. This need exists right here in Alberta, where the task of fully developing our total human and physical resources is so immense and so challenging that we cannot afford to dissipate the energies and contributions of constructive freedom-loving people by needlessly opposing one another.

In Alberta, the efforts of a constructive, free-enterprise Government have invariably met with vicious opposition from negative thinkers, collectivists, and socialists. As long as there is a negative side to be taken, such opposition will always exist. It is, consequently, both unnecessary and unwise for constructive people, capable of positive agreement to disagree merely for the purpose of providing "opposition" one to another.

This letter is a frank and open invitation to all positive-minded citizens in Alberta, who share these views, to become personally acquainted with the operations and policies of your present Government, and to join your fellow citizens in supporting Government (Social Credit) candidates in the forthcoming general election. Your Government desires and welcomes the ideas not only of those who have faithfully supported Social Credit in the past, but also of progressive conservatives and liberals who find themselves in substantial agreement with the basic principles and advanced policies outlined in the Government's recently published White Paper.

On May 23rd it is my earnest hope that there will be a new expression of political unity and purpose in Alberta on the part of all constructive, freedom-loving people. You can make such an expression possible by giving your full and active support to Government (Social Credit) candidates.

Very sincerely yours,

E. C. Manning,
Premier of Alberta.

New BofM Look

NEW LOOK for the Bank of Montreal includes a stylized "M" and new typography for the name and slogan, plus adoption of "First Bank Blue" as the official color. These will be used to introduce identification of all bank buildings, advertising, stationery, cheques and forms. for many millions of items at more than 1000 offices in Canada and abroad.

Every visual impression of the Bank of Montreal is to be changed to present a fresh and modern look, through introduction of a new corporate symbol, standard typography and color, G. Arnold Hart, the chairman and president, announced.

A bold, stylized 'M' on a rapped ing bar has been adopted as the bank's corporate symbol. The "M" Mark is accompanied by new typography for the name "Bank of Montreal" and the slogan, "Canada's First Bank".

"First Bank Blue," a strong light shade, is now the bank's official color.

Mr. Hart said that the new standard identification components will appear on all branch signs, clocks, advertising of all kinds, cheques, forms, letterheads and publications.

"Changeover to the new identification is a major undertaking, involving four different items to meet the requirements of more than 1000 offices in Canada and abroad.

"Some of the changes are being introduced at once, while the remainder will be phased in as quickly as possible" Mr. Hart added.

The new corporate identification replaces a large number of widely-varying Bank of Montreal name styles, typography, symbols and colors developed at different times over the years.

The leading Canadian firm of industrial designers, Stewart & Morrison Ltd., of Toronto, prepared the new identification program and are continuing as Bank of Montreal consultant in its implementation.

Introduction of the program coincides with the Bank of Montreal's 100th anniversary this year.

The Bible Today

Nairobi is a thriving centre of commercial life and a booming tourist attraction. It is also an important centre for Bible Society work in East Africa.

Bible House in Nairobi is the head quarters for the work in Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda. In addition, it is a place where newly appointed Bible Society staff in other countries come to gain experience of Bible Society operations. In the past year training has been given to staff from Sierra Leone, Sudan, Ghana, Congo, Malagasy Republic and the Ivory Coast.

One of the most exciting developments in East Africa has been the growing opportunities for providing Bibles for schools as text books. Between March and October last year over 10,000 English Bibles were distributed to schools in Kenya, and a few in Uganda and Tanzania. A number of Roman Catholic schools are using the R.S.V. Bibles.

A renewed interest in the Scriptures by Roman Catholics in the area is evident.

Too much air in your tire makes them run hard, exposes them to impact damage and shortens tread life in the center of the tire. The Canadian Highway Safety Council urges that your tires have what the proper inflation is for your tires and keep them at it.

As everyone knows, Mr. Bell first amazed the world on March 10, 1876 when he transmitted speech over a primitive telephone. Many more developments came later; the world's first long distance call in September 1877, the first telephone exchange in July 1878 and the first dial telephone in 1908 - all in Canada.

Now, over one half million long distance calls are made every day in Canada, television programs are transmitted around the world through satellite communications, and the written word is sent from nation to nation, in seconds. Telephone communications certainly had a lot to do with Canada's hundred years of progress, don't you think?

PLUMBING OF KILLAM

By Miss Irma Eby, Your District Home Economist

BE SAFE — BE CAUTIOUS!
Every year between 20 and 40 children die in Canada from poisonings. Everyone of these deaths can be prevented as most of them are caused by careless storage or ill advised use of drugs and chemicals.
Scientists in the Food and Drug Directorate of the Department of National Health and Welfare are charged with the responsibility of seeing that no drug is offered for sale without adequate directions on the label.
Small children cannot read but their parents can and should follow the dosage recommended. If the product is suitable for children it will be so stated on the label.
Children will try to eat many things that an adult would not. Many household products can be fatal if swallowed. Keep insecticides, lye, cleaning fluid, paint remover, liquid waxes, turpentine up out of the reach of children.
Be careful when using household cleaning products. Some deaths occur because the young children drink these when the mother is on the phone or in another room.
Never take medicine in the dark - it may not be the right one. Never take medicine from an unlabelled bottle. Throw away containers that have lost the label. A couple of dollars loss is much cheaper than a visit to the hospital.
Throw out all drugs which have lost their original use. DO NOT COLLECT OLD MEDICINES. When discarding medicines, be sure to destroy in such a way that they cannot be recovered by children. The children have been known to salvage potent drugs from garbage cans.
Are you sure it is harmless? No drug is absolutely harmless under all circumstances. Even common acetylsalicylic acid which has a mild effect on adults has killed infants.
Treat drugs and chemicals with respect. Store in such a way as to protect the most innocent and trusting member of your family.
The fewer poison hazards you have the safer your home will be.

UNTAPPED RESOURCES!

There is a great untapped resource available to the Christian Church today. That resource is youth. Young people by themselves cannot be a spiritual force, but youth who are dedicated and controlled by Christ can insert a great influence for good in our present society.

Communism counts on the vitality of youth to reach its goals. Modern business aims a great deal of advertising at the "Pepsi Generation". It appears that the Church alone has failed to recognize this resource. Or perhaps young people are not involved in the church because it has failed to bring teenagers into a living relationship to Christ. Youth Sunday School classes in many churches are thinning, and others have been dropped into the adult class.

Ellenton youth ARISE, you are the LIGHT of the World. Jesus said so (Matthew 5:14). You have the inner strength to stand for truth & right in our present society. Not many will stand with you. Be strong in the strength of Christ.

Fifteen-year-olds commit more serious crimes today than any other age group. One boy in every six is referred to the juvenile court. Teenager, you do not have to be dragged down by this undercurrent of evil. Your basic instincts can be controlled. The outside pressures can also be resisted. There is a powerful person who desires to be your friend and helper in these struggles.

This friend is Jesus Christ. He is not just a name. He is a person — loving, kind and strong. If you will make Him your friend, you will find His strength giving you inner strength. Jesus Christ has a way to make you an influence for good in your community.

Teenager today
Walk in the Light
So that the world
May see Him in you;
And when they see Him
They will believe Him,
God's only Son
Living in you!

Wheat Seeding In High Gear

Seeding of wheat in the local area is in full stride by the end of last week, and this week is seeing the completion of the sowing of wheat by many farmers.

The weather has been good for the past ten days, with temperatures ranging up to the mid seventies, and with very little precipitation.

Many farmers are now moving on to the planting of course grains and doing summerfallow, while those who haven't completed their wheat seeding will have to wait a day or so because of rain on Tuesday evening although the Press hasn't heard just how wide spread the rain was, it appeared to be quite general.

Fine Weather For Lougheed Sports

LOUGHEED — The annual Lougheed "Jock" of May Sports Day was held on Monday, May 22nd, and the weatherman was very co-operative. For several years this first sports of the year has been bothered by poor weather but this year the temperature was in the mid 70's with only a light breeze blowing. A good day for contestants and spectators.

A six-team baseball tournament was held, with the first game starting at 10 a.m., between Lougheed and Hardisty. The hometown team came from behind to win 13 to 10.

Killam won the second game, defeating Sedgewick 5 to 0, while Viking won over Hughenden in the third contest 6 to 4.

Viking's Shumrecks drew the bye and set out while Killam defeated Lougheed 11 to 3 in the semi-final. In the final game, which was long getting started, Viking was leading Killam when the game was called due to darkness. Since they hadn't completed five innings, the teams divided first prize equally

In the ladies' softball tournament Brownfield defeated Forestburg in the first game by a score of 14-10. In the second game Killam was over Lougheed by a score of 20-18.

The Town Council is co-operating in the venture by having a truck available for hauling disposable materials to the dump grounds.

Sedgewick B of T Clean-Up-Week

SEDGEWICK — The regular supper meeting of the Sedgewick District Board of Trade was held in the Sedgewick Cafe banquet room on Tuesday, May 16th. In the absence of the president, Mr. Colvin Bennie acted as chairman.

The paving grant from the provincial government was discussed at some length. This grant is to used within five years. A survey getten underway on the main road through town to see what can be done. A report on this was received with thanks from the Town.

The situation with regard to the TV unit was brought up, and the meeting was informed that land had been purchased by CTV in the Robichaud area. A local TV survey and brief from the Board of Trade will be sent to CTV immediately.

Present at the meeting was Mr. Cameron, who recently opened the Cameron Variety Store on the main street.

The report from the treasurer showed that the Board is in a fairly healthy position financially.

The Board accepted an offer of the National Film Board to provide a film for the next meeting.

Registration fees will be paid by the Board for anyone wishing to attend the Chamber of Commerce Convention in Calgary May 29 & 30.

A clean-up week was established for May 22 to 29 (this week), and it was passed that the Town Council be requested for help on the final day of the clean-up week, May 29. The Board will pay the wages of one man for the day, to assist private property owners and general property owners.

BREAKING THE LAND — The machine pictured above with its number of animals for power, was used to break land on Section 20-43-19 (Grandview Farm) about four miles south-west of Sedgewick. On the back of the picture it is noted that the outfit worked for 62 days and broke 90 acres. Picture is the property of Mr. Howard Pope, Lougheed.

SMILEY GOES FISHIN'

First trout-fishing trip of the year is like a good spring tonic. It cleans us you physically and spiritually. And leaves you exhausted.

I had mine last Saturday. The important thing in going after speckled trout, of course, is the careful planning. There's no use to it at all if you just throw your fishing gear in the car, and go out to some stream where all the amateurs angle, and toss in a line. You're liable to come home with a creel full of fish if you go at it in this haphazard way.

No. First of all, you select a fishing companion. This, to a real angler, is just a bit less important than choosing a mate for life. You want a dependable sort of chap — the type who is going to have fresh worms for bait all yet, a good supply of hooks, maps with the sure-fire holes marked in red, and an infallible sense of direction in the bush.

That's exactly what I fixed up this year. Mind you, these lone types take a bit of managing. They are great in the bush, but they need an organizational mind to channel their energies. I had to get quite firm with him when he began loitering about 4 a.m. and hitting the stream at dawn

Dawn, indeed. I told him that is pure superstition. Only the very young, immature angler goes foolishly erling off in the dark, fishes like a fool until noon, then is wheedled for the day. Just about then, the wily, mature angler, fortified with a good breakfast, arrives and slaughters the trout, which are completely unprepared for the second wave — the experts.

Well, we got away about 10:30 after a couple of false starts. He forgot his hooks and we had to go around to his place. And when we got out to the County Line, I realized that because of his stupidity, I'd been upset and had forgotten my waders.

But he had a beautiful spot picked out. You park the car just off the road, and walk up this hydro line to the stream. The stream was just in there past the fourth hydro tower, he thought. It was just past the 16th. And they're 100 yards apart.

Not another angler in sight, I gloated. We cached the lunch and began working up the stream. I like that word we anglers use. "Working." You couldn't hire a man to do it for $50 an hour. Slash in the face from an alder. Hole in the boot from a snag. Slide from a log and oh-oh-oh-oh as you hit that spring-fed water. Lose a boot in the mud. Scratch hands to a bloody mess on jagged branches.

But it's all worth it if the trout are biting. And, boy, were they biting! They were biting each other on the neck, nibbling each other's ears, and snapping each other in half, so far as I know. But they weren't biting worms.

After an hour of torture that would have made the Gestapo green with envy, we arrived at the big pool above the beaver dam. The sure-fire hole.

We fished. Hard. A big mallard has popped into the pond, cowers in the knowledge that it wasn't duck season, looked us over, cackled with laughter and took off.

We fished. Harder. A baby beaver surfaced, swam casually to within four feet, looked at each of us, and expressed his feelings by turning his rump in the air and submerging.

We fished. Desperately. Suddenly there was a huge splash, then a harpshnk, hor-phsnk, and a big buck deer splashed through the shallows and away, sneering over his shoulder.

That did it. We left. But there was no point, said my mate, in lobbing the long, tortuous trail back down the stream, through that heavy slush. So, with his infallible sense of direction, we swung around in a circle, by the high ground.

The high ground turned out to be cedar bogs! in mud, both up thigh you had to crawl most of the time. The circle turned out to be the two long sides of an isosles triangle. Two hours later, we hit the hydro road right on the nose. Except that the nose had moved about a mile due east.

My first trout trip of the season. And believe me — I don't care if Mrs. Richard Burton wants to go along next time — it's my last. There have to be easier ways to get a coronary.

TREE PLANTING!!

Over 100,000 trees are being planted in Flagstaff this spring. Large White Spruce can be picked up at Oliver the last week of May if prior arrangements have been made.

We like to see trees being planted, but planting is just the start. The trees need a lot of care for the next few years. Trees planted with the planter should be straightened and packed to insure greater survival.

Poplar and Willow trees need pruning and this can be done during the middle of this year or early next year. Cut off the lower branches so that your tree gets started with a single trunk, up 3 or 4 feet off the ground.

CHEMICAL WEED CONTROL!

The 1967 publication of Chemical Weed Control is now available. It covers the latest in the use of Herbicides. Write or pick up your copy from your D. A at Sedgewick.

More than three million persons last year visited the four National Parks in Alberta — Banff, Jasper, Waterton and Elk Island.

The fur trade formed the advancing frontier of European civilization as it swept across the northern half of the country to the Pacific. Ultimately the fur trade also represented a retreating frontier for the civilization of the Indians, who had more furs than they could use; they eagerly exchanged them for European goods such as guns and metal tools.

The fur trade led to cultural and racial intermingling as well as commodity exchange. French traders and coureurs de bois married Indian women along the St. Lawrence River, around the Great Lakes and across the northwest, wherever they were trading. English and Scottish traders were not permanently posted in Canada and did not live away from their posts to the same extent as the French traders. Even so, many of them intermarried with the Indians of the Hudson Bay area, the prairies and the far west. But many of them left their children behind to be raised as Indians. Trading alliances formed and broke among Indian tribes, and between Indians and whites. Wars were fought over the lucrative fur trade as the rivalry grew between English and the French, between white and Indian, between the Hudson's Bay Co. and the North-West Co.

The organization of the fur trade reflects this bitter political and corporate competition. It also reflects the harsh living conditions and the high cost of transporting heavy trade goods and supplies up the rivers of the eastern Canadian drainage basins. These problems were conquered with an organization based on tough central authority and fortified outposts. The trading posts aimed to dominate their territories completely. They discouraged the encroachment of settlers on the wilderness, except in the areas where the trading posts wanted agricultural support.

These autocratic outposts strengthened their rule over the wilderness when the two rival fur-trading companies merged, but eventually slowly and grudgingly they yielded their grip as the fur supply dwindled and as the frontiers of heavy settlement moved westward. Industrialization followed, quickened by gold rushes, the advent of steam powered transportation, and the formation of strong central governments provided by the Act of Union and Confederation.

Centennial Report

1867 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

(By John W. Fisher)

Joe Crowfoot of the Blackfoot Indian Reserve, Gleichen, Alberta, is a direct descendant of the Blackfoot Confederacy.

Jerry Potts of the Piegan Indian Reserve, Brocket, Alberta, is a direct descendant of the famous RCMP scout of the same name who was with Assistant Commissioner J. F. Macleod when he arrived in Alberta in 1874 to build the outpost Ft. Macleod and gain the confidence & goodwill of the Blackfoot Indian Confederacy.

This year the two descendents, Crowfoot and Potts, will have parts to play in the RCMP's Centennial project, the June to November tour of the Musical Ride and 50-member Concert Band.

When the Mounties's Centennial performers arrive at Fort Macleod on June 14th this year there will be a re-enactment of the historic arrival of Macleod in 1874. Both Crowfoot and Potts will play the parts of their colorful and famous ancestors.

For those interested in the history of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police perhaps June 14 will be the high point in the Centennial tour of the Musical Ride and Band.

The history of the Musical Ride goes back almost to the beginning of the RCMP whose development has been a significant factor in Canada's Confederation, especially during western expansion in the years 1873 to 1905. Aside from the Riel uprisings, Prairie settlement was relatively peaceful in Canada because the rule of law was established by the Mounties first — before the big influx of homesteaders.

The Mounties performed their first Musical ride in 1876, only three years after the force was founded. The first official band of the police force was set up the same year but the "official band" was not created until 1886.

Having performed before hundreds of thousands, at events such as the Canadian National Exhibition and ceremonial occasions such as the coronation of King Geo. V, King Geo VI and Queen Elizabeth, the Ride has become an important tradition for Canadians. A performance of intricate figures & formations by a full troop of 32 men and horses, it also is thrilling entertainment.

Like the Musical Ride the Concert Band is a permanent branch of the Force. There have been at least 6 separate bands, dating as far back as 1876. In the early days of the west a band was a morale builder at times when lonliness and loolsiness were almost as much a threat as warring Indian and rum runner.

Today the band is a full time unit stationed in Ottawa and in the past 30 years it has had more than 2000 engagements including national tours and historic occasions such as royal visits, coronation ceremonies, conferences of wartime leaders, British Empire games, exhibitions and carnivals.

Hundreds of thousands will see the Musical Ride and Band on its Centennial tour which includes engagements at the Canadian National Exhibition and Expo '67.

Domestic Problems Are For The Birds

From time immemorial, or at least since the day when Noah filled the ark with humans, along with animals and birds, two by two, domestic problems have plagued inhabitants of the earth. To each his own task has been the rule of thumb down through the ages, Man, in his physical superiority, has long ridden the pinnacle of fame as the winner of bread and builder of homes wherein to domicile the weather and more fickle of the race. Her avowed duty has long since been firmly established as the keeper of the house and the rearer of the offspring. In bygone days the home was the home no matter how humble, and trials and difficulties were shrugged off with a nonchalance simply not matched today. History has marched on and humble abodes no longer appeal to the adventurous female.

The saddening result of this sudden awakening is the rights and demands of the female, has rubbed off on the lower inhabitants of the planet, who are beginning to show signs of human rebellion. The result shows immense possibilities.

This writer had the disheartening experience of witnessing the disintegration of a home in the world of birds, and a sad affair it appears to be. Not being a confirmed watcher of birds, we take strictly from hearsay, but here is the end tale as we construct it.

Robbins you know have routine habits just like the old-time homesteaders . The male arrives some weeks in advance of the female, to scout out the terrain and pick a safe dry and secure spot to establish a home. When the female arrives she inspects the site and if satisfied the two form a lasting bond and go into the business of home construction (without a loan). In the end story about is unfold before your eyes, the mamma Robin didn't like papa's site, and took off for a mate with more wisdom. Poor dad. He's heart-broken, but like all males determined to build a home in spite of it all, perhaps in hopes of attracting another and less fickle mate. But as he proceeds he runs into his troubles. His site is insecure, his building materials are third-grade, and his knowledge of the construction business is a minus. No woman to direct and boss, his attempts are really half-hearted, and his undiscovered domestic prowes his inability.

Even with a helping hand from Jim Hallum, in whose yard this unhappy event is unfolding, we fear Mr. Robin is destined for a year of bachelorhood. Oh well, women are fickle. He can always fly south this fall and make a fresh start next spring. Experience is a great teacher, and some women aren't too proud.

THE Homemaker

By Miss Irene Sby, Your District Home Economist

Rural people everywhere are depending on showers to ensure a good crop this year. While we can not plan this type of shower, showers of another nature are always prevalent during the summer. Are you planning a wedding shower for a friend? Here are a few suggestions to help you make this important occasion a pleasant one.

Themes lift your shower out of the ordinary, making it unusual and successful. It suggests ideas for decorating, entertainment and refreshments. One such theme developed would be a garden shower. If you are the proud possessor of a garden, why not have your shower outdoors. Make it a coffee party, with guests arriving at about 2:00 p. m. Invitations could be sent out on floral notepaper. Comfortable chairs, grouped for chatting, are the only additions to the garden setting. Special favors for everyone are flowers from your garden, for dress or hair. A tea table with a floral arrangement or an arrangement of fruit will provide an attractive centre of interest. Gifts could be presented in a gaily decorated wheel barrow or perhaps a large replica of a vase or flower pot. The gifts may be articles used in gardening or in outdoor living. Refreshments leave lots of scope for the imagination.

This has been an example of how you might develop a theme. How would you develop any of these themes? Pregrance Shower, Shower for a Couple, Recipe Shower, Gift Certificate Shower, Bathroom Shower, Cup and Saucer Shower, Pantry Shower, Linen and Lingerie Shower, Crystal Shower, Kitchen Shower.

For a successful shower follow a few rules to avoid criticism. If it is a member of your immediate family who is being married it is not correct for you to entertain with a shower. If you give a party, it should be one without gifts. Consult the bride or someone who is close to her before any plans are made.

Make sure those on your guest list have not already attended another shower. No one outside the bride's immediate family should ever be asked to contribute to two showers. Thoughtful consideration should be given the guest list. Casual friends and acquaintances do not always appreciate an invitation. Guests should be close friends of the bride, her family, the groom or his family.

Good luck to you in your shower planning. May it be one that your guests will not soon forget.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

PLENTY! The quality in Lennox furnaces begins where it stops in others. Compare the quiet revolving mounted blower; the vast difference in filter size; the efficient design of the heat exchanger. The difference in furnace could be the difference between your being completely comfortable and simply "getting by". Lennox furnaces are designed to handle the extra load of air conditioning.

Management and staff of the N.A.D.P. Creamery in Sedgewick were honored by some eighty people at the last Board of Trade meeting for having won second prize in the butter making competitions at the Commonwealth Show in Glasgow, Scotland.

Douglas Marshall of Hardisty left by plane for London, Ont. where he will spend ten days writing examinations for entrance to the Royal Military College.

It would appear for the rate at which people from Killam are winning hams at the bingos in the various towns that this will be a very poor month for the butcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Martin from New York motored up to see his brothers John and Bill of Lougheed. It is like working a jigsaw puzzle to report this family; Claude goes by Mike; John's correct name is Francis; while Bill is really Hugh. Oh well they are all Martins anyway.

25 YEARS AGO
(From Press Of April 24, 1942)

The home talent play, directed by Charles Morin, and sponsored by the Killam Hospital Aid played to two packed houses on Thursday and Friday evenings and sent the audiences home with a feeling of an evening well spent. Jimmie Devlaeminck, Sedgewick farmer, received pictures of a horse which he sold some time ago at the Lacombe Horse Sale. The animal, a four year old gelding, topped the scales at 2880 lbs and was sold to J. R. Parr of Nova Scotia for the sum of $325, second highest price paid for a single horse.

There has been quite a number of new cars brought into the Strome district the past week. Among new owners are Johnny Hauser, Herb Hall, Cec. Clark, J. Asburn, Tony Hauser, T. Brandner.

Lawrence Hoffman of Killam motored to Turner Valley last week and brought home a truck load of gas.

A light rain visited this section of the Sunny Province on Monday. Further east the precipitation was heavier and made the ungravelled portion of the new highway very slippery, so slippery that one car jumped off the grade near Bott and rolled over in the ditch.

An uncrowded scenic highway throughout foothills of Alberta is provided by the gravelled Forestry Trunk Road, which runs more than 400 miles from the Crowsnest Pass to Grande Prairie.

Mr. Bill Sykes of Lougheed will be in hospital until July and the local farmers are organizing to do his farming until he is able to carry on himself.

Killam School Celebrates Canada's 100th Birthday

KILLAM — Killam Public School celebrated Canada's birthday by being host to parents and friends of the students at a program in the Gym on Friday, May 19th.

Mr Chandler, principal, in his opening remarks, said that the main purpose of the program was to help students to remember in the future that they had participated in celebrating Canada's Centennial Birthday.

Grant Bailey, past president of the Student Union, was M. C. Every grade had a contribution to make to this birthday party, and a capacity audience enjoyed the various numbers presented.

The Killam School Division sponsored a Centennial Contest for all students. Grades 1, 2 and 3 were to make a Pictorial Map of Canada or a Pictorial Comparison of Canada in 1867 and 1967. An original poem, "Canada My Country" or a Scrap Book, "Canada, Yesterday & Today" were the topics for Grades 4, 5 and 6. In Grades 7, 8 and 9, Essays were to be written entitled "Canada's Next 100 Years" or "What It Means To Be A Canadian."

There were so many excellent entries that the substitute teachers, Mrs. Cyr, Mrs. Chevrette, Mrs. Pelgate and Mrs. Wilson had a difficult job in selecting the winners, who were: Sydney Svoinson, grade 1; Linda Dammann, grade 5; and Sharon Twerdell, grade 8. Each of these students received a Centennial Trophy as an award.

The winning entries will be sent to compete with others in the Division, for a further award.

At the close of the program each student was presented with a Centennial Medal as a souvenir.

New Zealand Women To Visit Sedgewick

Thirty-seven Farm Women of The Women's Division of Federated Farmers of New Zealand, are touring Western Canada early in June. The New Zealand ladies have been divided into fourteen groups for the fourteen FUA Districts in Alberta. The FWUA Director in each case will be official hostess.

The FWUA Locals are assisting in entertaining the ladies and taking them to see our beauty spots and developments. Farming, of course is one of the things they are interested in seeing.

The three ladies who are coming to FUA District 8, which included County of Camrose, Stettler, Provost and M. D. Flagstaff, will be hosted in Sedgewick by Fairdesian Valley FWUA with Mrs. J. R. Hallum acting FWUA Director, June 10th and 11th.

The members of Fairdesian Valley FWUA Local extend an invitation to ladies interested in meeting the New Zealand visitors, to a Coffee Party at the home of Mrs. F. Walker in the Sedgewick Apartment, on the morning of June 10th at 10 a. m. to 12 noon. We wish to make these ladies feel welcome, and hope they will enjoy our town.

M.D. Flagstaff Holds Regular Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Council of M. D. Flagstaff was held in the Board Room at Sedgewick on May 18th with all Councillors and the Secretary present.

Minutes and financial statement were read and adopted.

Request of Northwestern Utilities for approval of construction of a bi-pressure gas line from Irma to Hardisty was considered. Cou. Matthew reported he had visited the site with officials and had examined the route of the pipeline He was of the opinion that the route was in order and that it would be in order to sign the plans as having been approved. This was approved.

The District Engineer of the Dept. of Highways met with council and reviewed the 1967 road construction program as submitted by each councillor The engineer recommended that the contingency grant be left on the present road for 1967 ,and if the Secondary Road system was not implemented in 1968 the contingency grant be applied for on the Hardisty-Irma Road. It was also suggested that application for the Resources Road Grant be applied for on the west end of the road being construcied under the Contingency Grant. The engineer indicated that in their opinion the 1967 road program was satisfactory. These suggestions are approved by the council.

Mr. Alan Strome and Mr. Hilton of the Water Resources Branch met with council regarding flood control projects through the M .D., one which had been petitioned for near Hesketr. It was passed that the Water Resources Branch be requested to make a visual inspection of the flood control project petitioned for.

Edward Test of Conaco Supply was present to submit oil and grease-ol quotations as asked for on Motor Grader. He said there would be six to eight weeks delivery time.

Ferguson Supply agent met with council and explained the workings of the new Champion Hydrapower Motor Grader, and presented quotations. He said delivery would be from two to three weeks, with the warranty for a full year with no limitation as to hours.

Robert Hilton and Barney Merrow of Strome Hudson Merrow met with council and presented quotations on Motor Grader

Some discussion took place with regard to the area in which gravel crusher would commence operation for 1967, and the matter was held in obeyance until such time as the foreman could be present.

It was moved and carried that a new Howe Richardson portable truck scale be ordered from Robert Morse Corporation as per company quotation.

Council discussed with Mr. Lewis and Mr Likness where the crushing should be started. Mr. Lewis indicated that it would be a week before the crushed would be completely repaired and ready to go. He stated that to cut down wear on the rolls the size of gravel crush be increased to 7 inches. Council agreed that the increase be tried, and if possible some of the crushed gravel be graded.

The quotations received from the various firms for the supply of a Motor Grader Rear Plow and wing were again considered. It was carried that a D8H-180 H.P. Champion Motor Grader with Hydrostatic transmission be purchased from at bid price from Ferguson Supply.

Meeting adjourned to meet again on May 11th at 9:00 a.m.

The adjourned May 25th meeting reconvened in the Board Room on May 11th with all councillors and the secretary present.

Arising out of a discussion on the start of the 1967 road construction work, Cou. Matthews moved that Stewart Weir, Stewart be requested to survey a 66-foot road allowance east of Secs. 17 and 20-43-11, and that Calgary Power be requested to move the power poles back to within 33 feet of the centre line of road allowance.

Application for the position of Sec.-Treas. for the M. D. of Flagstaff was received from Mr. Walter Lashiw, Secretary of the County of Athabasca from 1959 to 1967, was read, together with the inspector's reports. It was moved and passed that the application of Mr. Lashiw be accepted, that he be appointed as Sec.-Treas of M. D. Flagstaff No. 62 as of June 1st, 1967.

Secretary advised that the road ban which had been in effect on all M. D. roads, had been lifted at 6:00 a.m. May 9th at the request of the councillors. Approval was given to this action.

Letter from AGT with respect to the Heisler Rural Distribution system, together with the plans indicating the road allowances affected were examined. It was moved that the Corporation be notified that the road east of Secs. 13 and 24 and north of Sec. 21-43-15 would be reconstructed in 1967 and that the cable was not to be buried on those sections until the reconstruction of the road had been completed.

CANADA ON PARADE. These young Canadian swingers misspell Canada in style as they parade across the Expo ramp showing children's fashion. The crowd enjoyed the mistake, although it went un-noticed by the eager band of youngsters. They were more concerned with keeping their balance.

In Our Hands

(From Industry)

The Bells Have Pealed, the Flame is lit on Parliament Hill, the hen-fires have blazed in the Provincial capitals the Confederation Train has begun its cross-country journey. Canada is short, is launched on her Centennial year celebrations. They promise to be worthy of the event.

To have brought the fragile, improbable nation into being in the first place was no mean achievement. To have preserved, extended and strengthened it over the past century in face of pressures both internal and external is hardly a lesser one.

We cannot know what Macdonald, Cartier, Tupper, McGee and the rest would think of Canada today, but they surely could not fail to be impressed. A population of three-a-half million has become 20 million, four provinces have become ten, spanning two great oceans and encompassing natural resources riches on a scale undreamed of even in our father's time.

The political, economic, industrial and social changes have been no less sweeping. The first of British-Canada's colonies to be granted any broad measure of autonomy, Canada in 1867 is on politically free to decide its own destiny as any nation on earth. True, Washington has replaced London as the capital in which [illegible] and military decisions of grave consequence to us are frequently made. Given the dynamic growth of the American economy and the whole course of human and continental affairs in the first half of the 20th century, it could hardly have been otherwise. Yet, withal, as the record shows, we are today no more appendages of any nation.

Industrially, in the wake of the scientific revolution, advancing technology, two world wars and massive capital investment, dominated as much as foreign, the primitive, agrarian-based economy of a century ago has been transformed. As a result, only four nations now surpass Canada as a world trader and only six in annual value of manufacturing out-put.

Socially, of course, the biggest of many changes is the material condition of the people, from unbelievable poverty and privation to rising affluence and one of the highest standards of living in the world. In the process, we have evolved into a largely urban society of increasingly mixed ethnic composition.

The native born Canadian, looking back on the past 100 years, can in truth take pride in much that has been accomplished. He can take pride, too in the compliment paid Canada by the high proportion of today's adult population which is here not by accident of birth but by deliberate, conscious choice.

Most of all perhaps, he can take pride in the high respect his country enjoys in the council of the world, for the ultimate test of Canada's fitness to endure as a nation is not her ability to prosper but the quality of her contributions as a nation to the family of mankind.

Ours is not yet a land of perfect laws, perfect justice or perfect bliss but it is an inheritance richer by far than those who went before us ever knew. It is in our hands now, on the threshold of the second centuries of Confederation, to do with what we will.

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

WE GET LETTERS

When you write a column like this, you get some reaction. If you didn't it wouldn't be worth writing because it wouldn't be worth reading.

A recent column has produced reaction. It dealt with the load we heap on kids—good kids generally, it contained a list of what my 16-year-old, specifically, had to do in the next few weeks.

Two letters arrived smartly, then a third. The first was from K.D., of Owen Sound. "Your column is not up to your usual standard. Not quite so frank. It might have been if you had turned the X-ray on yourself as well as on the critics of the young people of today — whoever they may be."

Critics? K.D., meet L.E. Taylor of Toronto. Admitting that you must set a few decent teen-agers while on summer vacations in a small town, he writes: "But not so in this big city . . . A great many of the teen-agers here are the pampered, apathetic, immoral bores to be shunned and avoided [illegible] parents."

K.D. says: "How many persons would know your daughter is trying to do the search. Result of leaving the kids alone to grow up."

Each of you wanting to realize in each of your children your own ambitions and ideals. Fat chance.

Now wait a minute, there, K.D. You can say what you like about my wife. But by gawry, you're all wrong about me. All I want is for my daughter to stop driving that mother nuts, pass her school year if possible, get married (preferably to anybody but a hippie) and get a ladder in lieu of a $1600 wedding), have about five kids, and get so much it's about of them as we have out of ours.

Back to Mr. Taylor. He doesn't blame the parents, but the kids. They have it too soft. Says they have more scholarships than we had but lack initiative and drive. And he lists about 30 things he was doing, while in high school. Come on, L.E., be sensible here. You, you did them. But how many others of your age did? Those who earn little bits of drive and drive during The Depression.

He goes on: "Matric had to be studied, and written off in swelter-ingly hot June days, in air-conditioning nowhere." It still soon, old boy, in most places, and farther north it's about three times more difficult than the matric you and I passed. And the universities dig and standards for higher, for admission.

Back to K.D. "But your mother would have had more sense." (She didn't have time. Ed. note) "Whose fault is it that your daughter and others want to do as much in and out of school? Yours and others like you. What kind of training, advice, guidance have you given her apart from "Strive, strive, strive' & 'achieve, achieve, achieve?'"

K.D., you are hereby invited to give my daughter some of that stuff But don't blame me if you emerge from the conference bloody and bruised.

There's more of the same from K.D., and a lot of it good sense. It ends: "Baloney to your sex, LSD & drinks — merry red herrings to drag in and show how up-to-date you really are! Not stuffy at all! Ho! Ho!"

Well, ho-ho to you, K.D. You've been reading too many articles about punk parents, and not enough about punk kids. If you think drink and drugs and sex are red herrings, in relation to teen-agers, you'd better pull your head out of that sandpile.

There you are. One correspondent says it's the parents' fault. The other says it's the kids'. They're both wrong. And both right.

And then came the third letter. It had to be tortured sarcasm. It was from an old friend, Edith Rudell of Lacolon, Ont. She is not exactly an unknown contributor. She is, for me, a girl. I quote: "I will frame it (the column) and scan! The fantastic amount of time and energy and nervous tension expended by my group is not possible to describe. Furious! Anyway, it exhausts me just being an onlooker. So bless you, Bill, for putting the thoughts into words."

And bless you, dear heart. And bless K.D. and L.E.

by A.C.E.

We have received a copy of "The Centennial Dispatch," a project of the Stromo School; in fact, their Centennial Project. This is the first of six editions which the Stromo students are publishing to recall the early days of Stromo between 1913 and 1918. It is very interesting, and obviously a great deal of work has been done by the students. Any oldtimer who would like to receive a copy should contact Mr. L. R. Harris, Principal of the Stromo School.

The research department of a large University in the U.S. claims to have found a method of telling when a person is lieing which they say is more reliable than the Lie Detector Test. This new method is based on the fact that if a person is lieing his eyes turn red. If he is confused they turn pink, and if he is telling the truth they stay white. This could present problems for ordinary folk. It used to be that when you saw someone with red eyes you figured he had been sampling the Red Eye the night before. Now we won't know whether he has been drinking or is a full fledged liar. And what about the poor person who exclaims "Pink Eye"! Of course the researchers were talking about the health of the eye and a special instrument is used to detect the case, but then, you never can tell about those guys with red eyes.

Weeds Cost Millions Every Year

Did you know that prairie farmers lose about $265,000,000 every year from weeds?

Mr. W. Lobay, Head of Weed Control in Alberta, reports that about $140,000,000 are lost to the three prairie provinces from weed competition alone. This figure is based on an estimated 15 to 18 percent reduction in crop yields. Losses from dockage, estimated at about 3 percent, account for another $40 million annually.

In addition $35 million are spent each year on tillage operations. This figure includes depreciation on implements as well as summerfallow and other tillage expenditures. Delayed seeding, since it necessitates pleating early maturing cereal varieties which may yield as much as 15 percent less than some later varieties, accounts for another $4 million. The cost of selective herbicides, based on about 60 percent of prairie crops being treated yearly, amounts to about $10 million. Total comes to $225,000,000.

Since there are approximately 245,000 farmers on the prairies,the loss per farmer works out to $1,838. On the basis of this figure, the annual loss to Alberta's 71,000 farmers would be $75,000,000.

A survey conducted a few years ago by Dr. George Friesen of the University of Manitoba showed that on the average, weeds reduced crop yields by about 15.2 percent.

Tests and demonstrations carried out in Alberta by extension personnel and agricultural service boards have confirmed this figure. In other words, in a 30-bushel to the acre barley crop the loss would be 4.6 bushels, which at today's prices would be equivalent to about $5 per acre.

Mr. Lobay points out that such heavy weed losses can be greatly minimized by the wise and timely use of selective herbicides. He advises farmers to make good use of these modern aids to better crop production and higher net returns.

Baptist Church

Pastor Nethercott ministered in the Sunday services which were well attended. It being Home Missions Sunday the morning message was taken from Acts 1, and we were informed as to the work being accomplished in this field. The evening message dealt with the soon return of our Lord; the importance of being ready to meet Him, and being watchful of present world events.

Special music for the day was provided by Betty Gordnak, Mrs Lillian Bartosh and Pastor Nethercott. It was announced that next Sunday we have a pastoral candidate taking the services.

The Women's Mission Circle met on Thursday evening at the home of Mr and Mrs Arthur Bergerson. The Young People met on Friday in Killam to have a ball game with the Young People from the Galahad United Missionary Church.

Prayer for the Week:
Be not selfish — Love in Deed,
Look upon thy brother in need.
Live for self; you live in vain;
Live for Christ, you live Again.

— Anon.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

PLENTY! The quality in Lennox furnaces begins where it stops us others. Compare the quiet resonantly mounted blower; the vast difference in filter size, the efficient design of the heat exchanger. The difference in furnaces could be the difference between a warm, satisfactory heating system and simply "getting by". Lennox furnaces are designed to handle the extra load of air conditioning.

The Homemaker

By Miss Irene Eby, Your District Home Economist

The 4-H Clothing Clubs in the Municipality of Flagstaff held their Achievement Days during the first three weeks of May. At each of these Days a program depicting ideas learned from their 4-H work was presented by the girls for the parents and friends.

Miss Irene Eby, District Home Economist, judged the work of the girls.

During the year the girls sew articles of clothing and complete a project book and a wardrobe plan.

First Year girls sew an apron, pants, skirt, two tea towels and a housecoat. In their Second Year they sew a blouse, dress and jumper. Judging includes the fit of the garments. A detailed figure analysis is completed during this year, too. The choice is wider in the Third Year and girls may elect to sew, for example, suits, slacks or sweaters, and they make a wardrobe plan involving what they have and deciding what is good or poor in relation to colour, fabric and style for their figures. They develop a detailed book with pictures and descriptions of all garments in their wardrobe. This gives them the opportunity to learn how to plan their wardrobe for the future.

Millinery, further wardrobe coordination ideas, sewing of a basic dress, suit and accessories is learned in the Fourth Year. In the Fifth Year the girls may elect to study in Junior Design or learn Tailoring.

New Killam Church Dedicated

KILLAM — An event of great religious significance to Killam took place on Wednesday, May 31st, when Archbishop Anthony Jordan, O.M.I., dedicated the new St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church.

Approximately fifty priests of the Archdiocese, many former parishioners, representatives of several Sister's Orders, Protestant Clergy and out-of-town guests were in attendance to rejoice with Father M. E. McCarthy and his congregation in attaining this outstanding milestone. The date was most appropriate as it was the 40th anniversary of the dedication of the former Catholic Church on May 31, 1927.

Following the formal blessing of the church, holy Mass was concelebrated by Fathers McCarthy, Kreutech, Schmeltzer, Herrerman and Eblin. The homily was preached by Archbishop Jordan, and the readings of the laymen were given by D. Rosendaal and B. Engel.

After the ceremonies a supper was served in the new parish hall, which had been decorated by the students of the Separate School, Members of the Hospital Auxiliary waited on more than 300 guests.

Speakers for the evening included Mayor G. Hilker, extending congratulations on behalf of the town of Killam, and Mr. J. Hillman, M.L.A., who brought greetings from the Alberta Government. They were followed by Rev. F. Peterson representing the Ministerial Asso. and Mr. H. Moser who spoke on behalf of the building committee and the St. Joseph's parish. Mr. Dicken, the contractor, gave his impressions of the year spent in Killam. Fr. McCarthy expressed his gratitude to those who had contributed to the planning and building of the church and to the organizers of the event which had climaxed his many years of ministry.

The chairman, Adolph Schaffler, noted that Fr. McCarthy held a unique position in the Archdiocese, as he is the only priest who has served one parish continuously for over forty years. In addition he had pioneered in the establishment of the hospital at Hardisty, the new church in Strome, the General Hospital and Separate School in Killam He and his parish are attempting to accelerate the ecumenical spirit in the this community by building open house in the new church on Sunday, June 4th.

The Community Press joins with the general public in offering best wishes to the new church and its congregation.

Stage Set For 20th Stampede

HARDISTY — Everything is set and final plans are finished for the 20th annual Hardisty Stampede and Chuck Wagon Races on Friday and Saturday, June 9th and 10th,according to Stampede President Johnny Golka. The president says that the way things are shaping up, this will be the biggest and best Stampede ever.

Arena Director, Ross Hinkey, has informed the press that the Rodeo grounds are now in top shape for the varied events. Ross said that in looking over the bucking stock, the riders are in for a tough two days.

The Stampede will kick off with a gigantic parade, and indications are that more entries than ever are in the offing for the generous prize offered in each section. Don't forget the parade kicks off sharply at ten o'clock in the morning.

Besides the Hallway which will be on the grounds, there will be afternoon and evening shows each day.

A big dance will be held each night on the grounds, with music by The Country Kings.

For two days of all the thrills of the Rodeo plan to be in Hardisty on June 9th and 10th.

84 At Hardisty C.G.I.T. Banquet

HARDISTY — The annual CGIT Mother and Daughter Banquet was held in Hardisty Arena on Tuesday, May 23rd with a record attendance of eighty-four. Rev. Zwicker said Grace and a most delicious dinner followed, served by the women of the church. The group president and C. C. for the evening, Sharon Hansen, gave the toast to the Queen.

Sharon Overman toasted the Church, with Rev. Zwicker replying. Marlene McClements presented the toast to the Mothers, with a reply by Mrs Paul Klassen. A toast to the Girls was given by Mrs McClements, with Pat Moody replying. Linda Rand presented a toast to the leaders, to which Mrs Ian Harrison gave the reply.

Miss Penny Larsen presented Mr. Leo Anderson with a thank-you gift from the group for his help with their Bible Study and his driving the busload of girls to the Centennial Rally in Edmonton.

Miss Myrna Hagar, a CGIT graduate from Provost, was the guest speaker, and gave a very interesting talk about the preparations required for the step into adulthood, compared with the preparations astronauts need before entering space.

Miss Hagar's fascinating words were followed by the graduating services conducted by the two graduates: Miss Marlene McClements and Miss Pat Moody.

During this service the Explorer Leaders, Mrs Loreta Hendricks and Mrs Maryon Drager, presented Lois Gaster, Donna Crone, Glenda Young Charlene Harrison and Elvira Thomson, the Explorer graduates, with their "E" pins From Eleanor, representing the CGIT girls, welcomed them into the CGIT.

The two CGIT graduates gave a short but interesting account of what the group had meant to them. Mrs Maxine Morrison replied, and wished them the best in their future careers. She then presented each with a long-stem rose On behalf of the UCW, Mrs. Joyce Harrison presented the graduates with white Bibles.

The service and the evening closed with Benediction by Rev. Zwicker. The CGIT girls and leaders wish to thank the UCW and the women of the church who took over the kitchen duties on the evening of their banquet.

IN THE PIONEER DAYS —An early view of Sedgewick taken from atop the C.P.R. water tower, shortly after the turn of the century. Shown is a good portion of the main street and the Eastern section of the Village. Shown in the Centre foreground is the office of the Sedgewick Echo which was located on Railway Avenue and edited by Mr. A. J. Money (established in 1908).. The picture was furnished to the Community Press by Mr. E. H. (Earl) Ferguson, now living in Idaho.

Mr. Ferguson came to the Sedgewick district from the U. S. in April of 1906, and purchased the East Half of 13-43-13. This he later sold to Jim Finch. Mr. Ferguson also homesteaded the S. W. Quarter of 20-43-12 and his brother H. J. Ferguson homesteded 7-43-13. The Fergusons came from Marshall, Michigan, when Earl was at the tender age of 18 years. His brother Howard was 22. Earl stayed until 1911 and Howard until 1912. Earl returned to Michigan where he farmed until recently retiring and is now living with his son Ken in Idaho. This was the first trip back for Earl since 1912.

It was interesting to hear him speak of the early days, and mention such names as Harry Dreany, Alex McKee and John Burns. Mr. Ferguson told us that he bought the half section here for $9.50 an acre.. He recently sold his Michigan farm for $100 per.

The Tax Picture!

Taxes are bearing down very heavily on all Canadians these days. If you add up what Canadians pay out in personal income taxes, plus all the indirect and hidden taxes wrapped up in the price of goods and services, along with the various sales taxes, it would amount to more than a third of every dollar earned, for example.

Can Canadians afford more taxes? One would think not, but governments apparently think otherwise, judging from their stated intentions to increase their spending programs. Governments can raise money for their spending only by taxation or by borrowing, and there is no reason to believe that governments are scraping the ceiling of their borrowing capacity. This means that the money for increased spending must come from higher taxes. But there is an alternative, whereby governments can do what is necessary without raising taxes or without excessive borrowing. This is by establishing a sound system of government spending priorities so that the urgent and necessary things get done first and the less necessary things await their turn. The key is obviously the word "necessary" and a more searching and accurate definition of the word is needed.

Money for government spending programs can also be found in another way, by eliminating wasteful methods and practices just as any progressive business would do. At the Federal level, the Royal Commission on Government Organization pointed the way to achieving this, and more could be done to implement its recommendations.

The Cowboy Pays!

The "cowboy" at the wheel pays for his foibles. He is a definite menace in road traffic, but, usually without realizing it, his antict cost him money. For example, every time he forces his car tires to scream in cornering swerves, jack-rabbit starts or sudden stops, he scrapes rubber valued at from 50c to $1.50 off the tires depending on the degree of violence. If his tires are not properly inflated, and it is a safe bet that they are not, his loss is even greater.

Outlook '67!

The year 1967, more than a third finished, looks like a good one for Canadian farmers. In an industry as diversified as agriculture there are bound to be some trouble spots, but on the whole the picture looks bright. Canada Dept. of Agriculture economists say farm cash receipts should hit the $4 billion mark again in 1967, to equal or slightly exceed the 1966 record. For the moment at least there are no serious surpluses weighing the farmer down & indeed some of our farm products are in fairly short supply. With the world's population increasing by leaps and bounds, the position of the food producer is becoming more vital as each day passes.

Following last year's record-breaking wheat crop, we have more of this cereal on hand — 1,266 million bushels—than ever before. This means that competition for wheat sales will be keen. Canada expects to increase exports to traditional markets slightly. This, plus our contracts with communist countries, and what we will be supplying to developing countries, should bring total exports to 530 million bushels. The home market will take about 155 million bushels. The forecast is for a carryover of 580 million bushels on July 31 when the crop year ends, and the experts say this is not too much. Continuing high production of wheat will be required. But given average yields Canada should be able to meet the demand by planting 30 million acres to wheat this year, the same as in 1966.

The Truscott Case!

While it is true that a person suspected of a criminal offence, especially in a small community, may find the local citizens lined up against him through pre-conceived conclusions of guilt, we still have enough faith in the Canadian (British) judicial system to go along with it.. Jurors who after all are you and me, may have shortcomings, but our learned judges are too intelligent to be misled by fiction, and base their conclusions on facts.

We find it most difficult to imagine supreme court judges not coming to fair conclusions, and in the Stephen Truscott instance find ourselves agreeing with Prof. Keith Simpson, Britain's foremost pathologist who has called the hysteria raised by the Le Bourdais book on Stephen Truscott, a disgrace. We think, also, the latest outcry against the supreme court verdict, still more disgraceful..

When a government is intimidated and pressured into reviewing a case and the Supreme Court upholds the original decision by a majority vote, only to find another national campaign launched to pressure them even further, we are fast approaching anarchy.

Should the latest protest marches, Truscott petitions and attins cause a breakdown in Canada's judicial system, we could well find ourselves back under the law of the jungle or a dictatorship of the proletariat.

No Respect!

In a recent open golf tournament, a ten-year-old girl carded an 88 score. Seems these young people have no respect at all for their elders.

by A.C.H.

The following was taken from the Loughed News (Thro' The Window by Fred Rogers, of April 30th, 1967. It should be of interest to many baseball fans particularly in the Loughed area.

"At a recent meeting the Loughed Baseball team was re-organized for the coming season. New management, new blood is we are sorry to say, a new name it was decided to discard both the name and colors. "Wildcats." Too many old timers, myself included, watching Loughed without the familiar "Wildcat" will be like watching a foreign team. A name that has carried a team through 61 years of clean sportsmanship is not lightly discarded. The memories conjured up by the names of the old originals: E. Bried, J. Baker, G. MacKenzie, W. Reed, A. Joy, V. Daupe, J. Fisher, R. Erving, G. Carruthers and F. Sax, with Jimmy Morrison as manager and Rusty Adams as mascot, may mean nothing to present generations, but ask any old timer and as his eyes light up as his mind goes back to the days on the old school site, when they routed, bat or fought for the Wildcats. A name and record to cheer at but not to discard. The name was honestly won, as on one of their journeys trips (a game (I believe in Sedgewick) the cat was seen in a field, and pitcher Fried made a direct hit, and the boys completed the hill with their cats. It was later stuffed and mounted, and always carried on the hood of the manager's car. Only one of the originals is still with us, Bill Read. Most have gone to their reward, and the remainder we have lost track of. "Woodsman Spare That Tree" would be changed to "Mongement Spare That Name".

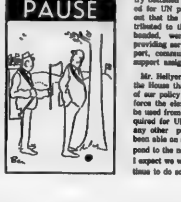
MATTER OF CONCERN!

Concern has been expressed by a number of weekly newspapers recently over the closing of farm implement agencies in several communities during the past few years. About eight dealerships have already been closed down and one machinery company spokesman has been quoted as saying that his firm expects to shut down eight or ten more in Northern Alberta.

The concern expressed in the weekly press is a real one. Implement agencies, and the farm population they draw into many towns, are a vital part of the economy of all areas. Also the convenience to farmers in the area, particularly during busy seasons of the year, would be difficult to measure accurately until the service is gone and it is too late. The difference between having a necessary machine part in a few minutes compared to the time consumed driving or sending to a distant agency could be a crucial harvest factor.

For our part the disappearance of the familiar implement signs in many towns is also a bewildering and sentimental loss. Many Alberta communities exist only because of agriculture, and if they are now to lose major farm suppliers where in the world are rural centres headed.

The larger communities that are losing agencies will no doubt feel the loss but at the same time will be able to take it in stride. Unfortunately, this will not be the case with smaller places where each succeeding economic blow moves them a little closer to extinction. — Western Review.



The Peacemaker!

OTTAWA — Prime Minister L. B. Pearson has voiced grave concern that the United Nations faces the same disastrous fate as befell the League of Nations, if it does not come up with specific action to restore stability in the Middle East.

"If the UN can't work out some peace keeping rule for itself, I don't think it is going to be able to exist as a political organization, and this causes me great anguish and anxiety," he said.

The Prime Minister, along with his secretary of state for external affairs, Hon. Paul Martin, have been closely questioned in the House of Commons and by the Press, as to the implications for Canada of the current Middle East crisis. The abolition of the United Nations Emergency Force at which Canada was a part, has caused the experts in the Government to do some deep thinking as to Canada's future role and a re-consideration of foreign policy.

Mr. Martin contends that President Abdel Nasser of Egypt in demanding the recall of the C..S adian members of the UNEF had violated up the great moral in fabric of ensuring that peace-keeping forces created by the UN be properly established by action of the Security Council. This was not done in the case of the UNEF in the Middle East. Consequently when President Nasser insisted that the UNEF be removed from Egyptian territory ,U Thant, the Sec.Gen. of the UN was forced to make a quick decision. After consulting legal authorities in the UN, he had decided that Nasser had the legal right to send the UNEF packing.

However, this action does not mean that peace keeping forces are doomed. Canada still subscribes to the important role to be played by peace keeping forces as established by the UN through formal action of the Security Council. The UNEF force in the Middle East succeeded in keeping the peace for a decade — although it was an uneasy peace, it had proved the worth.

It the decision is made by the United Nations that events dictate the need for a force moving back in between the would-be combatants, Israelis and the Arabs, Canada is ready & willing to provide troops to march under the Blue Flag of the UN.

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer told the Commons recently — as Canada's contingent to the UNEF was being flown home—that this country has on standby an infantry battalion in case it is requested for UN purposes. He pointed out that the troops Canada contributed to the UNEF, now disbanded, were man trained in providing services such as transport, communications and other support assignments.

Mr. Hellyer said, "I can assure the House that one of the basics of our policy is to have in our force the elements of which can be used from time to time as required for UN purposes or for any other purposes. We have been able on each occasion to respond to the needs of the UN, and I expect we would be able to continue to do so at any time in the future if this was in the national interest of our country".

But the peace keeping force is not a final solution to the Middle East tension. The Prime Minister has stressed there must be a political settlement of the differences between Israel and her United Arab neighbors. So far, the UN has failed to bring about a political settlement, and it is "far away as ever" to quote the words of the Prime Minister.

Mr. Pearson said the present crisis was grounded on fear.

Israel feared that her United Arab neighbors wanted to completely destroy the new state of Israel.

"The Arabs on the other hand were fairful that the UN in setting up the state of Israel did not make adequate protection for Arab rights, against an aggressive, expansionist Israeli state.

Mr. Pearson has warned that if there is not some sort of "cooling off" period the crisis could explode into a shooting war. Then was required so that both sides would be able to find a "little give" in their present rigid positions.

The Prime Minister is confident that re-establishing a UN "presence" between the Arab & Israeli armies would provide the necessary cooling off period. Yet the UN as soon as that was achieved would have to concentrate on finding a long-term political solution.

The Prime Minister emphasized that Canadian policy is to concentrate on the UN as an agency of "political" settlement for the Middle Eastern affairs.

He rejected any suggestion of Canadian favoritism. He acknowledged there was a strong Jewish Zionist movement in Canada. But he said there were also many Arabs in Canada.

"I would not like to admit that this influences me in the slightest, to close out," he said recently in conversation with a group of journalists.

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Martin have informed the Commons that they do not believe Russia will take sides in this controversy, or push for a showdown, to the point where total war would break out over the world. They believe the USSR will turn to the other great powers to see what can be worked out and as a consequence, out of this crisis might come a solution, because the UN would be forced to face up to finding a solution. Mr. Pearson has a theory he has held for a long time that out of crisis you can sometimes find a solution. Without a crisis a situation is allowed to drift and get worse and worse.

The Middle East crisis prompted President L. B. Johnson to make a map decision to confer with Prime Minister Pearson. The two men had been trying to get together for a heart to heart talk for three months.

The two men met dramatically at Harrington Lake, the official summer residence of the Prime Minister north of Ottawa, in Quebec's Gatineau Hills. They visited all the Middle East & also Viet Nam. Mr. Pearson sought, without success, to persuade the President to try once again to bring the North Vietnamese to the peace table, by a pause in the bombing. But President John son rejected such suggestions. Experts were taught that U. S. military is so suspicious of using the bombing as the North Vietnamese make the opportunity to build up reinforcements & replenish supplies. Inevitably the casualty rate of American Servicemen rises, after the bombing pauses. The President is ready to talk peace, if the North Vietnamese will make some reciprocal gesture. To date they flatly refuse to make even the slightest gesture.

APHID CONTROL!

Aphids can be controlled in trees (except the American Elm) with the Chemical called Malathion. Paint on a band of this chemical (full strength or slightly deluted in water for easy handling) that is six times as long as the diameter of the tree. The dissolution penetrates the back of the tree and is carried to the leaves. Aphids feeding on the leaves are soon killed.

Check with your Chemical dealer, Drugstore or Hardware for the trade name of chemicals containing Dimethoate.

TREATED CEREAL

Seeding is almost over for another year. If you have any treated seed left over handle it with care. Do not feed it or mix it with grain that is to be shipped.

In 1964, according to J. B. Carbo, Supervisor of Crop Protection and Pest Control, over 360 carloads of Canadian grain was condemned because of contamination with treated grain . Also two Alberta farmers were fined and one grain buyer was fined because they were involved to grain contamination.

Play safe and store all extra treated grain in a safe place for next year's seeding.

Regular School Board Meet

Regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Killam School Division No. 22 was held on Monday, April 28th with all Trustees and the Superintendent present.

Mr. A. Sorenson, representative of Flagstaff Council attended the meet.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

It was decided that no consideration be given to the service change requested by Calgary Power re the Daysland School addition.

Calgary Power requested that the service be changed to a 120/208 volt, 3 phase, 4 wire in lieu of the 120/240 volt single phase service now provided and also the metering placed inside the building. The Board's consulting engineer informed the Board that the change was not necessary and there would be no advantages. The engineers also stated that if the meter is placed inside the building power would cost more as each building would be metered separately and further, to make the changes recommended by Calgary Power would cost from $700 to $1000 which would be extra to the contract.

As recommended by the Architect, the doors to the Storage preparation room are to be built in type to take the room as explosive materials will be used.

Payment of bills numbered 69 to 109 were approved.

Approval was given for placing intern teachers and remuneration was set at $10.00 per day.

Approval was given for Mr. M. Sirdak of Daysland to attend an in-service Electronics Workshop at Camrose the week of June 30 - 31, with tuition fees paid by the Division.

Accident report on Lonnie Backen of Sedgewick Public School was filed as no negligence was evident.

As per instructions form the Department of Education, the Architect, Mr. Greene, be requested to prepare a regular contract on the standard R.A.I.C. form to cover the terms of employment for the approval of the board.

The request of the Sports Council for more tumbling mats was tabled.

Application of Mr. Milton Holmes to attend a Principals Short Course this summer was approved and negotiation fees of $220 be paid by the Division.

Secretary-Treasurer reported that photostatic copies of a Petition circulated by and on behalf of the Flagstaff Municipal Council, as a protest to the erection of a new School Division Office, had been delivered to the office at 8:45 a.m. by Mr. Mathews, councillor of Flagstaff, together with a covering letter from the Secretary-Treasurer of Flagstaff M.D. This letter also stated that a further motion was passed by Flagstaff council at a meeting April 22nd, 1947 requesting the board reconsider their decision to erect a school office, enter into negotiations to build jointly at Sedgewick, and that any decisions made be communicated to the M.D. office by 10:00 a.m. Monday, April 28th, 1947, either by letter or a board representative.

The Sec.-Treas. reported further that besides this petition, another was received from a group of interested ratepayers and electors of the Division supporting the Board's decision to build a new office. This petition stated that many electors felt the widely circulated petition of the Council contained unwarranted and improper statements of the school affairs and should be protested. They stated further that they were not an organized group and made no effort to door to door canvas of the Division.

The Board carefully considered the petitions, the letter and the petition circulated, and the other in a small area. The board came to the conclusion that the petitions generally served no useful purpose and led only to more confusion; at no time has the board failed to advise opposing the construction of a new office.

It was the unanimous decision of the board, on a motion by the Chair man that both Departments — Municipal and Educational be retained as stated above, with a copy of the heading as worded by the Flagstaff Council concurred in and by the other group attached.

Mr. Greene, Architect, attended at 4:30 p.m. and tenders for the new office, and Intern Teachers' Cottage at Cormode & Dickson, Edm. $67,220
C. Burrows, Camrose $63,151
W. J. Benson, Edm. $69,800
Reid & Leitch, Edm. $58,854
H. D. C. Const., Edm. $60,200
Watson Ltd., Tofield $56,264
Summit Const., Edm. $59,780

The tender of C. Burrows Construction Ltd., Camrose, in the amount of $63,151.00 for the construction of a new division office complete in Killam was accepted.

The tender form noted that the building would be complete by July 31st, 1947.

Mr. Brian Weeks, of Galahad was given the bus driving for the Galahad - Sedgewick - Sedgewick, in the end of June, on the proviso that he is successful in obtaining a proper driver's license.

Teacher's salary negotiating committee was requested to attend a meeting on May 3rd.

Forestburg Consolidated School District suggested that the 4 fifth children who have always attended Meeker School be deducted from the list of children whose transportation to Forestburg the Board does not approve.

Killam board concluded that this was an entirely different situation not to be mixed up with Forestburg's ruling of withheld reason.

RHUBARB — A Tasty Springtime Treat

Rhubarb was brought to Canada from Europe by our early settlers & has been the homemaker's standby through the years for tangy, colourful desserts, sauces, pies and puddings.

Rhubarb is at its tasty and colorful best in May and June and probably many of you have an acreage on hand. Freshly picked stalks are firm and crisp; the small or medium stalks are most tender. Spring rhubarb does not need peeling. The bright green coloring and helps to hold the pieces in shape. Simply cut off the stem ends and discard them. Wash the rhubarb thoroughly and cut it in the lengths desired for cooking. If you are not going to use it immediately, place in a plastic bag and keep in the refrigerator Freezing and canning are quite successful for this early farm storage.

When freezing rhubarb choose young, tender, firm stalks and prepare immediately. Cut the stalks in inches or in uniform stalks of 8-10 inches in length. Colour and flavour are retained if you parboil carefully. If raw rhubarb is blanched one minute and cooled quickly. Pack the fruit in air-tight containers or vapour proof containers. Quick freeze immediately.

Rhubarb can be packed in various ways. If cut in 1-inch pieces it can be packed without sugar, or use 2 cups sugar to 11 cups fruit or pack in one to one syrup.

Canning rhubarb is easy too! Wash, cut in 1/2 inch pieces, pack and cover with boiling syrup. Leave headspace. Process pints 10 minutes and quarts 15 minutes or five minutes in a pressure cooker.

Roast pork with rhubarb sauce is tart and saucy springtime treat!

Rhubarb Sauce
6 cups diagonally sliced rhubarb, 1 inch lengths (about 2 lbs.)
1 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup fresh orange juice
2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 cups rhubarb-rose syrup
1/2 tablespoon grated orangerind
2 tablespoons cold water
1/4 cup sweet white wine

Trim and wash rhubarb, cut diagonally into 1 inch length. Place in a pot, add sugar, and mix well. Spoon into a 2-quart casserole. Add orange juice, wine. Cover Casserole and bake in 325° oven, 35 minutes or until rhubarb is just tender but still holds its shape. With a slotted spoon, carefully remove rhubarb pieces, allowing them to drain first, then place around roast pork on platter. Measure 1 1/2 cups syrup remaining in casserole, place in saucepan, bring to boil, stir in butter. Blend cornstarch with water & add. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened and clear. Serve with the rhubarb and roast pork.

Edmonton Choir at U.C. services

KILLAM — Anniversary services of Knox United Church at Killam and St. Paul's United at Strome were held on Sunday, May 25th at the usual morning services. This was the 14th anniversary of the dedication of the present Killam United Church.

This church started in 1908 as a Methodist church, in which caste people of several denominations. The following year a church was built on the present location, and was under Presbyterian jurisdiction until Union in 1925.

For this year's anniversary the congregation was privileged to have the choir from McDougall United Church of Edmonton, and very much enjoyed their fine anthem. Thirty-five choir members & their organist, Mr. Frank Johnson, were in attendance at both services.

Rev. F. C. Peterson preached an interesting sermon, reviewing the church's history, and also told of the early development of the Village and district.

Following the service in Killam, the congregation and guests enjoyed a pot luck luncheon in the church hall, at which Mr. Ed Borth acted as the M. C.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

PLENTY! The quality in Lennox furnaces begins where it stops in others. Compare the quiet reliability mounted blower; the vast difference in filter area; the efficient design of the heat exchanger. The difference in furnaces could be the difference between your being completely comfortable and simply "getting by". Lennox furnaces are designed to handle the extra load of air conditioning.

E. Siggelkow New Killam Minister

On May 19th the Congregation of the Killam Pentecostal Tabernacle had a welcome service for their new Pastors, Rev. and Mrs. Kristel Siggelkow. Every department of the Church took part, with some of the young people putting on a very interesting skit, demonstrating where all pull together the load is quite easy, but if the Pastor has to do it alone it becomes almost impossible.

After the service a delectable lunch was served to all present and a grocery shower was given to the Siggelkows.

On Sunday, May 28th, Rev. E. Siggelkow was officially inducted as Pastor of the Killam Pentecostal Tabernacle by Rev. S. R. Tilton, Alberta Superintendent of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

Rev. Siggelkow is a graduate of the Fundamental Bible College of Port Coquitlam, B.C. and has had many years experience having served Churches in Man., Sask., and Alberta. For the past ten years in High River, Alberta.

Mrs. Siggelkow is also a minister, having graduated from the Northwest Bible College in Edmonton and pastored churches at Westlock and Provost as well as serving in the field of evangelism in the two western Provinces for some time.

We welcome the Siggelkows to our Church as our Pastors and invite you to come and enjoy their rich ministry.

Alberta's varied population is made up of 45 percent British Isles origin, 14 percent German, 11 percent Ukrainian and Polish, seven percent Scandinavian and six percent French.

Shower Held For Carole Taylor

SEDGEWICK — A lovely miscellaneous shower in honor of bride-elect Miss Carole Taylor, was held on Friday evening last at the Prince of Peace Chapel.

Carole was seated in a decorated chair under a dainty pink and white parasol, to watch a fashion show of Centennial costumes. The models depicted various costumes worn by her grandmother, mother and herself. A humorous song relating the events of Carol's life was also rendered.

The gifts, in a little school, were presented by two of the bride's cousins. The bride was assisted in the opening of the gifts by the bridal attendants Misses Marilyn Taylor and Pat Galletly.

Carole gratefully thanked her many friends for the lovely gifts, and invited all to come and see her.

There are still wide open spaces in Alberta, where a population of a million and a half persons provides a density of fewer than six persons per square mile.

A lovely lunch was served, which to a close. Carole will be making brought a most enjoyable evening her new home in Edmonton.

Thank You!

My sincere thanks to my many Patrons for their Valued Patronage over the past years.

I have leased my Service Station to Mr Lorne Poyser, well-known Sedgewick Mechanic, and trust that the happy relationship I have enjoyed with you, will be continued with Mr. Poyser.

Gordon Taylor

Exercise Tests Hospital, Staff

KILLAM — A Mock Disaster Exercise was carried out at the Killam Hospital Complex on Wed., June 7. The Exercise was not as extensive as the one done in 1964, but rather confined to internal activities.

The aim of the annual internal exercise is.

(a) To prepare the medical and hospital staff to meet the influx of a large number of casualties.

(b) To meet a specific standard set out by Council on Accreditation of hospitals.

(c) To insure the public that their hospital is prepared at all times to meet the demands brought on by a disaster involving many casualties. The care of relatives of victims and chiefly saving life.

In 1958 a large Disaster Exercise is again to be carried out through Civil Defence Organization.

The high school students from Separate and Public Schools participated extremely well as the simulated casualties.

Most of the functional areas of the hospital and the service were called out. There are three basic functions:

1. To evacuate patients who are able for discharge from General Hospital, to make accomodation for victims.

(2). Casualties are brought to F. B.A. from entrance to triange for assessing, sorting, identification, limited emergency treatment and tagging for assignment to beds in the General Hospital.

3. FBA patients remain where they are and are not evacuated.

Two empty rooms are reserved for Psychiatric patients and the FBA treatment room is used for all minor injuries.

An evaluation critique was made at close of the Exercise and the weaknesses noted for reference at later reviews.

Busy Bees Lead Fastball League

The Young Social Crediters (Busy Bees) remained the only unbeaten team in Flagstaff Football League after the first week of action, having won both their games.

On Monday they dumped Alliance 17-2. Doug Mercer was the winning pitcher, scattering six hits. Al Laursen the the loser, giving up 11 hits before being relieved in the fourth. Alliance was not up to par, as they committed numerous errors. Busy Bees, playing mostly with their younger members, fielded well. Norm Bergerson hit the only home run of the game, which capped a great night at bat.

On Thursday the Busy Bees outlasted a late bid for victory by the tough Sedgewick Cougars. Doug Munro struck out 10 batters in gaining his 10-victory. Ev. Mayne was the losing pitcher although it was some late outfield errors that proved costly to Sedgewick. The Busy Bees again terrorized the opposition with their hitting power. Norm Ranger played a solid game at first & went 3 for 4 at bat, including a home run and a double.

Killam opened their season at home with a 9-2 win over a stubborn Sedgewick team. It was a combination of John Pyra's hitting (including a home run) and Bill Rancier's 4-hit pitching. Ben Els was the losing pitcher.

On Thursday night Alliance rebounded from their shaky start to win a squeaker 5 to Killam 4-4. This was managed by a 3-run 7th inning. Virgil Lawrence was the winning pitcher, giving up 10 hits. Richard Wills led the Alliance batters with a home run and a double. John Pyra was tagged the losing pitcher, giving up the winning runs in the seventh inning.

At the end of one week's action Dennis Vewer of Alliance & Norm Rancier (Busy Bees) lead in the race for the batting crown, each with a .714 average.

Stampede Sets 1st Day Record

HARDISTY — The annual Hardisty Stampede, which has never been completely rained out in its 39 year history, came very close last weekend. Originally scheduled for Friday and Saturday, only the parade was held on Friday, as the rain forced postponement. On Saturday it was still raining, but on Sunday the Stampede finally got underway, and the Sunday crowd proved to be the largest first-day attendance in the history of the stampede.

The show proved to be one of the best ever also, as a number of competitors who were in other stampedes arrived on Sunday, and competition for the prizes was very tough. A complete list of winners is not yet available, but Medicine Jones of Lethbridge was named the All Round Cowboy. Ed Manning of Hardisty won the Old-Timers Derby Race and Tom Dorchester of Westrose won the Chuckwagon Trophy.

Miss Diana Collier, representing the Strong Local FUA was the Queen Contest.

Goin-Johnson Vows At St. Paul's United

St. Paul's United Church in Hardisty was the scene of a wedding on March 18th, 1967, when Janet Virginia, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs Gustav Johnson became the bride of Michael Daniel Goin, only son of Mr and Mrs. Robert Goin of Millet.

Rev. W. G Belcher officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor length gown of peau de soie satin with an empire waist and bell sleeves, a matching train fell from her shoulders. She wore a shoulder length veil fashioned by Mrs. Jock Clibben and white gloves. Her bridal bouquet was of yellow roses and heather with white satin streamers.

Miss Ruth Towers of Alliance was the bride's maid of honor, and Miss Dorothy Lear of Vegreville & Miss Nancy van Zomeren of Wetaskiwin were her bridesmaids. They were identical mauve floor length gowns of peau de soie satin and matching head dresses. Each carried nosegays of white mums entwined with mauve ribbon.

Mr. Garth Rudolph, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Mr. Hagar Johnson, brother of the bride, & Mr. Bill Moore, friend of the groom, were the grooms other attendants.

Mr. Paul Clarke, brother-in-law of the groom, and Mr. Daniel Gain, cousin of the groom, were ushers.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Lloyd Peacock sang 'Because', accompanied by Mrs. Arne Huse who was organist for the wedding.

The bride's mother wore a suit dress in tones of blue, pink and gold with pink accessories, and a corsage of pink talisman roses.

The groom's mother chose a rose-colored suit with rose accessories & wore a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held at Haspin Hall which was decorated in mauve and yellow. The brides table was decorated in icons of mauve, white and yellow and centered with a four tiered wedding cake, which was made by her mother, and flanked by white tapers.

Miss Nancy Plaude was in charge of the guest book for the evening. Mr. Harmon Burpee acted as M.C. Mr. Lyle Cox proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded

Mr. Tom McCracken read an enjoyable poem he had composed for the young couple. Telegrams were read from Whitehorse, Alliance, and Ottawa. Mrs. Lloyd Peacock, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Arne Huse, favored the guests with two songs. "Hello Young Lovers" and "Wouldn't It Be Lovely".

Out of town guests were from Millet, Wetaskiwin, Thorsby, Edmonton, Stony Plain, Alliance, Pumpkin Lacombe, Provost, and Vegreville.

Open house and a dance were held at Enfield School following the reception.

For her going-away costume, the bride chose a cardinal suit dress with black accessories, complimented by a yellow rose corsage.

Following a honeymoon in Toronto where the groom is at school for the next few months, Janet and Mike plan to return and reside in Edmonton.

WEDDING BELLS

STEFANISHION — KRAUSE

VOWS EXCHANGED

St. Boniface Roman Catholic Church at Spring Lake was the scene of a lovely afternoon wedding on May 20th, when Rose Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Stanasiehion exchanged vows with Mr. Wayne Douglas, son of Mr. & Mrs. Adolf Krause of Edmonton. Rev. Jean Schmitzer officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Sharon Zimmer played the organ, while Vonnie, Misty Ann and Debby Stefanishion, Gail Lesner and Mrs. R. Weiler sang for the mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor-length gown of white peau de soie, with a sleeveless floor-length coat finished off in a round train. The bodice of the gown & the ball-shaped sleeves were accented with embroidered lace. She carried a white prayer book topped with an orchid. The bride's attendants, Arlene Stefanishion, maid of honor, and sister of the bride, and Sandra Dorbashuk, friend of the bride, Gail King and Marlene Stefanishion, cousins of the bride, were identical floor-length gowns of teal blue and white with matching sleeveless coats, and carried bouquets of white mums. They wore tiaras in their hair.

Attending the groom were Keith Bradley, Jim Stefanishion, Ken Gamache and Morris Krause. The ushers were Duane Stefanishion and Ed Krause.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs Stefanishion chose a blue lace dress and white accessories and corsage of white roses. The groom's mother wore a white knit suit with pink accessories.

Keith Bradley was M.C. for the reception for 200 guests held in the Nessler Elks Hall. Jim Stefanishion, brother of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride which was ably responded to by the groom. Diane Krause and Vonnie Stefanishion were in charge of the guest book.

Out of town guests followed the reception, after which the happy couple left on a two-week honeymoon. The couple will reside in Edmonton.

By Miss Irene Bly, Your District Home Economist

Nothing To Wear!

The fact that the closet is bulging is insignificant. Her ladyship has nothing to wear!

And there are some pretty good reasons why. You may be an impulsive buyer. Look for these faults in your wardrobe.

Clothes That Don't Fit Your Life!

Every garment should fit your way of life. There is no point in buying ski clothes if you do not ski. Nor will formal "at home" clothes serve any purpose if you don't entertain frequently. Your clothes should be comfortable so that you will be happy in them and wear often. Basic dresses, coats and suits, simple styles, un-cluttered styles that can be adapted to various occasions by changing accessories, are a major item.

Clothes That Ignore Your Color Scheme!

Wardrobe is best planned around one or two basic colors, blue and green, for example. That is not to say that your wardrobe should be an uninteresting combination of one color, all browns and beiges, for instance. On the other hand, a pink sweater is not likely to fit into the wardrobe made up largely of blues and greens. Consider colors in relation to your skin colors and personal preferences. Then select major accessories to go with your basic colors.

The Dress That Doesn't Fit!

Sad but true. If the waistline just a bit short or the hips a little more or skirt a little short, you won't enjoy the garment. Don't buy it. Well-fitted garments can make a $10.00 dress look like a million or a $100.00 dress look like $1.98 special.

Clothes You Don't Like!

Each garment should please you, the color, fit and style. The color does not suit you, but you shouldn't pass it up. Well, you can, because you'll pass it up once it's hanging in the closet. It is not a bargain if you are not satisfied with it or if you have nothing to wear it with.

A 1947 power penny is worth a lot more these days.

While the buying power of an ordinary 1947 penny has disappeared into near oblivion, the buying power of a power penny has doubled over the past 20 years. Today a power penny buys a "houseful of happiness"! Just look at how little it costs to enjoy the convenience of electric appliances.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

PLENTY! The quality in Lennox furnaces begins where it stops in others. Compare the quiet resilient-ly mounted blower; the vast difference in filter size; the efficient design of the heat exchanger. The difference in furnace cost will be the difference between your being completely comfortable and simply "getting by". Lennox furnaces are designed to handle the extra load of air conditioning.

FAMILY HORTICULTURE DAY JUNE 26TH

Because of popular demand, another Horticulture Field Day has been arranged for the the Municipalities of Flagstaff, on Tuesday, June 20th. This family day will be held at the Gordon Spiller Farm (Vergreen Stock Farm) 3 1/2 miles East of the Dayaland Auction Mart.

The Horticulture Day will start at 10:30 a.m. We are again privilged to have Dene Hargreave, Supt. of the Brooks Horticulture Station, to conduct the tour. He will discuss & illustrate pruning of trees and the use of trees, shrubs and flowers in adding beauty to your homes.

Pack your lunch; bring your family and enjoy this outing of a Horticulture interest. Coffee & soft drinks will be served courtesy of the M.D. Flagstaff, and Dixie Cups courtesy of the NAPP. This will be an enjoyable and educational day. Plan now to meet at the farm of Gordon Spiller at Dayaland.

TENT CATERPILLAR INVASION!!

Test Caterpillars are chewing up everywhere this year. Where their numbers are high considerable damage will be done in a short time. Inspect the foliage of your trees, hedges and other plants often.

Publication 627 on Control of Insects in trees, shrubs and shelterbelts gives recommended control measures. DDT sprayed on the foliage when the caterpillars are first noticed, will control them. Malathion is effective too, but more expensive. It should be used on trees producing edible fruit if the fruit has formed at the time of spraying.

HARDISTY STAMPEDE PARADE — Although the rain caused the annual Hardisty Stampede to be held two days late, on Sunday and Monday, this year, it couldn't stop the parade which went ahead as scheduled on Friday morning. Many spectators have noted this year's show at the Stampede as one of the best ever held and attendance out records.

Ball Tournament Held At Killam

KILLAM — The "Luck of the Irish" was with the Killam Baseball Club last weekend as they neatly wedged their ball tournament in between rain showers.

CROP REPORT

The most recent crop report, and which covers the local area, states that seeding is practically completed over the entire area, with earlier sown fields of wheat now about four inches high. Moisture conditions remain satisfactory in west central Saskatchewan and East Central Alberta. Surface moisture is becoming depleted through most of Sask. due to strong winds. A considerable amount of soil drifting has occurred with scattered reports of damage to grain crops.

Since the report was issued, the local area served by the Community Press received a real soaking rain. The rainfall started last Thursday evening and continued quite steadily all through Friday and Saturday, resulting in around two inches of precipitation. As practically all seeding was finished, this rainfall was a real boost to the crops.

After raining on Thursday and Friday and drizzling on Saturday, the weather cleared enough on Sunday for the tournament to go on and the weather remained good most of the day. But within half an hour of the finish of the final game, it was raining again.

In the first game the Stromo nine defeated Killam 8 to 6. In the second game Sedgewick won out over Lougheed 8 to 6. The final game, which was very close until the final inning, saw Sedgwick defeat the Stromo club 11 to 3.

A three-team Men's Fastball playoff was held, with the Killam team taking first place and Alliance winning second. The third team had been quickly gathered together for the day.

Killam baseball team were sponsors of the tournament and were pleased with the number of spectators who turned out in spite of the threatening weather.

Speakers from the Executive were Mr. Delmon Lee, Mr. Mac Hoddlestee, 2nd Vice-President FWUA, and Mr. Wilson Loree, Vice-Pres., Junior FUA; Mr. Casey Cheatle of the Co-op Insurance Services briefly outlined the services offered by CIS.

Students of the Galahad School, under the direction of Miss K. Pascal, entertained the delegates with the "Centennial Song" and other numbers, which was much enjoyed.

Fraedrich, Killam; Alternate FWUA Director, Mrs. Daisy Jensen, Hardisty; Alternate FUA Director and Sub-Director of Flagstaff Sub-Dist., Mr. Albert Fossum, Hardisty; Sub-Director, Camrose Sub-Dist., Mr. Bernard Boehling, Chestnut Sub-Director Bentler Sub-Dist., Mr. J. Norwegian Singer To Perform At Lougheed

(Editors Note: The following is a Biographical Sketch of Mr. Odd Wannebo, Norwegian Singer who is to appear at Trinity Church North of Lougheed on Sat. June 24th)

Odd Wannebo was born in the famous little town of Nannoss on the Nannoss fjord in the middle of Norway. His great interest and rare talent for music was obvious from his earliest childhood. He played in several children's bands and orchestras, always receiving encouragement from his music - loving mother. Odd was raised in the middle of the world depression of the thirties, which was further aggravated by the tough circumstances of Norway's invasion. Although he was the youngest member of his family, he was compelled to assume responsibility as family breadwinner at an age of 13. To complete his academic education it was necessary for him to study at night. He also showed a great deal of creative talent in art, and decided to go to Oslo and prepare himself for a career as a commercial artist. While in Oslo he began singing with a group of fellow students who performed in penal institutions. The pianist at the penitentiary contacted one of the stars of the Norwegian Opera Co. when she heard him sing, and within six months Odd was singing in the chorus of the Opera. Soon he was a soloist with the Opera Company.

The opera star toured Europe in 1953, giving church and hall concerts. While he was performing in Iceland he received an invitation to come to New York. He has been in the United States for all ten since, where his concerts have taken him to most of the States, including Alaska, and to Canada.

Besides the acclaim given of his presentations of the most difficult arias and concert numbers, he also receives thunderous ovations whenever he picks up his guitar and accompanies himself to his stage favorites and European folk songs and spirituals. His versatility as a singer is unsurpassed by any reporters extremely extensive. He is not exaggerated, a tremendous asset to any performer, but achieved by few.

Muirhead-Bownes Vows Exchanged

At Sedgewick United Church, Rev. Lewis officiated at the marriage of Gail Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. Robert Bownes, and John Lyle Muirhead, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Muirhead.

Bouquets of pink and white blooms and carnations flanked the Altar.

The bride, escorted by her father, entered the church to the strains of the wedding hymn played by Mrs. Ronald Bowness.

Gail wore a floor-length white lace over taffeta, empire-line dress with an over-jacket of white satin from which enfolded her train. The sleeves were elbow-length lace with flare cuff. Her shoulder-length veil of white illusion misted from the top of a single organza rose. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and with white satin bow.

The bride's attendants were her two sisters Coreen and Peggy Bownes and a close friend, Mrs. Jim Hopkin who were identical styled empire-line gowns of pink pea de soie and moiching bows as head pieces and carried arm bouquets of white and pink carnations tied with white satin bows.

The groom was attended by Mr. Jim Hopkin, David Rembaugh and his brother Gordon Muirhead. Mr. Ken Bownes, brother of the bride, and David Muirhead, uncle of the groom, acted as ushers.

During the signing of the register, Isobel Ferrier sang a beautiful solo "The Wedding Prayer".

The afternoon reception was held in the Sedgewick Community Hall, where Miss Muriel Hunt efficiently took charge of the guest book. The bride's mother wore a knitted suit of jade green with beige accessories and a white and yellow rose corsage. The groom's mother wore a coral knitted suit with white accessories and white and yellow corsage.

Mr. Eric Bruland, uncle of the groom, served as Master of Ceremonies and the toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. H. Burns, a friend and former teacher of the bride and groom. The groom graciously responded.

For her going-away trip through Banff, the Okanagan Valley and part of the U.S., the bride wore a black and white woven Houndstooth ensemble with white accessories and a white rose corsage.

Out-of-town guests included many friends from Red Deer, Edmonton, Calgary, Camrose, Strathmore, Castor, Barrhead, as well as from neighboring towns.

Marie Storbakken Wed At Leduc Church

Bouquets of white and pink gladioli decorated Grace Lutheran (GNs dental) Church, Leduc, Alberta on May 6th, 1967 for the afternoon double-ring ceremony which united in marriage Jeanne Marie Abbot daughter of Mr and Mrs Vernon Storbakken of Lougheed and Edwin Andrew, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hartfelter of Warburg.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus, and looked radiant in a floor-length gown of picrs de' elegant, empire A-line with matching train. The gown and wrist-length veil had sleeves re-trimmed with flower-ed lace. Her chapel-length veil of fine net was held in place with a piors de' elegant and flowered lace wedding band. A white pearl necklace and matching gift of the groom and a bouquet of yellow roses completed her ensemble.

The bride was attended by her sister Lorna Mae, who preceded her to the altar attired in an empire line yellow linen dress with yellow flowered georgette bodice, elbow-length scalloped sleeves and mesh-line. Her bouquet and headband were of matching white carnations. The theme of her costume was carried out with dainty pearl necklace and earrings and white accessories.

The groom was attended by his brother Walter Ushiro were Allen Hartfelter and James Storbakken.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Dansterhault, who had been the officiating clergyman for the marriage of the parents of the groom.

During the signing of the register Miss Erlinda Casinas sang, "The Wedding Prayer". Accompanied by the organist Miss Judy Pottier.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. V. Storbakken chose a walking suit of green and white flock linen with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses and white carnations. Mrs. H. Hartfelter, mother of the groom, wore a royal blue two-piece voil suit with pink and blued accessories. Her corsage was pink roses and white carnations.

The two-tier wedding cake made by Margaret Fader and decorated by Mr. Stevens of the Leduc Hospital staff, and pink and white glazed bonnpaka graced the bride's table at the Town House Motor Hotel, Leduc, where a reception was held for the immediate family. Master of Ceremonies was Mr. Walter Hartfelter and the toast to the bride was given by her brother-in-law Ralph Stiel. Miss Catherine Storbakken, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

A wedding dance was held at the Thorsby Community Centre, with music by the Country Cents, Leduc. In charge of the guest book were, Del Herring, Maxine Martin and Erlinda Casinas.

For their honeymoon to Salmon Arm, Penticton and Lougheed, the bride chose a two-piece apricot and white fleck wool suit with beige accessories. Her corsage was white roses. The happy couple have taken up residence on a farm at Warburg

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

THE ANNUAL SUCKER PLAY

Tranquility is the most evasive thing in the world. At least, it is if you have a family. There must be a few rich, happy families who can put their feet up, read a book and take a trip without becoming lawyer-ed in several hundred irritations.

Every spring I go through the same routine, and I can't understand why an intelligent man can be so stupid and suckered annually. All it proves to me is that experience teaches you nothing, contrary to the old saw.

Each year, May beckons like a beautiful maiden clad in the filmiest of draperies. Every year I pursue her, panting (or puffing). And each year she turns out to be an old hag garbed in potato sacks, with a wart on her nose, falsies, and bad breath.

The worst of the Winter's grind is over. And I have a few weeks leave and a warm breeze, for a soft rain and a warm sun, for a little coal fishing and some hot golf, a little puttering in the yard. Nothing, wild, colorful or exotic. Just a touch of relaxation, and a chance to catch me with the ease on not would drive the shepherd.

Mostly, it's the Old Lady's fault. Like many women, she begins in late Jan and Feb to get restless to day spring sunlight, and acts accordingly. For a solid month, I've been nailing up drapes and wiping wall paper and chesterfield covering. Saturday night, I'd had enough. I told her so. Then I didn't crow if she decorated the whole house in pink and purple, but to include my self.

Then I got a one-hour lecture, listing various examples of mean-er-in-law, on my short-comings as a husband. So I finally tell her which of the masculine sex I am. And then she tells me what rotten taste I have.

And I bride. Yes, I literally bride-le. It's quite a trick. I tell her I like the decorating as it is. We've only had it 16 years. I ask her what's wrong with the drapes we bought from the bride's table at the Town House Motor Hotel, Leduc, where a reception was held for the immediate family. Master of Ceremonies was Mr. Walter Hartfelter and the toast to the bride was given by her brother-in-law Ralph Stiel. Miss Catherine Storbakken, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

A wedding dance was held at the Thorsby Community Centre, with music by the Country Cents, Leduc. In charge of the guest book were, Del Herring, Maxine Martin and Erlinda Casinas.

For their honeymoon to Salmon Arm, Penticton and Lougheed, the bride chose a two-piece apricot and white fleck wool suit with beige accessories. Her corsage was white roses. The happy couple have taken up residence on a farm at Warburg

"Dad, I have all my life to go to college and settle down to a job and raise a family. What's the rush?" What, indeed?

It offends my puritan up-bringing, the whole protestant ethic of hard work, and the capitalist-materialistic outlook of our society. But I can't help a smoking agreement with him.

I've been hacking away for 20 years, and have wound up with a couple of honkie kids, a honkie wife, a car owned by the bank, a good-sized mortgage and a job that is draining my life away, drop by drop. What, indeed, is the rush?

Oh, well. Now the family has decided we're going to Expo, and there goes the last hope of a modicum of tranquility. And what the heck! Tranquility is for old guys. And I ain't an old guy, by said golly.

There's always next Spring.

The senior members of the congregation will be honored in a special ceremony, and the activities will be in keeping with the Centennial theme. The UCW will supervise the supper and donate turkeys for the meal.

The group is also collaborating with the ladies of the Anglican and Catholic Churches in the staining of street and house signs. Native Son Receives Literary Recognition

SEDGEWICK — Alec Weber, son of Mr and Mrs Ben Weber, had his literary efforts rewarded by having one of his compositions published in the Alberta Centenary Anthology, "The Chinook Arch." Also the contributions to the Anthology were selected from a total of approxi'ately 2000 submissions.

The submission, "The Swede's Grave," was based on the early history of the settlement of this district and reveals just one facet of the growth of Alberta. The memory of prairie stones marking the grave is still there to remind interested people of the sad episode. How much longer will they be around continues to signify its original purpose?

Alec writes for a hobby, and his favorite subjects are the local scene and children's stories.

Sunshine Club

The Sunshine Club held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Flana Alderdice with nine members and two visitors present.

The roll call was answered by a guess on the amount taken in by the raffle of a quilted bedspread. Lucky Vonderwark was the beaten prize with the closest guess. Mr. Ray Chapman was the bedspread.

After the business was concluded the Centennial project was talked over. The next meeting will be on July 6th and will be at the home of Mrs Daisy Chemyshen. Lunch was served after the meeting.

Saturday, July 1st is not just another routine birthday for Canada. This year marks the 100th Anniversary of Confederation, a day of fun from the Monday, July 1st of 1867, when the Dominion of Canada came, or was forged into Confederation. The day was proclaimed as a National Holiday. Bells pealed, fireworks popped, troops paraded and speeches rolled out on and on. It was a day of great rejoicing, in the binding of a great and vast land from ocean unto ocean. A celebration of the birth of liberty, it had been preceded by four years of intense and tumultuous times. It was the last great event of the nineteenth century and the celebrations of today.

When Alberta become a Province of Canada in 1905, there was occasion for further rejoicing, for now this great stretch of virgin prairie was an integral part of a great Dominion of Province. She has never looked back from that historic year, and Alberta's advancement down through the decades is no small degree due to the courage and determination of her pioneer citizens, who braved the land and brought it into production.

On Saturday, July 1st many Cities, Towns, Villages and Hamlets will be celebrating the Centennial of Confederation; some with pioneer uppermost in mind, some with rest and relaxation, and some of the more serious minded and appreciative with a deep sense of gratitude in being or having been a part of the building of this great Province and of Canada.

Kinette Club Ends Successful Season

SEDGEWICK — The Kinette Club of Sedgewick ended another season on Wednesday night with their June "Come As You Are" supper. Mrs. Ang. A commentary written by Jean Dies and read by Senja Beairsto, accompanied each outfit as members modelled their rather "homey" outfits.

The activities of the Club during the season consisted of, serving at two auction sales; raffling a road race set at Christmas which was won by Mervin Erikson, sponsoring a Christmas bake sale and smorgasbord table; catering for Imperial Oil at their grand opening of Engro; The club also took over the task of Cancer Drive from the W. I..

Besides a rather busy year, we feel it has been a useful one. Underclothes were sent to Ponoka Hospital; books donated to the local lodge, a prize given to the V. D. Eastly home for best Christmas decoration, with honorable mention going to Bernice Johnson and Richardsons; services were given to the Lodge Auxiliary for their annual banquet; craft and tea table; flowers were sent to the senior citizens at Christmas; a donation made to the first New Year baby born in the Killam Hospital; a 4-H plaque was purchased and presented to the winner of the judging competition and a bench was placed at Richardson's corner for the convenience of our elderly citizens. We are at this point in the midst of stripping an old car for the Kin Playground and equipping it for the enjoyment of the youngsters.

Our Centennial Project will also be completed in the near future. We are placing reflectorized street signs at each corner in town.

Our 10 members would like to take this opportunity to thank the general public for their support during the year. We look forward to serving them next year with a new executive, namely: Pres. Ralph Dies; Vice, Selma Eastly; Secretary, Myrtle Matthews; Treasurer, Marie Wold; Builetin Editor, Pat Johnson; Directors, Janette Harris and Donna Neville.

EARLY SOD HOUSE — This picture shows one of the early Sod Houses in which many of the pioneers in this district lived and built around the turn of the century. Also note the well with a rope and bucket for raising the water. Old-timers claim these houses were warm in the winter and cool in the summer, but were only good for a couple years. This picture belongs to Mr. Murry Pottage of Sedgewick.

Pancake Breakfast Expands

SEDGEWICK — The Committee in charge of the July 1st sports day at Sedgewick reports that reaction to the Pancake Breakfast which will be held in the morning, has caused it to be expanded.

A number of businesses and individuals have donated sausages and pancake flour, etc., and the plans have grown from the original simple menu.

Cooking and serving will be handled by "Stoney Lisher". Readily, "Stoney Cramton" Clark, "Pit Pusher" Cooper, "Tent Beak" Lawson & "Block Chin" Mote, and the pancake boy is not ruled out that a few more may be "Shanghaied" into helping out.

Another new feature of this years sports day that is causing a stir, is the special recognition of the oldest lovers of the district from 40 years ago. Many people have been planning to find out if they are eligible. Anyone who was living in the Sedgewick District 40 years ago can register during the afternoon at the sports grounds, where Mr. Arthur Falls will be in charge of the guest book. Those people will receive a certificate from the District.

Bouchard-Thorp Vows Exchanged At Camrose

The Camrose United Church was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, March 18th, when Diane Arlene Thorpe, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Thorpe, Camrose exchanged marriage vows with Allan Leo Bouchard, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bouchard of Killam. Rev. Frank McPhee performed the double-ring ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was radiant in an Empire line floor length gown of Peau de soie over taffeta, with lace appliques on the skirt. The yoke of nylon lace featured a deep sweetheart and elbow length sleeves accented by opening the Creed, followed by minutes and treasurer's report.

We are still working on our History Book. Could certainly use more stories and pictures. Come on, let us read and pat your story in our book. Mrs O Probst gave an interesting report of the Conference held in Edmonton. The Handicraft we had at Conference was on display, and we did very well. Thanks to the needle ability of members.

It has been brought to the attention of the W. I. that some children have been playing at the cemetery. As there is a chance of headstones being broken, parents would you remind your children there are better places to play.

Roll call was answered with your favorite recipe and why, as well as a sample. It made for a delicious lunch served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Riddoch.

MISCELLANEOUS BRIDAL SHOWER
HELD FOR MISS PAT GALLETLY
(From Journal)
SEDGEWICK — The friends and neighbors of Pat Galletly gathered in the Uhlman Hall on Friday, June 23rd to shower her with gifts and good wishes in honor of her coming marriage to Dale Brickner on July 8th.

Pat, accompanied by her attendants, Mrs. Richard Kyle (nee Carole Taylor), Miss Marguerite Galletly and Miss Carol Anne Bonner, was seated at a table prettily decorated for the occasion with a silver bowl of pink roses flanked by white candles. The bride-elect wore blue and white, appropriate to Pat's wedding theme. A group of 6 girls in Centennial costumes opened the program by singing songs of that era. They were accompanied at the piano by Loene Roggenbuck. Mrs. Gordon Taylor gave a reading highlighting the events of Pat's life up until now. She concluded by presenting her with a book of memories as a picture of the 100th anniversary. The Centennial Girls followed with a song dedicated to Miss De Pare (Mally Bruce) and her crystal ball, who delighted everyone with a humorous reading of "Fortune Telling."

The climax of the evening was Carol McKeage bringing in a wagon surmounted by a large apple container, from which the prizes were presented to Pat, singing "An Apple For The Teacher". While Pat opened her gifts, Mrs A. Collins and Mrs H. Beelrote fashioned a lovely bow from the shower ribbon. This novelty of the evening was presented to Pat by Janey Nees, who sang "Put On Your Best Bow Wedding Bonnet."

Pat very charmingly thanked the guests for the lovely shower, and invited everyone to come and see her next September in Daysland, where she and Dale will locate. They will reside in "the only purple house in town".

A lovely lunch brought the evening to a close.

WEED CHEMICALS GOOD & BAD
Weed Chemicals (Herbicides) should be handled with care around the home. The fumes from the water used to flush out the tank, can damage many of the plants used in landscaping the home. If you don't believe me ask J. D. or rather Mrs. J. D. of Sedgewick.
Herbicides, like 2, 4-D are growth stimulants They cause plants to grow faster then normally; in fact so fast that they cause damage to the plant cells and then literally grow themselves to death. Some plants (broadleaved plants) are very susceptible to the growth stimulents — the slightest whiff of them in the air will affect these plants. Others are quite unaffected by the chemical except in the seedling stage.
One of the most important factors in selective chemical weed control is early treatment. Most weeds even the hard to kill weeds are more easily killed when they are young. By young we usually are referring to the first two leaf stage of a plant.
Many farmers like to wait for more weed seeds to germinate so they can kill a large crop of weeds at one time. This practice is not usually the best, because the first weeds (if hard to kill weeds - cannot be killed by safe rates of the cheaper chemicals. Farmers who spray early report good results with lower rates of chemicals.
Check at your chemical agent or the D. A. office for recommendation Publication No. 641-1 is available, outlining Weed Control in field crop.

Centennial Fashion Show Well Received

KILLAM — A near capacity crowd filled the new parish hall at Killam to witness the Centennial Fashion Show presented by Circle 3 of the CWL.

From the time Miss Lorna Stobbaken, carrying a lighted candle, walked up the darkened hall wearing her great grandmother's nightgown, until the final Audience Participation Contest, there was never a dull moment. Mrs. Lloyd George provided background music through out. The commentator, Mrs Ervine Ost did much to enliven the show.

Quaint and beautiful bridal gowns of each generation, from 1873 to 1967 were shown. The Flapper of the 1920's with her short skirt and jazz garter, the ones demonstrated that the modern Miss could not only wear the dress but Charleston in it as well. The long, slinky lace gown of the 30's was contrasted with the short smart sheath of the present day. The Air Force uniform brought a grim reminder of the past. The Bloomer Girl with her basketball; the Swim Suit. Mrs Barry Gibb provided contrast with beautifully made costumes for each event.

The Eastern Culture was represented by an Indian Sari shown by courtesy of Mrs. Amin, and wedding dress and several saris and very beautiful costumes from the trousseau of Mrs. Walters.

Mrs Ervinen presented a group of beautifully fashioned Centennial gowns, modelled by local ladies.

Comic relief was provided by Roy Manning as poor old Pa routed out in his night shirt to "Stop the Hogs" and Mrs Millie Schulte as Miss Bathing Beauty of 1886.

Prizes in Audience Participation were: Original Gidiune Costumes, Mrs Blanche McGowan, Lyla Brove and Mrs Anita McGowan. Mrs Cranton and her girls (best family). Individual prizes went to: Mrs Bjorhorn, Mrs Olive Grant, Mrs Sandra Duncan, Judy Hilker. The door prize, a Centennial Cake, was won by Mrs Roy Manning.

Chocolate bars were given to the children courtesy of the Red and White store. Some 30 senior citizens were present as guests. As the oldest lady present, Mrs. Fan Senior, was presented with a corsage.

Hou Mr. Percy Pottage has brought in this picture to show our readers just how big the poppers were back in 1916. The sort's editors liked to send pictures like this to their relatives and friends to show just what they were putting up with.

What It Means To Be A Canadian !

(Ann Korth, Sedgewick)

1967! Canada's Centennial Year! Probably this year, more than ever, Canadians are asking themselves — what does it mean to be a Canadian?

What does it mean to be a Canadian? It's more than being hostess to the world for the greatest world's fair ever, Expo 67. It is more than living in a beautiful, resourceful country with majestic mountains and bountiful riches. It's more than little streams and brooks meandering down the sides of mountains, fighting their way to their destination. Yes, being a Canadian, has more meaning than this.

Being a Canadian entitles us to freedom and religion and speech, freedom from want and freedom from fear. Voting as he wishes for a political party is granted to any Canadian citizen over the age of 21.

During 1967 practically every country in the world can be seen by visiting Expo. Even without Expo various countries and their cultures can be detected by touring Canada in the Maritimes, which includes Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, Scotland can be recognized. Canadians here speak with a Scottish accent and on special days can be seen wearing traditional Scottish kilts and playing the well-known Scottish bagpipes.

Travelling westward in Quebec it is easy to detect France. The hustle and bustle of Montreal reminds tourists of a second Paris, without the Eiffel Tower. French cuisine, French books and magazines are all a part of any Quebec town or city.

The Province of Ontario and the Prairies have distinctive English cultures, but slowly other European cultures are mingling with the English ones. English theatres, arts and buildings are seen throughout these provinces along with others.

Reaching British Columbia, a great deal of Oriental is felt by the American visitor. To him, British Columbia, especially the city of Vancouver, reminds him greatly of California, or any other American city or state that he has just left behind.

What does it mean to be a Canadian? This question will probably be asked of many Canadians during this year by visitors to our country. I'll be ready with an answer. Will you?

CANADA!

(Beverly McDevitt, Daysland)

When Columbus discovered America in 1492, he did not know of his great discovery. He thought he had discovered a western route to the Indies. If he had known of his discovery he met the people here today would he have been proud of our country?

Are you proud to be a Canadian? Are you proud of your Canadian heritage? Do you even realize what a great country Canada is? Perhaps if you knew some of Canada's great men and some simple facts about our country, you would become a prouder Canadian.

There have been many great men in Canada's history. Men who have founded, settled, and built Canada into the great country she is. Men who have added to her culture and given their life for the well-being of their country.

Many men helped in founding Canada and settling her vast frontier; men such as John Cabot who first planted the English flag on the "new fonde londe"; men like Lord Selkirk, the founder of the Red River Colony and Louis Hebert, Canada's first white farmer. These men, and thousands of others helped to form a nation, Canada.

Canadian government too has employed outstanding men. Sir John A. MacDonald, who helped form Canada as a great federation, drew up Canada's Constitution, the BNA Act, and was Canada's first Prime Minister, was such a man, along with Alexander Mackenzie, who helped John A. Indeed, all of the Fathers of Confederation were great Canadians.

Callaghan, Souster, Conner & Montgomery, names famous in the field of literature, were all Canadian authors. They are known as Souster's Unit of Five and Other Canadians, The Man From Glengarry by Conner and Montgomery's Anne Of Avonlea. Each has contributed to the culture of our country, increasing our understanding and making us wiser and more broad-minded Canadians.

In the field of art, the "Group of Seven" stands prominent, with such members as Thompson and Jackson; men who painted Canada as it really is, bare and essentially plain but strong, beautiful and everlasting. All of these men were Canadians and each has contributed to the many fields of Canadian culture and helped in the building of Canada.

Canada has been a part of many famous events. The fact that Canada fought in World War 1, although just out of the struggle of infancy herself, should make one stop and think and be proud that he is a Canadian. Canada also fought in World War 2, going to the aid of her motherland. She lost many of her young men and much of her resources, but did not give up the fight until the battle was won. Canada is a very prominent member of the Commonwealth of Nations and is also a member of the United Nations. She sends wheat to the starving people of India, Asia and other underprivileged countries. Cloth es are sent to the poor of Korea, Asia and China. Scientists and men of learning are sent to these countries to educate the population and improve agriculture, change the ancient customs and bring to the needy, relief and hope. Canada holds a position equal to that of larger, more populated and older nations.

Also, this year Canada entered her 100th birthday. She will sponsor Expo 67 ,and over seventy countries will be represented in Montreal. This is to be the greatest world's fair ever, and Canada is greatly honored that she, although only 100 years old, was chosen for the site of Expo.

The culture of our country is rich & varied. It contains members of numerous nationalities. It is estimated to be made up of English, French, Slavik, German-Dutch, Jewish, Icelandic, and Indian-Eskimo. However, no matter what our national origin, religion, race or creed, we are all Canadians, proud members of the same country. A country we should all be proud to be a member of, be willing to serve, for all she has given us. All the outstanding men she has bred, the feats she has done, the freedom she has given us. Are we not proud of our country, of our Canada?

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.B.

On Saturday afternoon last the Community Press was visited by a group of ladies from New Zealand who are guests of the local W.W.U.A. and were being shown around the district to gain some idea of the local customs, etc. This is the second time in just about a month that I've had the chance to talk to people from "down under," the first having been a school teacher from the province of Tasmania in Australia. I don't know how much they are finding out about us but I found their descriptions of their countries to be very interesting. Countries well worth visiting if the opportunity should arise.

We have received copies of the second and third editions of the Strome School centennial project, "The Centennial Dispatch", put out by the grade 8 class giving a history of the Strome District. In it there is a story of the Hallowe'en Fire which broke out on October 31st, 1913 and destroyed or damaged several buildings.

In the story it is told how the Camrose fire department arrived at Strome on a freight train only to find the fire under control. Reading this brought back memories to our editor and he told the press staff about the fire some years ago that destroyed a number of buildings on the main street at Killam and how the Sedgewick Fire Equipment had chased the same passing freight train and taken to Killam to help fight the fire; and how he and a number of the up-and-coming citizens (who shall go un-named) played hooky from school and walked to Killam to watch the fire. He didn't say what happened when they got there.

I imagine that reading these histories by the Strome Students will be bringing back many memories to the older citizens of the Strome district, and probably a few to some of the not so old citizens, just as it did for our editor.

Everyone will find items of interest and as an example they printed an advertisement from an early edition of the Strome Newspaper which I found amusing. A Mr. C. H. Drake was advertising that he was a Veterinary Surgeon and a Dentist. If you wanted your teeth fixed you went to his office in the Livery Barn.

GET ALCOHOLICS OFF THE HIGHWAYS!

The evidence is growing that the alcoholic is a special hazard on the highways, says Earl Dunedo, editor of The Medical Post.

He quotes a study by Dr. Reginald G. Smart of the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario, revealing that 86 alcoholic clinic patients had twice as many traffic accidents as the general driving population. Another study shows that out of 72 fatal auto accidents 40 percent involved alcoholics. "These highway accidents, fatal or otherwise," Dr. Dunedo points out, "are not caused by so-called social drinkers who take a few beers and then drive home. They are caused by hard-core alcoholics who have a long history of heavy drinking & whose blood alcohol readings are consistently over the accepted level. We are not going to see any lowering of traffic accidents and fatalities until legislation and education is passed to keep alcoholics from driving. If provincial medical associations showed strong leadership in helping to keep alcoholics off the highway, perhaps some legislation might succeed. We can lawfully prevent people with ocular disorders and epilepsy from driving and these people constitute a minuscule hazard compared with the alcoholic driver. The evidence that the alcoholic driver is a killer is incontrovertible. Let us get him off the highways." — The St. Paul Journal.

The pendulum totting up Alberta's traffic fatalities, which had been slowing down during the first few months of 1967, is now beginning to pick up speed again.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

National Scandal Goes!

OTTAWA — In this, its 100th birthday year ,Canada is being yanked into the 20th century.

Parliament has passed social welfare measures that now place this country on the forefront of the nations of the world.

Its Canada Pension plan, plus its stepped up payments for all those now 75 years of age and older, has provided improved security for the senior citizens.

There is a hospitalization plan. And the government has had put on the statute books a medicares plan that is second to none.

Latest progressive move is the report of the joint special Senate Commons Committee to overhaul Canada's antiquated divorce laws. Canada's divorce laws are so antiquated they are a national scandal. But up to now any suggestion of reforming these laws has frightened the parliamentarians out of running for office.

Now the Senators and MP's are of a mind to do something about reforming those laws. The joint Committee has led the way. It tabled its 253 page report, incorporating a draft bill, in the Senate and Commons just before the parliamentarians rose for a summer recess.

The report is the product of a full year of public hearings and private deliberations by 24 MP's and 12 Senators. It calls for the addition of 10 new grounds for divorce to the four that already exist. The four now in force are adultery, rape, sodomy and bestiality.

The new grounds for divorce recommended by the committee make bigamy a separate ground distinct from adultery. New grounds include cruelty, desertion, wilful non-support, non-consummation, mental and physical illness, criminality and imprisonment, alcoholism and drug addiction and voluntary separation.

All the new grounds are delimited by various considerations which the courts must examine that will narrow their use.

As an example illness is only a ground if about half a dozen conditions have been fulfilled. Among them are that the illness has led to separation for three years and there is no satisfactory evidence of a reasonable expectation of recovery.

Prime Minister L. B. Pearson says the government may consider a free vote on the divorce reform bill. The bill will be brought into the House in the Fall and may be debated and passed after the bill is set out in the Committee report.

A "free vote" would mean the members of Parliament could vote according to their conscience with no regard for party lines. The Prime Minister hinted that a "free vote" might be held on when two members of the special parliamentary committee on divorce reform, Liberal Senator Muriel McQueen Fergusson and Conservative MP Heward Grafftey, announced they had changed their minds on the divorce issue.

Mrs. Fergusson is now in favor of the Committee members issued a statement in support of the marriage - breakdown concept which would eliminate grounds altogether and permit divorces where marriages simply could not be made to work.

Senator Arthur Roebuck, 83-year-old committee co-chairman presided at a press briefing just prior to the report being made public. He said that the Committee could not accept the full implications of the "breakdown" concept.

Senator Roebuck, one of the most old men of the Upper House, is perhaps Canada's outstanding authority on the divorce question. He has been a longtime chairman of the senate standing committee on divorce. He disagreed sharply with reports that there were as many as 300,000 "common law" couples in Canada. He said the mere accurate figure would be about 30,000 and proved such a figure was a disgrace for any country such as Canada which prided itself on being progressive minded. He hoped the proposed reforms in the divorce laws would enable many of these couples to make their "marriages" legal and thereby evade any offspring from the marriage als: legal.

The Committee did not recommend divorce cases to be taken out of the courts — a suggestion common among people who advocate Senate reform. The Senate at present handles divorces from Quebec and Newfoundland.

The Committee did recommend that the Senate be given the full power to determine such questions as alimony, maintenance & custody of children in granting divorces for Quebec and Newfoundland residents. Up to now, neither Quebec courts nor the Senate have acted in this field & this provision could provoke a major row in Quebec which was already split on these questions on falling within the category of property and civil rights, a provincial jurisdiction.

The Canadian people and the MP's will have the long summer recess from July 1 to about October 1 — to digest the recommendations of the divorce committee. Next fall the government will proceed with legislation and if the mood of the House is reflected by the mood of the Committee the bill will move fairly rapidly through all stages bringing about a much needed reform in Canadian life.

(From the Press of June 6, 1957)

On June 7th all eyes in this area will be watching television to see if they can see themselves in movies of the Hardisty Skandepots which will be shown on C.F.R.N. at 6:30 p.m. The films are part of those taken each year by Fr. Ellsin.

A three-hour fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Locker Plant at Strome on Sunday morning, at an estimated loss of $15,000. Fire ran from Strome to Killam, and Camrose joined the Strome Department but were unable to save adjoining buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hadalak of Hardisty have as their guests, their daughter and her husband and two sons. The family emigrated from Hungary last year and hope to settle in Canada.

We are glad to report that Mr. Ralph Smith of Lougheed found his wallet which he lost containing $1300. But talk about the Scotch being canny. After offering a sizable reward and the field being over-run by volunteer searchers, he goes out and finds it himself.

OH, TO BE IN ALASKA This little Cocker Spaniel finds the June heat a mite too much for his liking. He just slouched in the corner perspiring and gave every impression of wanting to be taken to a cold climate away from the heat. A dish full of prime dog food was placed a few feet away, but he just wouldn't move . . . too hot to be bothered he barked.

IT'S A GREAT COUNTRY

Since we are 100 years old this week, I should be grinding out an Ode to Canada, but I'm not. I'm not very thought of it makes me feel about 100 years old. (Come in Smiley, it ain't like that.)

Instead let's have an honest look at ourselves, to find out what we've been doing these ten decades productive.

Trying to pin down the Canadian national character is like trying to thread a needle in the dark, blindfolded and handcuffed. Trouble is, any way you add up the individual characteristics, they come out spelling schizophrenia.

For example, the experts tell us that we are an enormously inventive people, but we don't know how we don't talk much. Maybe it's because we're always interrupting each other and are too proud to show our ignorance. But at the same time, we are the world's champion talkers. According to the telephone companies, Canadians spend more time on the phone than any other nation, proportionately. Yes, Jack, my wife does too. Unacknowledged link in a backslash time pioneer days, when women often went for weeks without a chance to talk to anybody with grammar women. They're trying to catch up.

Another contradiction. In pioneering, exploring, Canada, we have shown ourselves bold, adventuresome, and brave. Yet we are timid about investing our money in Canada, and we also buy more insurance, per capita, than any other country. Why this caution, this desire for security? There's something Freudian about it: the mother-country; breast fed too long; returns to the womb or something. But we haven't time to figure that one out today.

We are as materialistic as we could be, and with some reason. It takes forty bucks a century to get from sod shanty to sonata, from barn raising to ballet. At the same time we are extremely culture-conscious, and are secretly delighted with the Stratford festival and the National Ballet and our sprinkling of symphony orchestras. As long as we don't have to attend.

Despite our reverence for culture we refuse to read. The quickest way to lose your shirt in Canada is to open a book store. In a population of 20 million, a new book that sells 10,000 copies is a runaway best-seller. It must be a bang-over from the pioneer attitude that a person must be "doing something" and that read ing doesn't come in this category. Or is it because we have too much money and too many toys?

Something else we refuse to do is walk. Everyone enjoys watching Englishmen love it. Why don't we?

Our trouble probably is, in equal parts, too far to anywhere; wanting to get there in a hurry; car-worship and highways.

We are heavy boosters, as the statistics show, for sports on the big-league, as a glance around at the next party will show. Why? Do we drink because we are sad, or are we sad we can't stand each other without the grape? Or is it because drink has always been associated with sin in this country, & man is born to sin?

Yes, we play hard, and most of us work hard. The sad thing is that the only reason we work hard is to enable us to get the things with which to play hard: boats and barbecues and built-in bars; cottages and cars and curling memberships.

Are we a religious people? Well, we have vast numbers of churches in every conceivable style, because most of them tottering on the brink of bankruptcy. But we aren't quite enough to leave God in church, where he belongs. He is rarely mentioned on weekdays, and usually then only as a prefix for another word.

We are without prejudice and we have been to prove it. But let's go on being honest, and admit the reason is not because we're open-minded on race, religion, language, color, or country. Don't agree? Just try joining one of those exclusive Jewish clubs if you happen to be a Black Muslim. Or getting a working job in a French convent school if you're a Jewish Rabino.

We have a few other little quirks, but I wouldn't trade my Canadian citizenship for four million in gold bullion. How about you?

There's a topic for your guest column, in our Centennial Save-Smiley Contest. Prize is now $50.00 cash. Get cracking.

PUDDING SCHOOL!
A few customers have indicated interest in a school that coming winter on feeding of livestock. They have in mind an afternoon session of two hours each for about six successive weeks. Farmers planning to attend this school could take samples of the grains and roughage they will be feeding and have them analyzed at the Dept. Animal Nutrition Lab in Edmonton prior to the school. They could then use the figures for their own feeds in making the "Least Cost Ration" for various classes of livestock.

If you are interested in such a school on livestock feeding please let me know soon and I will see just what can be arranged. We would want to be assured of a reasonable turn-out before embarking on setting up this type of school.

SIXTY ATTEND HORTICULTURE FIELD DAY!

The Gordon Spiller farm was the setting for our Horticultural Field Day. Farmers or gardeners met to spend an enjoyable day.

There was keen interest shown by the groups at Diane Douglass and John Otterloo from the Brooks Horticulture Station demonstrated the pruning of shrubs and trees. As we toured the Spiller farm they also pointed out the different varieties of shrubs and trees, noting their growing habits.

Alta. a picnic lunch concluded the afternoon and lasted at 3 when the know-how of landscaping were very capably answered by Diane Douglas and John Otterloo. Finally, thanks to the Spillers for allowing us ot use their farm and grounds for this educational and very enjoyable day.

Nellie Anderson Wed At Adventist Church

On Sunday, June 4, the Sedgwick Seventh-Day Adventist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Nellie Anderson, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Allen Anderson of Sedgewick, to Mr. John Radomsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Radomski of Edberg.

The bride's uncle, John Anderson, performed the ceremony after the father of the bride gave her away. Harry Anderson, cousin of the bride, sang "This Is Our Day" and "The Wedding Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. Marvin Hicks, sister of the bride, and also organist for the wedding.

The bride chose a floor-length empire-style gown of white organza over bonded crepe with a train extending from the raised waist. Her elbow length veil was held in place by a rose and she carried white orchids and baby carnations sprayed a light blue.

The bride's maid of honor was her sister Shirley and bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Reid of Sooke and her younger sister Patsy, who were identical blue floor-length gowns of organza and crepe.

Myrl Johnson of Gwynne acted as best man. Mr. Eugene Radomsky, brother of the groom and Mr. Jim Perry were ushers. The bride's mother wore a beige brocade suit with beige and black accessories, while the groom's mother chose an aqua dress and coat ensemble. Both were corsages of mums and roses.

The reception was held at the Sedgwick Community Hall where the bride's table was covered with a four-tiered wedding cake, made by her mother and decorated by the groom's mother.

Miss Wilma Smithe of Armstrong, B. C. was in charge of the guest book. Victor Fitch of Lacombe acted as Master of Ceremonies and Marvin Hicks, brother-in-law of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded.

For going away the bride chose a beige and pink brocade suit accented with beige and pink accessories.

The couple will be returning to the U. S. where the groom will attend medical school.

1966 — FIFTY-NINTH YEAR — 1967 SEDGEWICK, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JULY 13TH, 1967 Volume 58 — Number 8

Centennial Sports Day Held at Strome on July 3

STROME — On Monday, July 3rd Strome held their Centennial Sports Day which opened at 10:30 with a big parade. A beautiful day, with the added excitement of celebrating Canada's 100th birthday, drew the largest crowd seen for years.

The parade started at the North end of main street, passing down on the East side to the Selkirk Hotel and back to the Co-op Store, and turning West to Centennial Park. The different organizations, places of business and individuals are to be congratulated on the way they cooperated to make a parade Strome-ites were all proud of.

Members of the Strome Council riding in a 1926 Chev car, led the parade. This was followed by the Old Timers float driven by Mayor Pete Curtis. Melvin Freshler and Michael Nielsen & their children's band added to the festive occasion. One of the outstanding entries, featuring a true pioneer spirit, was that of Alex Todd and his covered freight wagon drawn by a team of oxen. What the pioneer man took and needed Alex had, including the donkey which he trailed behind. The Strome Centennial Twins and their parents Mr and Mrs Martin Kroetch were also in the parade. Judges had a difficult time in selecting the prize winning entries. First prize was awarded to Mr and Mrs Ralph Sereson of Killam; 2nd to Wavy Lake 4H Beef Club and third to Alex Todd's freight wagon.

The ribbon cutting ceremony for the official opening of the Strome Centennial Park was performed soon, after which families gathered in groups and enjoyed a picnic. At 1:15 the Ladies Fashion Contest took place Prizes for these were awarded to Mrs George Bergel for first, Mrs James Curtis second and Mrs Oscar Rak third. Various competitions followed the ladies show.

A museum had been set up in the school gym where relics from 50 to 150 years ago were on display.

Two ball games were played between 4:00 and 6:00 o'clock North against South with North winning. The North then lost the game played against the town.

At 10.30 a beautiful display of fire works thrilled the hearts of young and old. A dance was held later in the Elks hall.

Another fashion parade took place at the dance, with judging of couple for best Centennial Dress. First went to Mr and Mrs Mel Prosser, second to Mr and Mrs Geo. Bergel, and third to Mr and Mrs Oscar Rak.

Wildcats Win At Lougheed Tourney

LOUGHEED — At the 2nd annual Lougheed 5-day Baseball Tournament last weekend the fans were treated to the finest display of baseball seen locally this season.

The hometown Wildcats won their own tournament, winning three close and hard-fought games. Lougheed defeated Strome 8 to 7 on Saturday, and on Sunday won a 7-6 thriller with Hughenden by a score of 1 to 0 in ten innings, and then went on to win the finals from Camrose 16 to 10.

The weather for the tournament was not ideal. It was cloudy all day on Saturday, although not cold and the fourth Saturday game was rained out after three innings. This was completed on Sunday morning.

Sunday started out real nice, with clear sky and bright sun, but because steadily windier and colder as the day progressed.

In the Saturday game Lougheed was over Strome in the first game 8 to 7 after Strome had scored four runs in the sixth to tie the game. Lougheed came back to score in the seventh on a walk to Wagner and a single by Andy Knapp.

The second game was between Spring Lake and Sedgewick and was close all the way. The teams went into the 7th tied at 3-3. Spring Lake scored a run on hits by Wolbeck, G. Zimmer and K. Zimmer, and Sedgewick came back with two winning runs on hits by Pederson, McConnell, Martin and Smith.

Hughenden won the third game, defeating Viking 6 to 5, with 2 runs in the seventh after Viking had grabbed an early 5 to 4 lead, but couldn't hold Hughenden hitting in the last inning.

Rain forced cancellation of the fourth game which was between Killam and Camrose. The game was stopped after three innings with Camrose leading 4-0. These teams took the field at 10:30 on Sunday morning to complete the game and Camrose went on to win 9 to 5.

In the first semi-final game at 13 noon the Sedgewick Oilers and the Camrose Cubs battled most either in a close game with the score 3 to 2 for the Cubs until the 8th when the Camrose nine scored twice to win the game 5 to 2.

The finest and most thrilling game of the two-day affair was the second semi-final between Lougheed Wildcats and Hughenden All Stars. This game was scoreless for 1/2 innings, when in the bottom of the 10th Andy Knapp doubled and Young singled to score him. In the pitching department Nelsen of Hughenden gave up only three hits and two walks while striking out 20. Devoast of Lougheed gave up ten hits and 1 walk while striking out 11.

The final game between Lougheed and Camrose proved to be a let-down for the spectators, especially since the previous games. Both nines were short on pitching and it was mainly a hitting duel, with Lougheed winning 16 to 15 in 8 innings because of darkness.

MERNA CHURCH 60TH ANNIVERSARY

Merna United Church celebrates its 60th Anniversary this coming Sunday, July 16th.

A special service to mark the occasion will be conducted at 11:00 a.m. Rev. Dwight Powell, Supt. of Home Missions for Northern Alberta, will preach the sermon, with Rev. Lewis conducting the service.

The Merna church has served a wide community since it was built in 1907 Beginning as a Presbyterian Church, it became a Local Union Church in 1923, when it united with the Methodist Church. Since 1925, it has served as a United Church.

The congregation itself reaches further back into history than does the church building, as the first services were held in the sod house of Mr. and Mrs Coe in 1905.

Former ministers, members, and friends of the Merna Church are urged back for the occasion. Mr. Steve Pottage, the first organist, & still a member, plans on being in attendance.

All friends of Merna Church are invited to attend the service and the picnic dinner to follow.

Record Prices At Charolais Sale

A world record of $38,000 for a Charolais bull at auction, was paid July 4th to a Canadian breeder for 19-Month-old "Amour de Paris". The 2000 pound bull will be shipped by rail to join a herd of 200 at Natchez, Miss. The second highest price of the day was also paid, also paid to a Canadian by a Florida buyer.

More records were set when a Heifer sold for $40,000, and the sale average of $11,000 was well above the three-quarter lots of pure French animals, all under three years of age, averaged $25,894.

The Charolais Show and Sale, and a ranch and feedlot tour were held in conjunction with the International Charolais Federation meeting. Of the 46 countries where Charolais cattle are being raised, 38 are members of the World Federation.

This year Canadian breeders some of whom reside in our district, were hosting the Federation. Mr & Mrs. Bud Tull of Forestburg, Mr & Mrs. Wil Hawkhausen of Strome, Herb Hornbough of Hardisty and Mr. and Mrs. Ola Danielson of Sedgewick, were among those taking part.

MOVING DAY, 1916 — St. Mark's Anglican Church at Hardisty didn't always occupy its present site. Moving Day came back in 1916, and no one remembers how many hors power the Steam Engine had, but it looks big enough to do the job.

Emotionalism!

It seems almost inevitable that every so often there is an outburst of emotionalism over the war in Vietnam. While most of this originates in the United States, which country is actively engaged in the conflict, no small portion comes from people here in Canada and other countries who, for the most part, are remaining aloof from the conflict. In this torrent of emotionalism over Vietnam there are a few important facts which are constantly overlooked.

First of all, the conflict does not concern only the Vietnamese but more than a billion human beings in Japan, the Phillipines, Thailand, Malasia, Indonesia and even India and Australia.

While most of this left wing hatred would appear to be directed exclusively against the U.S.A., such persons fail to realize that there are actually thirty-eight nations actively engaged in support of South Vietnam. What perhaps is more to the point, the U. S. and its allies are bending over backward to telegraph their punches by way of massive campaigns of leaflets. What is destroyed in property is replaced or paid for. General W. Westmoreland has outlined in detail the U. S. and allied campaign of building Vietnam even as the war goes on.

In the campaign to get the U. S. and its allies out of South Vietnam, we should recognize the fact that for communism to take over, 'the masses' must not be exposed too long to capitalistic affluence and know-how, lest they become reactionary toward another bamboo curtain.

Productivity!

We hear a lot of talk these days about productivity and its importance to Canada's future growth, and many of us are confused by what the word implies, often equating productivity side by side with production. There is a great difference between production and productivity.

When we speak of production, we are speaking of an increase in the flow of goods produced; when we speak of productivity we are referring to goods produced at lower unit cost. For example if by the use of improved machinery, improved plant layout or improved techniques, a factory can turn out more umbrellas, more shoes or more cars in less time than it did before, then the factory's productivity has been increased.

Some of the effects of increased productivity are, lower unit costs ,and this difference in the cost can be used in many ways. Some of the difference may be passed on to the employees with higher wages or benefits; some may be passed on to shareholders as increased dividends; and some may be passed on to the consumer in lowered prices; although this latter is quite remote today. Some may be plowed back to provide even better working facilities, still better production machinery to further improve the productive processes.

Productivity is indeed the 20th century miracle which has given every Canadian more of the good things of life than ever before.

Old Age Security!

Is our society too affluent? Do our older people have too much money to live on? Seems like silly questions doesn't it? Yet Canadians celebrating their 68th birthdays during this Centennial year, at least some of them, make the questions seem pretty pertinent. They are failing to make application to receive their old age security pension. This payment it not automatic and should be applied for at least six months in advance of the birthday. Forms are avail able from post offices or by writing to the old age security office in provincial capitals. Help in preparing applications for the new Guaranteed Income Supplement, too, is as close as the nearest old age security, Canada pension plan or income tax offices.

The Hornblower!

There is one area in the community where communications are more than might be desired. In any district every morning or every evening, and sometimes both, some yahoo drives to an address and honks the horn. Now the sound of the horn is intended only for a person inside, be it girl friend, boy friend, or simply another member of the car pool. But the communication itself goes to everyone with but reasonable hearing ability and within a reasonable distance.

There are bylaws against unnecessary blowing of horns but they seem never to have been read by anybody who would rather stay in the car than get out and go up to the door and knock.

It's probably an outcome of the old cowboy instinct. A cowboy would sooner walk to the nearest corral and saddle a horse to ride to the nearest house. Or it may be an overhang (not hangover) from the days of horses, when a smart horse could not be left standing unattended. There's an almost sublime egotism in the horn blower; he doesn't intend anyone to hear except the person he's summoning — The Printed Word.

The Press received a card from Mr. and Mrs. Percy Baker of Vancouver, formerly of the Merna area. They are holidaying in Europe and have seen Belgium, France, Switzerland and Austria so far, with plans to visit a few more places before heading for home. In fact Percy is about due for his annual visit to this area.

While we are on the subject of holidays, the annual migration to Norway is at full tide. This happens every year and the local population drops dramatically. If the government ever takes a census reading in the summer rather than the spring, they're going to wonder what happened to everyone.

Did you hear about the Sunday School teacher who asked the students how they thought Noah spent his time on the Ark? The lad had no ideas, so she suggested, "Do you suppose that with all that water around him he would spend his time fishing?"

"Heh!" one little redhead piped up, "With only two worms!"

REP BY POP!

Peter Lougheed, leader of the Opposition in the Alberta Legislature, advocates a re-arrangement of provincial constituencies — He wants the number of members representing the city of Calgary to be increased from 8 to 16 and in Edmonton from 11 to 18. That would give the two cities 34 members in the Legislature, or over half the present total of 65. Such a situation would be very unpopular outside the cities as Mr. Lougheed has contrived a method of causing criticism. He suggests that the membership of the countryside should not be reduced, that the additional constituencies created in the cities be added to the present 65 seats in the Legislature. That would bring the total up to 79 if Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and Red Deer are provided with an extra member the total would rise to 83.

The cities exist very expensively. They want more money from the provincial treasury and are of the opinion that if their representation is increased, larger grants will follow. They also want tax municipalities to bear a greater tax burden. The Calgary Chamber of Commerce made that objective very plain.

That is the reason for the the drive for "representation by population." The cities want to dominate the province from Coutts in the south to Fort Vermilion in the north. Brooks Bulletin.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

"Liberals in a Hurry!"

OTTAWA — Pragmatic is now the word to apply to the New Democratic Party.

Climbing high in public opinion poll standing as the old-line parties wallow in policy differences and leadership contention the NDP sees itself on the point of a break through into the majority ranks. And it has decided this is no time to rock the boat with controversial socialist philosophies.

In many of the policy utterances at its Toronto convention last week, the well-heeled successor to the old CCF party seemed to be reviving its one time reputation of being no more than Liberals in a hurry.

In its effort to be all things to all voters, the NDP even found itself repudiating its own leader, veteran socialist Tommy Douglas.

Not that the Party's loyalty to Douglas shows any signs of flagging. His position as leader was never in doubt at the Toronto meeting, which accorded him reelection unopposed for a further two-year term.

But Douglas found himself out on a limb with an attitude to U. S. investment the rank and file just wouldn't buy. Surprisingly it was another of the Party's old guard, a red-hot firebrand in his day, who fought and won the battle to turn the NDP in a new direction.

Scowy haired MP Colin Cameron, a brilliant and tenacious backer with a record of social protest going back to the hungry 30's, bluntly challenged his leader's view that American investment in Canadian industry is a serious danger to Canada's political independence.

Cameron doesn't go so far as to suggest that the U. S. should take over the country. But he makes it plain that the Yankee dollar is more than welcome in building up our economy.

Douglas, in his keynote address to the Convention, referred to Canada as "rapidly becoming in economic dependency on Washington", and "a satellite of our powerful neighbor" in world affairs.

He also pulled out all the old shibboleths about the "corporate elite" who are said to be delivering us into the hands of the Americans, and included a swipe at the press barons, who he accused of seeking to "mould public opinion for their own ends".

That sort of rabble rousing array used to go down pretty well at CCF conventions in the past, and helped Tommy Douglas win and hold power as premier of rural Saskatchewan.

It obviously didn't impress Mr. Cameron who has his own rousing newsmen for some-in-law and takes a more sophisticated view of things.

He even allowed himself to suggest in a radio interview that Douglas hadn't had time as the leader to "rethink" party policy and bring it in line with the times. And it was the "modernist" philosophy of Cameron, not Mr. Douglas' weary argument, that prevailed.

Out has gone nationalization as the Party's cure for all the country's economic difficulties. And it has come a policy declaration favoring a mixed economy, more explicit and elaborate than anything the NDP has spelled out in the past.

The final nail was driven into the coffin of Douglas' anti-American resolution by MP Max Saltsman of Ontario's Waterloo South, who said pointedly: "We mustn't blame the United States for what is essentially our own fault". To say that political control inevitably follows foreign investment may be a correct assessment of the past. But it is not necessarily true if you have a government determined to resist economic domination."

Would you believe this further piece of heresy from the modernists? "Where market forces offer the best solution, we should not hesitate to use free enterprise; we must have the least inhibition of any political party in using all the economic instruments available. It makes little difference who holds the title deeds to the productive machine".

Long time observers of the CCF and NDP scene rubbed their eyes and looked again. But the Party believed it, and with the strong support of its trade union wing, incorporated it in official policy.

On other subjects the NDP showed it hadn't lost all the vigor of radicalism of the CCF from which it sprang. But in general instances it adopted stances either indistinguishable or distinguishable only by degree, from views held by progressives in the Liberal and Conservative ranks.

It was former Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent who applied the "Liberals in a hurry" label to the CCF. Times have changed, but it seems no less true today of its pragmatic and power-hungry successor.

Businessmen from Lougheed, Sedgewick, and Killam met in Sedgewick on Thursday the Monday closing which had been typed. All spoke in glowing terms of the venture and it was decided to continue it on a permanent basis.

Last Sunday Fred Crane of Hardisty met with a painful accident while surf (?) riding. He is now getting about on crutches.

A fine day and a large crowd made the Strome C.W.I. Sports a success. Baseball fans witnessed some fine games. Spring Lake won over Strome 7 to 3. Bateman defeated Killam 8 to 2 and in the finals Spring Lake beat Bateman 9 to 8 in a very good game.

We badly need a good soaker to bring along the crops. Al Reuber of Lougheed complains his bags have all developed sore necks from having to reach so far down to feed off his shelfs. Maybe he should cross them with kangaroos and get a breed with short front legs.

In the same writing case, Mr. Ash discovered some porcupine quill pens, commonly used at that time and which still write quite well.

Since the first cave man sipped water from a coconut shell and ate his meat from a stick, people have liked dishes. You can choose from earthenware, semi-porcelain or fine bone china. Whatever the price, good design is available if one just knows what to look for.

Remember first that dishes are functional. They should serve the purpose for which they were made. A tea cup handle should be simple and easily held. A salt shaker should look like what it is; not like the last half of a dromedary.

Having chosen dishes for their functional design, one can turn to decorative features. Rich is always the background for food. Try to visualize how a dinner plate will look loaded up with meat and potatoes. You may decide that cabbage roses somehow do not do-or-dain with winter salad.

A tea set can perhaps be somewhat decorative but the simpler designs and shapes in all dinnerware will give most lasting pleasure and satisfaction.

The term "open stock" means that a given pattern can be purchased either by the piece or by the set. Most patterns are available for ten years, but the manufacturer continues to produce only as long as people are buying it in quantity. Of all patterns, "Petit Point" has enjoyed the longest history. It has been a best-seller for more than 30 years.

Lovely china is an amenity of life. Good taste is equated with simplicity. Less is not the most important factor.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Agnes Haggles, who passed away July 10, 1966.

Seven long and lonely years have passed
Since our great sorrow fell,
The shock we received that day
We can ever tell;
God gave us strength to meet it.
And courage to bear the blow,
But He never meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.

Its a lonely life without you,
And sad has been the way,
For life at home is not the same
Since you were called away;
It was a sudden ending,
Too sudden to forget,
For the ones that loved you dearly
Are the ones who won't forget.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by the family. 8-1-p

GREEN ACRES
SILAGE AND HAYLAGE!
Timeliness in cutting the crop is important when putting up forage crops for either silage or hay.
O. G Bratvold, Head of the Field Crops Branch of the Alberta Plant Industry Division, points out that grasses are in their most nutritive stage just prior to blooming, and legumes are most nutritive in the early bloom period of growth.
Wilting is essential if either grasses or legumes are to be put up as silage. The moisture level of forage crops, which is usually about 80 percent before cutting, has been cut, can be reduced to 65 percent by swathing them and leaving them in windrows for a few hours. The lower moisture level will give a more acceptable and palatable silage.
To minimize spoilage, Mr. Bratvold recommends cutting the crop fairly fine and packing it well.
Complete information on silage making can be obtained from a bulletin entitled "Silage in Alberta," available from the Sedgewick D. A. office.
HOW CAN AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS BENEFIT THE FARMER

packers know when they should increase or decrease staff. Such prompt adjustments to varying situations keep marketing costs to a minimum, thereby enabling agricultural processors to pay the farmer more for his product.
Mr. Williams stresses that agricultural statistical information can only be obtained by the full co-operation of the farmers concerned, and that its usefulness to the farmer is in direct proportion to the accuracy of the data recorded on the survey questionnaires.

Merna Church Celebrates Its Sixtieth Anniversary

Merna United Church's Sixtieth Anniversary Service was well attended on Sunday morning, July 16. Approximately 150 people participated in worship and picnic dinner.

As well as those present from the neighboring churches and the community, those attending came from Alliance, Killam, Galahad, Ellerslie, Edmonton, Red Deer, Edson, Sask., and Walla Walla, Wash.

When speaking on the church's birthday, Rev. Dwight Powell, the guest preacher, told the congregation that the urgency and anticipation of the early church must be caught again. Taking as his sermon title, "How Long Is A Year?" Rev. Powell said that when members of the church offer their full devotion and dedication, the church year progresses rapidly and fruitfully. However, if these things are withheld, the year proceeds slowly and unsuccessfully.

Music for the day reflected both the old and the new approach to worship. The traditional "Holy, Holy, Holy" was sung to the 19th Century tune, and "All Hail The Power of Jesus Name" was the first hymn sung.

A ladies chorus sang two selections, "The Centennial Hymn" and "The Church In The Wildwood," both appropriate for the occasion. Members of the chorus were, Mrs. Peter Speetz, Mrs Porter O'Reilly, Mrs Denny Lewis, Mrs Mac Stewart, Mrs Percy Smith, Mrs Mary Albrecht and Mrs Harvey Simpson. Organist for the day was Mrs. Lorley, daughter of Mr. Steve Pottage, first organist of Merna Church.

Rev. Don Lewis, pastor of Sedgewick - Lougheed - Merna United Church Charge, conducted the service and welcomed those who had returned "home" for the occasion.

Those bringing greetings from the local congregations were Mr. Lew Fuller of Alliance United, Mr Zane Parsons of Lougheed United, and Art Ensby of Sedgewick United.

Following the service, a picnic dinner was served on the lawn. When introducing Rev. Steve Pottage, who cut the birthday cake, the Rev. Lewis mentioned that the first worship services in the district were held in the home of Mrs. Pottage's parents, Mr and Mrs Cox, in 1906.

A time of visiting and fellowship continued after dinner.

A local union of the Presbyterian and Methodist congregation was effected in 1923, with the Rev. Pomeroy as Minister, and in 1925 the general union of the churches was consumated with the Merna Church passing into the Alliance Charge.

When in 1953 Mr. Nichol, the Lay Supply Minister, resigned because of health, the Merna Church was incorporated into the Sedgewick-Lougheed Charge, with the service conducted by Rev. Lewis.

The present Merna Church, one of the oldest in the district, was built in 1907 by the Presbyterians, and was opened for worship by the Rev. Miller and dedicated in June, with services conducted by the Rev. J. Miller. First officers were, Mr McPherson, Mr Robertson and Mr Tom Smith. The new church was built by Mr Jackman. The first organist was Mr. Steve Pottage.

Some of the earliest families of the congregation were, McLeods, McPhersons, O'Reilly, Colvin, Bruce Reid, Smith, Veader, McLennan, Rombough, Kendricks, Pottage, Hall, Cox, Robertson, Jackman, Johnson, Stothard, Peacock, Ledin.

North Western Utilities Has Hardisty Franchise

Northwestern Utilities won the franchise to provide Natural Gas to the Town of Hardisty, as a result of the recent voting on the By-Law. While only 89 proprietary electors turned out at the polss, they were all in favor of the By-law. There was not one dissenter.

In contacting officials of the Utilities Company, the Community Press was informed that Natural Gas will be installed and in use in the Town in time for fall heating. The line is presently completed to Hardisty from the Viking Gasfield and connected to the Hardisty Storage Limited.

The Town of Hardisty is entering into agreement with the Municipality of Flagstaff on rural fire fighting, and Fire Chief Cecil Rempel is quite proud of the new fire truck recently purchased by the Town. A $2,000 unit, equipped unit with a 250 gallon tank, the rig is completely self-contained.

At a recent Council meeting the mill rate for Hardisty for 1967 was set at 27. Also first Reading of the meeting was Sunday Sports and a program of sidewalk construction to keep pace with Town expansion.

Lougheed A. C. W.

LOUGHEED —The regular meeting of the ACW was held June 22nd at the home of Verna Cookson, with 7 members present and 6 visitors.

Mrs Gordon, former Mary Black, of New Zealand and Mrs Eidmor of England, both nieces of Jim Black, attended and made the meeting very enjoyable.

Pauline Butcher gave a very interesting report on the Deanery at Viking at which time Verna Cookson was elected president.

Hostess prize was won by Carrie Barton. Date was set for the work on the kneelers.

Next meeting to be held at home of Pauline Butcher. Meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer. Everyone had a picture taken and the hostess served a lovely lunch.

Lougheed To Cut Lougheed Ribbon

Lougheed has sent out the following letter to residents and former residents of Lougheed and district:

"A cordial invitation is extended to you and yours to attend our Old Fashioned Picnic on July 24th commencing at 1:00 p.m."

The picnic is to commemorate the 100th birthday of Canada, and to officially open and dedicate the Dr. Centennial Ball Park at Lougheed.

Those to whom the letters are sent, are asked to extend the invitation to anyone who was a resident of Lougheed or the surrounding community, and anyone who would like to have as many former residents present as possible.

At 1:00 p.m. the affair will get underway with a giant parade.

At 2:00 p.m. the dedication and cutting of the ribbon to open the Centennial Ball Park will take place. The ribbon cutting will be done by Peter Lougheed, Conservative member and Official Opposition Leader in the Alberta Legislature. This adds a bit of color to the occasion, for the Village of Lougheed was named after Peter Lougheed's grandfather.

The official ceremonies will be followed by a Football game, with Lougheed's Buckaroos meeting up against the world. Then there will be horseshoe pitching, and Tug of War (Ducks vs Geese), with ropes thrown in for all ages 2 to 102.

The late afternoon will conclude with an Old Fashioned Picnic Supper, followed by a baseball game of Oldtimers vs Youngsters. For the picnic, you are asked to bring your lunch. Coffee, plates ,etc. will be provided, as well as Ice Cream for the kiddies.

To wind up the day a Grand Centennial Ball will be held on the main street.

Local Curlers Top Winners Nelson Summer Bonspiel

Albertans took both men's A and B events in the 23rd annual Nelson Midsummer Bonspiel.

Bill McCallum of Edmonton, the bonspiel's defending champion, defeated three-time winner Ilec Gervais of St. Albert 7-6 after 12 ends, to lock up the A Event.

And Doug Dobry of Viking coasted to an 11-4 win in the A event after building up an 11-1 lead in the first few ends of his final game.

A double father and son combination with Doug's father Lumir, and Jack and Gordon Silker completing the rink, they used precision shot making to defeat Jim Taylor of Portage, Wisconsin for the Championship. — Viking News.

WHAT IS IT? Most many people will recognize this machine, or the fellow driving it, although he is well known locally. The machine is the reaper, forerunner of the binder, and this fellow was built by the Massey-Harris Company. Don't let that mislead you; it was actually bought and used for only one crop, back in 1924, and was the only one available in Alberta. It seems the binders couldn't do the job that year. Now for that fellow riding the machine. It's none other than that jet black and ever smart tease, Arthur Falls of Sedgewick. The picture belongs to Ray Lowyers, who also provided the information.

PETER LOUGHEED WILL CUT THE RIBBON

At 2:00 p.m. the dedication and cutting of the ribbon to open the Centennial Ball Park will take place. The ribbon cutting will be done by Peter Lougheed, Conservative member and Official Opposition Leader in the Alberta Legislature. This adds a bit of color to the occasion, for the Village of Lougheed was named after Peter Lougheed's grandfather.

The official ceremonies will be followed by a Football game, with Lougheed's Buckaroos meeting up against the world. Then there will be horseshoe pitching, and Tug of War (Ducks vs Geese), with ropes thrown in for all ages 2 to 102.

To wind up the day a Grand Centennial Ball will be held on the main street.

C. P. Hayes Named To "Hall Of Fame"

In recognition of many years of valuable effort on behalf of Agriculture in Alberta, Mr. Charles P. Hayes of Strome will receive the highest honor the provincial government can bestow on those in the agricultural industry.

Mr. Hayes will receive, along with three other, will have his names added to the Agricultural Hall of Fame.

Mr. Hayes, who presently is the chairman of the Alberta Municipal Finance Corporation, has devoted the past number of years in support of the co-operative movement, and has held offices in the movement. He was president of the Alberta Livestock Co-op for many years.

Probably his greatest field of activity was in the Municipal area. He served for many years as Councillor and Reeve in the old Sterling Municipality, and continued in such activities in the enlarged Municipal District of Flagstaff, of which he was Reeve for many years.

He also served as a director and as president of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts

Mr. Hayes will be honored at an official ceremony and unveiling of a plaque in the Legislative Building in Edmonton next September, says the Hon. H. E. Strom.

Strome Baseballers Coming On Strong

Strome's Senior Baseball Team, which has been doing a re-building job for a couple of seasons, has now reached the point where it is taking the measure its neighboring teams.

The Strome boys have been winning their share all season, and continued to do so over the recent weekend. On Saturday at Viking the club, with old pro CHR Robbins going all the way on the mound, defeated the Sedgewick Oilers in a hard-fought contest that opened the Viking two-day tournament. The Sunday win over Armenian was narrowly defeated in the semi-finals.

At the Killam Sports on Monday the Strome team was again playing solid baseball as they defeated Lougheed and Viking to win the tournament.

Strome is now taking aim on the two-day tournament at Sedgewick this coming Saturday and Sunday, with full intentions of handing their opposition the short end of the score

A TIGHT BALL GAME — This is the score board from that real close ball game between the Lougheed Wildcats and the Hughenden All-Stars, at the recent Lougheed Baseball Tournament. It isn't always as close as this one. Wildcats finally scored in the bottom of the tenth inning.

Albert Andersons Married 60 Years

Friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson to honor them on the occasion of their sixtieth wedding anniversary. This couple, still in good health, were married in Nelson, B.C. on July 2nd, 1907 They shortly afterwards moved to a farm near Lougheed and in 1936 moved into Lougheed.

Congratulatory messages were received from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister L. B. Pearson, Lt. Gov G McEwan, Premier Manning, and J. Hillman, M.L.A. Many gifts and cards were received from relatives and friends. Mr. H. Lorenz, in a few well chosen words wished them many more years of health and happiness and presented them on behalf of the community with a purse of money. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have three daughters, Mrs Isabel Johnson, Mr and Mrs L. (Hazel) Kelly, and Miss Ellen Anderson, who were hostesses for their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have four grand children and one great grand son.

Here for this happy anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. V. Johnson of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Pearson of Canyon, B.C.; Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Pearson are nieces.

Hardisty To Hold Centennial Day

HARDISTY — Centennial flavor will mark the events of the Hardisty Local District Amateur Rodeo, to be held on July 24th.

At 1:00 p.m. Rodeo Events will take place every 30 minutes to 6:30.

Following this there will be the official opening and ribbon cutting of the newly developed Hardisty Lake Park facilities. This has been a Centennial project.

At 6 00 p. m. the Town is hosting a free barbecue, just inside the park gateway. Those attending are requested to bring their own trimmings and utensils.

A dance, with Centennial tunes, will close the day's activities, and will commence at 9:00 o'clock.

Rain Needed Soon

Crops in the local area show good thick stands of the various varieties. Growth is thick and heavy, with many of the wheat fields heading out with large-sized heads. However if this condition is to continue, rain will be needed fairly soon. Crops on summerfallow are holding up well, but some stubble-in fields are beginning to show signs of burning in yellowing leaves and tillers.

Growing season rainfall is less than one-half of normal over most prairie regions, and crop report predictions are that Western Canada will not have a bumper crop in 1967 despite the record acreage that is sown to wheat, and even a crop approaching the ten-year average of 16 million bushels is unlikely, if there is no more rain that is received in some stricken areas by the end of the week.

TIPS FOR JULY . . . THE SALAD MONTH

The word "salad" is derived from the Latin word "Sal" meaning salt. Back in the days of Caesar, the Romans sprinkled "sal" over greens to bring out the flavour. For many centuries this was their only dressing.

The Egyptians were the first to master the art of making salad dressings with oil, vinegar and spices.

What would we do without the healthful, refreshing and satisfying salad to add to our daily menu?

These are some tips to follow for peppy salads:

— season the salad bowl — rub it before each serving (using paper towelling) with dressing.

— Don't soak wooden salad bowl in soap and water. Wipe it dry with a damp cloth after each use or rinse with warm water and wipe dry with a paper towel.

— Avoid letting acid dressing or any liquid stand long in a wooden salad bowl.

— Use light dressings for simple salads when the meal is substantial and heavier dressings for substantial salads when the meal is light.

— Salad should never look arranged Garnishes should never look spotty or cluttered.

— Tear rather than cut or chop the salad greens into medium sized pieces.

— Always combine a tossed salad lightly, using two forks. Never stir or mix.

— In tossing a bowl of greens hold out juicy tomato wedges until last, that way the dressing won't be diluted.

— Combine dressing with meat, potato and mixed vegetables an hour before serving to allow for a blending of flavours.

— Store lettuce in the refrigerator away from fresh fruits. A gas given off in the ripening process of many fruits cause the lettuce to spot.

— To unmold easily, lightly grease the mold with salad oil or rinse with cold water before pouring in the gelatin and the serving plan.

— To center a mold easily on a plate moisten the surface of both — Pressed fruits — Dip red apples, lemons, pears, oranges and assorted grapes in egg white, beaten until frothy. Then dip them in granulated sugar. Keep on cake rack, over wax paper, until dry.

— Strive for the Four C's of salad making:

C—leanliness
C—oolness
C—rispness
C—olourfulness

It has been said that salads should be "crisp as maulin and cold as a politician's heart".

LEND ME YOUR HOUSE

I'm deeply hurt. I've been waiting eyes shining, cheeks glowing, mind agog, to see who was going to invite us to stay at their place while we visited Expo.

Nothing. Not a whisper. Not a murmur. Not a wire. Not even a long-distance call. cubed.

Everybody else I know has a deal. of some kind. This can has relatives who are going to turn over their apartment for two weeks in August, when they go on vacation. That one is going to stay with her mother's uncle's cousin's son while his wife has her fourteenth child in hospital.

Another friend has a brother who is a big buyer for a big department store. The brother has been offered a suite of rooms at a posh motel for a week, by a big supplier of things to the big department store. So the brothers are going, with their wives. This is known as public relations. We'd even settle for some private relations.

The Telegram, which dispenses this column, has not said: "We'd like you to take your family to Expo for a week. All expenses. On a couple of columns from there." No, all they've said is. "Your column was late again last week."

Pierre Berton is going to spend two weeks with his family, at Expo, in his host. I haven't even got a rowboat, and if I had, I don't think we'd make it before freezup.

I must be fair, and admit we've had a couple of invitations to park our trailer. At Christmas each. One was from my sister, who is about 100 miles from Expo. The other was from old buddy Cone Mac donal, who is only "an hour from Expo." probably as the jet flies. Only trouble is, we don't have a trailer, and I don't suppose there's one for sale for hire in the whole land. Next year will be a great year to buy used trailers.

Now, I haven't anything grand or glorious in mind. All I was thinking about was somebody who perhaps has an apartment in Montreal and a chalet in the Laurentians. If they were at the chalet, we'd be perfectly happy to look after their apartment in the city. And if they wanted to come back to the mug and mush of the city and Expo for a week, in all that heat, we'd be delighted to let them have the apartment, while we looked after the chalet.

What could be fairer than that? It isn't as though we wanted to come boating in our relatives in Montreal, even if we had any, and say, "Sorry we couldn't make it for the last 12 years, but we just couldn't resist coming to see you this year, for a Centennial Year reunion. What? Every room in the house is rented all summer? Well! Money is thicker than blood, obviously."

No, that's not the idea. Not at all. We don't want to impose on anyone. We just want a quiet little place, preferably air-conditioned, that will sleep three (maybe four, as Hugh still had his hand in a cast.) with free parking, and more than ten minutes from Expo, with maid service. Free

Nothing elaborate. Nothing ostentatious. Just a simple little place to lay our heads and cook our meals and make lunches and have a bubble in the chesterfield and have all OUR relatives in. Just something like home.

We wouldn't stay all summer, you know. Ken has to be home Sunday to play the organ at church. And has to be home every two weeks to have his finger re-browned. Even re-encased in a cast. (I think he's addicted to his life's work.)

Besides, my wife doesn't want to go to Expo. She shudders at crowds of that size. And she says she can't sleep a wink. She says we can't afford it. (That's what she said last summer, and a week later we were on a plane for Vancouver. Our flynow, pay-later plan will soon be paid for.)

Oh, well, if nobody wants us . . .

VOYAGEURS

The Centennial Canoe Race is one of the most interesting and authentic ways in which we are marking the founding of our nation. Albertans are watching with interest our voyageurs as they strain nerve and muscle to paddle the David Thompson eastward down rivers and across lakes.

It is gratifying to recall that Thompson was not only one of the greatest explorers of his generation, but also a man of principle and piety. His grew much wisdom and strength from his Bible, which we are told, he read every day.

In Galations 6:2, he read, Bear one another's burdens, and so fulfill the Law of Christ.

Each member of the canoe team strives to paddle his own weight, his own share of the weight of the canoe as much more as possible. Any crew whose members took the attitude "I will paddle my own weight and the rest can look after itself" would soon drop back in the race. For some days, even a strong paddler will feel tired.

In the voyage of this world, many of us who live in the Northern Hemisphere are better trained and are favored with greater resources than those who live in Asia and in South America. We would do well, therefore, to share both knowledge and gods in help those who have to joy the good things of our Father's world.

David Thompson died round Galations 6:5, "For each man will have to bear his own load."

This, each one of us must do as much as we are able. It is a sign of spirituality and also a means of sanity.

The new director in World affairs is to work alongside of peoples we are sent to help, and assist them to work out their own solutions. Too often western man, reasoning the white man, has placed burdens on weaker peoples. Our high standard of living is maintained, to some degree, at their expense.

On May 30th, I bought bananas for 19c. I hate to think how little the native worker was paid to make such a bargain possible.

At the end of a day's paddle, Thompson read, Psl. 2:14, "I press on towards the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus".

GENIUS

I do not despise genius — indeed I wish I had a basketfull of it instead of a brain, but yet after a deal of experience I have become convinced that industry is a better horse to ride than genius. It may have carry one more man as far as genius has carried individuals, but industry, patient, intelligent industry, will carry thousands into comfort and even into celebrity, and I do not know of a single instance, whereas genius often refuses to be tamed and managed, and often goes with Eugene Sydon; Sherwood Tenney Kreutch and Robert Lash; Grooming, Kevin Bendfeld and Tom Kreutch.

The Dairy Achievement Day was well attended. A particular vote of thanks is due Mike Nishnua, Club Leader of the Skreme Dairy Club, and his wife, members for all the work and time they spent in preparation of the grounds and planning for the day. By making the afternoon judging sessions we managed to complete the day just before the rain came tumbling down.

Lougheed to Hold Centennial Celebration on July 24

The plans for Lougheed's Centennial Celebration is going ahead by leaps and bounds, and promises to be a day to remember. Even a couple of M. L. A's. are expected to be present. So don't forget folks, if you have ever lived in Lougheed or the surrounding district, keep July 24 in mind. It will be Lougheed's day to howl.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grieve of Stoney Plain spent the weekend in the district with relatives.

Some of the boys are still hard at work on the Fair Grounds, cultivating trees, painting bleachers and finishing up the entrance gate. Certainly looks fine.

Crops Receive Inch Of Rain

Crops in the local area which were beginning to suffer for lack of moisture, were revived by a general rain last Friday. This added from 1 to 1 1/2 inches to the amount of rainfall received this summer.

On Monday of this week it again showered, but this was not received by all farmers in the area.

Total rainfall up to July 22nd, as kept by Searle Grain Co. at Sedgewick, amounted to 5.91 inches. This compares with 6.04 last year and a long-time average of 6.92 to this date. There has been some addition to this in the past few days.

While most crops in the district were not being hurt too much by the hot weather, what was needed and mere will be necessary if the year's heavy crops are going to stand up.

Killam Cubs Win

Killam Cubs and Sedgewick Cougars fought it out for the league title at Killam on Friday night. Both the teams finished the regular league schedule in a tie for top spot Game location was by the toss of a coin.

The Cougars struck early with 2 runs in the first inning, the big blow being a towering homerun by Ole Lundie. The Cubs evened up in the second inning, Gibb raced home from third on a throw to second to catch Schweitzer, who in turn came in on Bardy's single. The Cubs continued their assault in the third on home runs by Smolnicki and Gibb. When the dust finally had settled the Cubs had chased across 5 runs.

Cougar pitcher Gary Cox was pitching his second game in as many nights, and went the distance. Bill Rasmussen was the winning pitcher, going all the way for Killam.

Brian Gaume called balls and strikes and George Gascoyne and Doug Tweedy were base umpires.

The Cubs now meet Alliance and the Cougars tangle with Busy Bees in semi-final play. Sedgewick was at home to the Bees on Tuesday and the final in Merna Thursday night.

Mrs. M. "Granny" Rombough Celebrates Ninetieth Birthday

On July 22nd, 1967 Mrs Margaret (Grany) Rombough of the Scottish Nursing Home in Calgary, was honored on her 90th birthday. She was the guest of her daughter Mrs. Ed Elder who held a birthday dinner for her mother.

Eighteen of Mrs Rombough's children and grandchildren enjoyed the day with her.

Mrs Rombough will be remembered in the Sedgewick, Gretna-Morse districts to which she and her husband came with their family in 1906. Mrs Rombough came to the West with the real pioneer spirit. As well as raising a large family of her own, she did a great deal of practical nursing, helping many new babies into the world.

She was a community leader, and to her must go the credit for establishing the Gretna Goodwill Club, which still functions.

Congratulations on your 90th birthday Granny.

Pat Whitten Hurt In City Store

Twelve year old Patrick Whitten of Sedgewick was injured recently in a fall on an escalator in "The Bay" in Edmonton. He was treated in the Emergency Ward of the General Hospital for a scalp laceration requiring thirty stitches, facial cuts, bruises and shock.

Pat is now in Killam General Hospital where his condition is reported to be satisfactory.

Cubs Tops At Tourney

Camrose Cubs won first prize at the 4th annual 3-day baseball tournament held at Sedgewick during the past weekend. The Cubs defeated the Sedgewick Oilers in the final game 6 to 5, in a close and hard-fought game that went the full nine innings. This was the second time the Cubs have won this tourney, and ties them with Sedgewick, who have also won it twice.

On Friday evening the weather looked like it might force cancellation of the tourney, with about one inch of rain having fallen on Friday afternoon and evening, and a light drizzle through most of the night. Starting at 6 a.m Saturday morning the Sedgewick Ball Club went to work on the diamond and by 10:30 had it in good enough condition for the first game to proceed. The diamond proved to be in excellent condition and was kept in top shape for all the games of both days.

Umpires for the tournament were Wes DeBoer, Umpire-in-Chief for the Alberta Umpires Asstn and Al Meyer, both of Edmonton, who did an excellent job of the seven games.

Mr Ken Yates handled the PA for the two days, as he did for the three previous tournaments, and kept the crowd well informed and entertained.

In the first game on Saturday the Sedgewick Oilers defeated the Forestburg Braves in five innings by a score of 10 to 0.

The second Saturday game saw Strome take the measure of Lougheed Wildcats by a score of 6-2. The Strome boys grabbed an early lead 3 to 1 and although the Wildcats clawed hard, they couldn't overtake the Stromites who played solid ball.

Spring Lake scored four runs in the first inning of the third game, and went on to defeat Killam by a 5 to 2 count, after the Killam club had made a determined effort in the last of the seventh which scored two runs and left two men on base.

Camrose Cubs and the Viking Shamrocks met in the fourth and last Saturday game, with both clubs having players from the Cubs at Edmonton. The Cubs played solid ball and after taking an early 3-0 lead, went on to win the game 5 to 1.

Semi-Finals

The semi-finals got under way at 11 on Sunday morning with Sedgewick playing Strome. This was an excellent game with good play by both teams. The Oilers scored four runs on six hits and Strome scored once on five hits.

Camrose Cubs defeated Spring Lake Cardinals in the second semi-final by a score of 12 to 3, and although the score was one-sided the play was much more even.

Sedgewick Oilers and Camrose Cubs met in the final game at 5:00 in what proved to be the best game of the tournament. Both teams scored in the first inning with the Oilers getting 3 and Cubs 2. Oilers scored one run in the second and fourth innings and the Cubs scored one in the fourth. The score stayed 5 to 3 until the bottom of the ninth when Strome scored three runs to win the game 6 to 5.

Artificial Respiration

People are careless, people are prone to take chances, and each year somebody's life is saved by the use of artificial respiration. In fact hundreds of lives are restored in this manner. But how many people know how to apply this life-saving device and how many have the presence of mind to act promptly? Everyone should have a working knowledge of artificial respiration.

How old is artificial respiration? Fifty years, 100, 1000. The fact is that artificial respiration or the restoration of breathing by artificial means, was practiced long before the birth of Christ. Though the methods used were primitive and sometimes brutal in comparison to those used today, they did work and it was probably for this reason that man continued to experiment, modify and improve upon this valuable method of saving lives. One ancient method, certain to bring a gasp even from those of us who breathe well, consisted of throwing hot pitch on the victim's chest or abdomen. The shock was supposed to cause a vocalization and thereby restore breathing. If this method did work it undoubtedly produced instant screaming & case studies in treating burns.

Not all early attempts however were quite so crude. Two of the earliest recorded methods of artificial respiration employed principles vaguely similar to those upon which modern methods are based. One consisted of placing the asphyxia victim over a bent sapling and moving the sapling up and down rythmically to instigate breathing. In the other method the victim was lashed face downward across a horse's back and the horse was set off at a trot to jog the air in and out of the victim's lungs.

What the inventors of these methods had discovered, though they probably never knew it was the fact that the human body cannot live without oxygen. Metabolism, the process by which food materials are converted into bodies tissues, and by which energy is produced for body functions, depends on an adequate supply of this precious gas for efficient operation. When for any reason breathing is stopped long enough to interfere with the process of metabolism, the resulting condition is called asphyxia. If breathing is not restored quickly, death occurs.

Today authorities recommend the mouth-to-mouth method of artificial respiration as being the most efficient means of reviving a victim of asphyxia. It is the simplest, most direct, and most effective method known to modern man. The time to learn this method is now. Accidents are not predictable. They happen anytime.

Hazards Of Farming!

GUEST EDITORIAL
(From the Nanton News)

Farmers have been complaining a great deal about the contraprice squeeze and the hazards of farming in a day of many uncertainties. Many of the hazards they talk of are unavoidable. Weather conditions, marketing controlled resulting from supply and demand and many other similar hazards. The fact of the matter is that many farmers have either gone broke or changed their occupation because of hazards over which they have no control.

We have never heard of a farmer dying of starvation in Canada, even though some have had some pretty hard times. But there are hazards over which the farmers have much control if they desire to exercise such control. These hazards have killed hundreds of Canadian farmers annually. You've guessit! July 23 to 29 is farm safety week.

More than 50 farmers are killed every year in Canada tractor accidents. Many, if not all of these, could have been avoided if more care had been taken. Out of 291 fatalities due to machinery in Canada in 1965, 136 occurred on farms. These are the kind of hazards that take life, and often add to the financial burdens already piled up due to other hazards.

Roll bars are becoming more common on tractors but only a very small percentage are used yet. Far too many children, too young and too weak to cope with powerful and fast moving modern machinery, are being allowed to operate them, creating death traps for all concerned.

But danger lurks around every corner. Cattle, horses, illkept farm buildings, make shift ladders and stools in house and barn, worn out tools and dozens of other factors contribute to the accidents and injuries received on farms, which can be termed the hazards of farming.

The National Safety League of Canada urges farmers particularly to pay close attention to farm hazards during this coming week and try to create the habit of reducing the number of farm hazards by becoming safety conscious at all times. Do it now before it's too late & you become a casualty.

How To Win Friends!

This Centennial year Canada expects a welcome more than 30 million visitors — most travelling by car. It's a great opportunity to win friends for Canada, and a lot will depend upon the impressions received of our driving habits. If visitors find that Canadian drivers are careless and impolite, they will not take away a very good opinion of our country. Let's hold a "Hospitality on the Highway" summer, wherein all Canadian drivers make a special effort to drive like good hosts. By being courteous and helpful, not only will we make a good impression, but there will be fewer accidents because courteous drivers are usually safe drivers.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

— by A.C.E. —

Only last week Mayor Herb Lonsen of Loughead was his usual clean shaven self, but on Monday at the official opening of the Loughead Centennial Ball Park he was hiding behind a big black mustache. During the past few years there have been a number of new instant products put on the market. Instant coffee, instant potatoes, etc. Now I am wondering if Herb has come up with a method of growing instant mustaches. He wasn't talking about it so maybe he is planning to go into business and become the Mustache King of Canada and make a booming trade his secret to his fellow Canadians.

On second thought, there may not be a need for a method for instant mustaches. If you are planning to go into business Herb, maybe you had better concentrate on growing instant hoods of hair. There should be a much larger market.

Loughead put on a real good day for the opening of their Centennial Project, and the only person who didn't co-operate was the weatherman, but then look what he had to bring to Edmonton's "K" Days. The parade, the official opening ,and all the other events were well planned, and attracted people not only from the Loughead district but from the neighboring districts as well, with a good percentage of them in Centennial dress for the day. Alas many old timers of the area were on hand.

The "Domenda" On Government

During the recent provincial election a great deal was said about increased demands on government for more services, and that of governing was bound to increase.

It has been our observation that most of these "demands" are the creation of government members themselves. Elected representatives live so close to their jobs that often it is difficult for them to disassociate themselves.

For example, there was no general clamor from the taxpayers of Alberta to have an Ombudsman. The government threw out some leaders, found the measure must be favorable, and pressured to implement another bureaucracy.

The matter of creating an entirely new department of youth — one that will spawn another band of civil servants — emanated from Edmonton. Here are more "demands" that will increase in costs with every year.

And the government health scheme, which no one can say is not necessary for some segments of our society, was hardly a point of agitation or discussion among the people of this province. It was the brain child of our legislators.

Then there is a publicity release from the government, referring to the bells in the tower high above the dome of the Legislative Building, "a gift from the Provincial Government to the people of Alberta to commemorate Canada's 100th birthday." True, the bells cost only $60,000 but we don't like the wording as a "gift" to the taxpayers.

Our recently elected MLAs should discontinue this practice of claiming "the people" want all of these things. They themselves are responsible for a lot of the high cost of government, and they should have the courage to admit it. —Brooks Bulletin

Consumer Protection!

OTTAWA — The Hon. John Turner, the pugnastic very approachable 38-year-old lawyer from Montreal who is Canada's first Registrar General has been given the green light for his next job. An interim report of the Economic Council of Canada, basically put together to avoid delay has provided a blueprint for co-ordinating within his department Federal Government efforts on behalf of the Canadian consumer now spread haphazardly over 17 departments and branches.

As a result legislation will be readied for Parliament meets in September to transform the office of the Registrar General, Canada's new watchdog on business, into a Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs or of Corporate and Consumer Affairs The precise title has still to be decided. But there is no doubt about the wide scope of Mr Turner's new activities. The Council reports simply defines consumers as everyone, which means, of course that producers are consumers and most consumers are in some way producers. and the report points out that if Canadian standards of living are to be improved adequate attention must be paid to relating Canada's productive effort to the needs and aspirations of consumers.

The consumer, the report insists, must be the final arbiter of production in an economy where he has completely free choice. Increased output does not necessarily raise living standards. It depends on what form the increase has taken, whether the consumer would have preferred something else, whether he had sufficient information to make an informed choice and whether the same product could have been made available at lower prices. Increase in the sale of certain consumer goods and services must represent real gains in satisfaction and must not be achieved at a cost in leisure greater than the value.

The Council's blueprint will not be followed to the letter. The report refers to the complex limits of jurisdiction between Federal and Provincial Government in the field of consumer affairs and recommends that all departments of the Federal Government undertake to work closely with the provinces on matters of mutual concern in the consumer field This decentralization of liaison authority, in the Government's view, would lead to confusion. Instead, the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs will have the responsibility for working with the provinces. Mr. Turner's department is already co-ordinating this liason in the field of securities trading & regulation of corporations.

Nor is the 15-man Consumer Advisory Council recommended in the report likely to be established. Consumer interests inevitably involve political decisions and the Government will not look favorably on any split responsibility.

The Council recommends a unit within the Department that will co-ordinate administration of existing regulations dealing, misleading advertising, unfair business practices, fraudulent selling and other deceptions of consumers. It would be a central repository for complaints. The recommendation does not appear to be quite as wide as a similar recommendation in the Senate-Commons committee report on consumer credit and cost of living. This urged a body within the Department with power to enjoin persons from conducting business in a way that unfairly affected the welfare of consumers. The Council seems to want something in the nature of an investigation similar to the Combines Act but with a much wider scope.

This is one of the few recommendations the Council feels will require legislation. It will probably be embodied in the bill creating the Department. At the same time Mr. Turner is planning to expand the work of the Director of Research and Investigation, D. H. W. Henry.

Most of the other recommendations entail transfer of staff from other departments. The Council does not see in this any substantial build up in the civil service and in fact warns against any large bureaucratic regulate r y body.

Among recommended transfers of authority are:

1. The take-over of the National Trade Mark and True Labelling Act administration from the Standards branch of Department of Trade and Commerce.

2. Assumption of the retail inspection activities now carried on by the Departments of Fisheries and Agriculture.

Staff transfers involved in these and other moves can be made under the Transfer of Duties Act and will probably be completed before the legislation defining the Department names is introduced.

A major co-ordinating move will be the new inter - departmental committee now in process of establishment. This was recommended by the Economic Council but Mr. Turner had already taken the initiative. The chairman of the committee will be the new Deputy Registrar General J. F. Grandy. He has been Asst. Deputy Minister of Mines in charge of economic affairs. At 47 he's had a wealth of experience at home and also abroad all of which he may need in a job which is going to require a lot of political tightrope walking on the part of his minister. Mr. Grandy joined the Department of External Affairs in 1946 and was stationed in London from 1951 to 1955. He was later transferred to the Department of Finance first as Financial Counsellor in London and then Director of International Economic Affairs in Ottawa. Recently he has been playing a major role with Canada's negotiating team on the Kennedy round.

SUGAR AND SPICE

by Bill Smiley

GREAT — JUST GREAT

I think probably the most difficult relationship to maintain, at any reasonable level, is that between teen-age children and their parents.

Marriage is tough enough, as you all know. But at least the partners in most cases are prepared to bend a little, to give an inch, or even two if necessary, to compromise when there's no other way out.

Married people do communicate, even though the form ranges from grunts and sighs to language that would sear the earlobes of a saint. They're usually from the same generation and, at worst, can spend hours running down the government, the boss, the neighbors, or each other's families.

I know couples, including us, who have been amicably bickering about anything from two to six decades. It becomes almost a game, in which you know every ploy or gambit at the opponent. (A ploy is when she has you dead to rights. A gambit is when you just might get away with the story.)

But with teen-agers, you're fighting a losing battle. First of all, there is the language barrier. Theoretically, you both speaking the same tongue, but when it comes to interpretation, there's no relation whatever.

You say, "Now, I want you home at midnight, right on the dot." This, to the teen, gyrating in that weird, trance-like state they call dancing, means "Well, I don't have to leave until midnight." A scene ensues.

And at scenes, you haven't a look-in. You're all set to raise hell. Hackles are properly erect. And five minutes after the kid gets in, you're on the defensive, trying to prove that you're not "an old grump," or completely irrational, or "the strict est parent in town," or an out-and-out liar who said twelve o'clock was the deadline for leaving the dance, not for being home.

Teen-agers are like women. You can't discuss anything with them, in a logical way. You are completely baffled by a series of irrelevant, non-sequiters and such things as, "You don't trust me. That's what's wrong with you. You don't trust me!" And they're right.

It's and to see a family breaking up. I suppose it's inevitable and right. But it's sad. Ours is. We had a swim the other day, the four of us. As we were leaving the beach, I said to the old girl, "Do you realize that's probably the last time we'll all have a swim together?" She agreed.

Kids don't want to go swimming with their parents. They want to lurch around with their own age group. They used to practically destroy me, when they were little, making me play with them when we went swimming. Duck dives, underwater endurance tests, races. And now it's transistor radios, squabbling and cheeky remarks for which there is no real answer except a swat on the ear. And you can't do that, or they'll run off and start smoking pot.

Enjoy them when they're little. Yes you blow on their bellies, kiss their little soft bums, rock them when they're sick, and tell bedtime stories till you're blue in the face. There's communication then.

But don't expect too much when they get past 13. For the next six years, it will be sun and showers, cold fronts moving in, a lot of low pressure areas, with the occasional high, and such suggestions as I've heard recently: "Dad's just not with it. He's out to lunch."

It's nothing new, of course. When I recall how utterly selfish I was as a youth, how little I cared about my parents' hopes and fears, I understand. It's been going on since Cain clobbered Abel and broke up that nice little family group.

It's a time of life when the whole earth revolves around ME, and parents are merely another awkward, sometimes obnoxious circumstance that is preventing ME from being what I want to be and becoming whatever I will be.

Oh, well, there's an excellent intention called grandchildren. I can hardly wait to get at spoiling mine rotten as that their parents will be totally unable to cope with them.

N.B.: Winner of gassst subsun annnnnd most weak for sure. Isn't it exciting?

M.D. Flagstaff Holds Meeting

The adjourned council meeting of June 15th was reconvened on July 5th with Reeve Bietz, all Councillors, and the Secretary-Treasurer in attendance.

Mr Brian Lee, Fieldman, met with council to discuss the road side grass mowing program. Council decided to carry on with the mowing program with each councillor to work out a program within his own division.

Bert Whitehead, Shop Foreman, met the council with respect to a request for new grader blades that were purchased. He stated that a few operators of Motor Graders had purchased grader blades and found that they are not serving the purpose and wear out much faster. He was of the opinion that more time should be given to test these blades. The Motor Grader Operators who have used them are not satisfied with the service. Mr. Whitehead was also in favor of the 10ft. tool bar another month.

The foreman reported that the Motor Grader ordered from Ferguson Supply Ltd. arrived and was put into operation July 5th. He also informed the council that the ord er was delayed because of a large order placed by the Department of Highways.

Some discussion ensued regarding the drainage of the coun pool pertaining to the residence occupied by Cash McFadden. Mr. Whitehead was authorized to lay a sweping tile to take care of the situation.

The question of using the elevating grader was referred to Mr. Graham.

Mr. Jack Likeness met the council briefly and discussed Mr. Irving Bergsma request re payment of damages to crops during the course of his duties as gravel checker and on other municipal matters. It was agreed that Mr. Bergsm be paid at 12c per mile for mileage travelled in the car. Mr. Likeness was also informed from camp where same is available.

Mr. Likeness informed the council that the 1967 gravelling program in division 4 will be completed by the middle of next week.

A letter was received from Jubilee Insurance Agencies Ltd. advising that it is now able to offer accidental death and dismemberment as well as Hospital coverage for accidents or sickness for Students and Chaperons attending Expo. The cost would be 40c per person would cover part thereof for accident coverage and the per person per week or part thereof for Hospital.

Mr. J. R. Gylander, Supervisor of Inspection and Agricultural Programs, submitted a copy of resolution 2, that was passed at a Regional Agricultural Service Board Conference held in Castor, Dec. 29, 1966. The resolution was read in the council and which recommended to the Department of Agriculture to consider making a grant towards the salary of a full time Assistant Agricultural Fieldman in the M.D. The said resolution, forming part of the minutes was endorsed by the council as fully in support of it.

The Dept. of Public Health submitted information relating to the Alberta Health Plan coverage for Participants of Public Assistance from Municipalities.

Copies of plans and specifications for the installation of a Natural Gas Pipeline to serve the Village of Forestburg running through part of S.E. 13- and S.E. 2-43-13-W4 were reviewed by the council and approved. The secretary was directed to inform the Palmer Engineering Co. of a surveyed road running parallel to the existing Grain Elevator road a distance of approx. 60 feet to the North East.

The application received from the Provincial Planning Director to subdivide and transfer eighty acres of land, being the North half of N.E. 36-42-16-W 4 to Leo Frederick was reconsidered.

Notification was received that the application to subdivide and transfer seven acre parcel of land out of S.W. 20-43-15-W4 for Industrial purposes was not approved by the Prov. Planning Director.

The Alberta Assn. of M.D.s advised that Mr. Charles Wood has again made arrangements to enter the sign business and that signs — Stockbiz or Grain Band on metal or wood — may be ordered through the Assn. or directly with Mr. Woods.

A report was received that the septic tank at the residence occupied by Kenneth Caruth was filled with sand and required cleaning. Cooke Plumbing agreed to pump out the sand for $25.00. The secretary contacted Councillor H. C. Lien and authority was given to Cooke to proceed with the work.

The Secretary-Engineer, Dept. of Highways, advised that an approach of the westerly limits of the Town of Killam in E 1/2 18-46-13-W4 was approved.

A letter from A.G.T. confirmed the construction of Line 1403 with the committee of the council. It stated that the A.G.T. will assume the cost of repairing the cabinets damaged by its telephone buried cable plowing project in 1965 in the M.D.

Notice was received that the next meeting of the Board of the Killam School Division will be held on July 20th.

A letter of thanks and appreciation was submitted by Alberta East Central Health Unit to the council for the use of the council room for its meeting held June 13th.

Minutes of the Rural Fire Protection Committee were read and the secretary was instructed to write on the Euclid Crawler Tractor for 3 or 4 days in the M.D. of Flagstaff.

Councillors Bussey and Linn and the secretary motored to Edmonton on June 23rd and met with Officials of the Department of Health and Dept. of Mun. Affairs to discuss the Municipal Medical Plan. The Department Officials were quite definite that the M.D. of Flagstaff could not continue with its present Medical Scheme as certain aspects of the Alberta Health Plan were not and could not be covered by the Municipal Plan because there were no provisions in the Municipal District Act. However they suggested that immediate application be made to the Minister of Health for exempting the residents of the M.D. that are now covered by its Plan until Dec. 31, 1967, giving reasons for this exemption. With reference to holding a public meeting in the M.D., Dr. Rees was not so certain as to whether limit would be any ad vantage in having one. However he was willing to send a concise resume of the Alberta Health Plan for insertion in the Flagstaff News.

The letter was forwarded to the Minister of Health in the form of an application for exemption from Alberta Health Plan from July 1st, 1967 to December 31, 1967. A reply was received granting exemption as requested.

The building committee did not have any report on the M.D. Office Building as the matter was left in abeyance pending a reply from the Dept. of Municipal Affairs with respect to council's application for a county system of local government. Discussion followed. A question was raised: should the council renovate the existing building or should it build a new one. It was suggested that the contractor, Mr. S. Kuban, be asked to consider and give an estimate of the cost of renovating this building and also provide an estimate cost of a new building.

The site for the erection of a new building, should the council decide to build one, was discussed and was left in abeyance.

The building committee was instructed to proceed in obtaining the estimates for the renovating of the present building, repair of the old building and construction of a new one on the present site, and construction of a new building on a new site.

It was moved and carried that the council purchase from the plans to construct a new Municipal Office Building in the Town of Sedgewick under the Winter Works Incentive Program.

It was moved and carried that as repair work on privately owned equipment be allowed in the M.D. Garage and that a notice be placed in the said building informing the public of the councils decision.

Mr. John Bearn of Ferguson Supply Ltd. met the council for a brief moment relating to the reason for the delay in delivering the new grader.

Mr. Mearn also informed council that the company was planning to do a demonstration program on the Euclid Crawler Tractor for 3 or 4 days in the M.D. of Flagstaff.

WHAT IS A CUB?

Once a male baby has grown out of dresses and diapers and has acquired pants, freckles, and so much dust wiping scars do not cause to him it between meals, it becomes a Cub

Cub is nature's answer to that false belief that here is so much a thing as perpetual motion. A Cub can swim like a fish, run like a deer Climb like a squirrel, balk like a mule, bellow like a bull, eat like a pig, or act like a jackass, according to climatic conditions.

He is a mixture of ribs stretched over an appetite,a noise covered with smudges. He is mother's little helper, dad's fly swatter, sister's hair pulling and Alaska's necessary headache.

Cubs faithfully imitate their dads through all efforts to learn them good manners. A Cub is not washed too often, until worries broken bones, barbers, swimming holes, fights, piles belongings of pin and three encyclopedia Cub Leaders.

At camp a Cub is never homesick, though he sometimes suffers acute homesickness. All day he keeps the leaders and the cook busy. For lunch after a busy morning of gamesand adventure he will eat what for three helpings of beef stew, and holler: "Gee, that was good, when do we eat?"

At night he sleeps like a rock. unless of course there are Martians

WHAT IS A CUB?

outside his tent or inside his sleeping bag

A new chum will joyfully announce to his parents (Let he will be "investigated" at the next pack meeting or when transferred to a new pack, will write that his new Akela is "only a woman".

If asked to empty his pockets at inspection, he will produce: a key, 3 pennies, 2 stamps, his last woggle, 2 love notes to the girl next door, bubble gum wrappers, 1 fire cracker without a wick, last week's good turn, and a carefully folded handkerchief (which is seldom used.)

A Cub can break a flag, break a window, or break his cubmaster with equal easiness.

Every Cub invested is evidence that there are still countless wonderfully patient, enterprising men (known as Old Wolves) who keep trying to co-ordinate and control these young bundles of vitality.

Every boy born is a potential Cub and, as such, concrete evidence that God is not discouraged of men.

A Cub is growing animal of superlative promise, to be fed, watered, and kept warm. A joy forever, a periodic nuisance, the problem of our times, the hope of the nation.

SUNSHINE CLUB MEETS

The regular meeting of the Sunshine Club was held on July 6th at the home of Mrs Daisy Chemyshen with 7 members and 2 visitors. One visitor joined the club. Roll was answered by giving the bostess a favorite recipe. A donation was made to the Salvation Army.

For our Centennial project, we decided to give a donation to the Bellshill Social Society to help make some repairs to the hall.

Hail Damage Reported In Local Area

Extremely hot weather last week brought up a late afternoon storm on Friday which dumped from one-half to two inches of rain on the local district.

Hail damage was reported from several spots, and while it didn't hit a large area, those reporting it received damage up to 100 percent.

Several farmers south-east of Sedgewick report damage to grain fields ranging from 75 to 100 percent while estimates of 10 to 20 percent were heard from farmers living in area south of Killam and North of Lougheed. It is likely that there are other areas of damage which the press has not heard about.

On Sunday afternoon many areas locally received precipitation ranging from 0.4 to 1.0 inch from the same showers which delayed the ball tournament in Killam. Reports of the heaviest rainfall came in from the Lougheed area.

CIVIL WAR — The U. S. Army paratroopers moved into Detroit last week to curb the worst racial outbreak in the history of the U. S. Damage amounted to almost $1 billion and for many hours Detroit was a city under siege. Pillage, looting, arson and murder were commonplace, and according to informed sources, the rioting will continue throughout the summer in the United States.

Lougheed Opens Centennial Park

Residents of Lougheed and district turned out in large numbers, along with former residents and friends from neighboring districts, to officially open the town's Centennial Project, the Lougheed Centennial Park, on Monday, July 24th.

The facilities on the grounds have been completely rebuilt in the past year or two, starting with the new curling rink in the south-west part now, completely fenced and with of the area. A new baseball diamond, with new bleachers, is now the home of the Lougheed Wildcats. The Lougheed Rockettes have been provided with a fastball diamond and bleachers, and a new booth is located between the ball parks. New facilities for the annual Agricultural Fair are being readied for this year's fair, and a new entrance gate has been built to control traffic and to accomodate ticket sellers.

Official ceremonies got under way at 1:00 with a large parade down main street, and then out to the fairgrounds where the floats were lined up for further viewing.

At 2:00 o'clock Mr. Henry Lien, M.C. called for the people to gather around the new gate for the official opening. Short speeches were made by Mayor Lazeski, Cliff Smallwood, M.P., Conrad Ingvaldson and Peter Lougheed, Prov. Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party. Mr. Lougheed then cut the ribbon which was across the gate, and declared the park officially open.

A full day of events were planned to entertain the crowd, but a rain storm forced officials to move the affair to the Community Hall. About the middle of the afternoon, and the events that could be held indoors were re-scheduled.

It was one of the largest crowds to gather in Lougheed in some time and a good percentage of them were in Centennial dress.

Directors Plan For Lougheed Fair

The lady directors of the Lougheed Fair Assn. held a meeting recently to finalize plans for the 64th annual Fair which will be held on August 11 and 12. This is the first time the fair will be held over a two day period, and all exhibitors are reminded that all exhibits other than livestock should be in by 2:00 o'clock on August 11th. In order that judging may commence at 2:30. Exhibits will be open to the public on August 12th from 10 a. m. on. The livestock classes will be brought & shown on Saturday.

Stewards were appointed to be in charge of each section, to assist exhibitors in placing their entries.

Discussion concerned the operation of the lunch counter in the curling rink, and it was decided to once again serve cold plate dinners, as well as sandwiches, pie and coffee.

Mrs B. Probst will be in charge of the Antique display, and anyone who has an article they would like displayed in this section, either, or take it to the curling rink. Saturday.

As this is Canada's Centenial it was agreed that the Stewards and Assistants should wear an old-fashioned costume if possible. The public is invited to join in this and help us make this a real Centennial Fair.

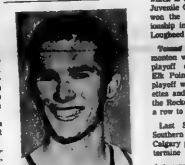
Rockettes Win Northern Title

Lougheed Rockette Fastball Team which is this year competing in the Juvenile Girls (18 and under) class, won the Northern Alberta Championship in a round-robin playoff at Lougheed last week.

Teams from Elk Point and Edmonton were in Lougheed for the playoff on Saturday and Sunday. Elk Point was eliminated and the playoff was held between the Rockettes and the Edmonton team, with the Rockettes winning two games in a row to take the title.

Last Sunday at Lougheed the Southern Alberta Champion team of Calgary played the Rockettes to determine the Provincial Champions.

A two-game playoff was held, with the southern team winning both by scores of 9-0 and 10-5.



YAHOO! Dave Bailey became the first Canadian to crack the four minute mile barrier in Canada when he ran the distance in 3:57.7 at Toronto .Earlier this year he ran a 3:59.1 mile at San Diego. Surveying up his race, Bailey said: "You need the ability to force yourself, to hurt yourself".

Braves-Oilers Tie Weekend Tourney

Killam Braves Baseball Team sponsored a five-team tournament on Sunday which drew a good crowd to witness some fine baseball. The weather for the day was extremely hot to start with, the second game interrupted by a shower, and in the evening the temperature cooled and a light wind arose.

Killam Braves and Sedgewick Oilers met in the final which was called on account of darkness in the seventh inning, with the score 6 to 5 for Sedgewick Oilers. The Braves didn't receive their last at bat and the prize money was split.

In the first game of the day the Killam Braves defeated the Wildcats of Lougheed by a score of 6-1, in an exciting game which saw the Wildcats rally several times, but unable to even the score.

Sedgewick Oilers took the measure of the Stroma Club in the second game 7 to 3. Play was stopped in the sixth inning by a shower for a few minutes.

In the draw for the bye the Oilers won, so the Killam Braves played the Castor squad in the semi-finals, winning by a score of 12 to 5. This was a fairly close game until the seventh when Killam ran their score up by several runs.

The final was between the Braves and Oilers, and was a close, well-played game. It was late in getting started and as expected, had to be called due to darkness. The 2 teams shared the prize money.

Wheat Crop Below 500 Million Bushel

WINNIPEG — It appears certain the 1967 prairie wheat crop will be somewhere between the ten year average of 321 million bushels and the disastrous 1961 drought crop of 240 million bushels, United Grain Growers reported today.

The two major differences between 1967 and 1961 is the 6 1/2 million more acres of wheat seeding done this spring and the outlook for no above average crop in Manitoba.

This means the total prairie wheat production will probably be somewhere between 350 and 500 million bushels. The production will be closer to the lower figure if generous rainfall doesn't fall on stricken areas within a week. Almost all the wheat crops are in the critical head filling stage and continued drought would result in sterile or only partially-filled heads.

The worst stricken areas are southwestern Manitoba, the Peace River Block of Alberta, and all of Saskatchewan except parts of the north west. Many late seeded crops are only ankle high, short headed, and with all tillers except the main stem, summerfallow, or grazed, or cut for hay.

Saskatchewan normally produces about one-half of the prairie wheat crop, and this year it is doubtful if average production per acre will exceed 13 bushels.

VIVE LE QUEBEC LIBRE. Translated this means long live free Quebec. And this is the slogan which was shouted by French President Charles de Gaulle wherever he travelled in Quebec during his Canadian visit. He implored the people in Quebec to separate from the rest of Canada — a move which alarmed Ottawa. On his trip the majority of flags flying were French Tricolor and the Quebec Fleur-De-Lis.

M. D. Flagstaff July Meeting

A regular monthly meeting of the Council of Flagstaff M. D. was held on July 12th in the Board Room at Sedgewick with all councillors attending except Mr. Bunney. Minutes and financial statement were presented and given approval.

Secretary informed the meeting the the chairman of the Farm Purchase Board, Mr. Taylor, had advised that funds in the Farm Purchase Credit Act Revolving Fund have been expended and they will be unable to deal with the applications of Messrs Reti, Martz & Dannhauer. Mr Taylor suggested that the applicants make arrangements to obtain a loan from some other credit agency. He said there will be no further funds available until the next sitting of the Legislature, unless a special session is called this fall, and that is unlikely.

A suggestion was made at the last meeting that the council hold a special session to review Bill No. 39 (the new Municipal Act). After a brief discussion this meeting was set for July 26th at 10 o'clock.

Cr. Lien reported that he has contacted several ratepayers to replace Mr. Wilson who has resigned as the poundkeeper, however he has been unable to get anyone. Some time was spent discussing the difficulty in getting a ratepayer to act as the poundkeeper and it was thought per haps if they received some remuneration in addition to the fees they now get, it might induce some to act. Council agreed to table the matter of paying poundkeepers until the annual meeting and budget time.

Business Hazard!

Every generation of the business world has its critics, who seem to forget that the first obligation of a legitimate business enterprise is to succeed; that before it can make any kind of contribution to society it must survive and prosper. When this happens few businessmen would argue that the successful company should concern itself with society and not just solely with making a profit. Society has become far too complex for that. Successful business must broaden its area of social involvement if it does not want governments to intrude further into the areas where business is not playing a significant role.

More direct involvement of business with the solution of some of our social problems will not only be good in itself, but would do wonders for the business image, and put its critics on the defensive. Whatever faults the business world has, whatever shortcomings it possesses, no better system of developing man's resources for the greatest good of the greatest number has yet been devised. Yet even in this enlightened and sophisticated age, there are a suprising number of people who still believe that all it takes to establish a profitable business is the capital. To get enough together to start up a business is a laudable ambition of many, and each year many of them do not realize this ambition. Some do, and succeed, but many find it is not nearly as easy as thought. Businesses fail and investments are lost. The reasons for failure are varied but mostly it is because of managerial inexperience an inadequacy. The assumption that anyone can manage & that no special skill is required, is the most important single mistake made by many..

As an illustration of this, it is noted by "Industry" that of 912 companies surveyed recently, no fewer than 116, or one in eight, lost money in the past year's operations, with a percentage of them forced to close up shop. The moral of course is that a competitive economy does not guarantee a profit to any business, new or old, and that even the strongest can falter; and the conclusion is that there are still many Canadians who have yet to understand this.

French de Gall!

President de Gaulle of France could sit in the ivory tower of his homeland and blast Canada to his heart's content and nobody would pay very much attention, but when he pays a visit to our shores we expect of him the proper use of protocol. That he did not see fit to mind his own business and interfered in our domestic affairs, was plenty of reason for him to be asked to leave. While he was not asked to do so in so many words, the implication was there, in what is described as strong diplomatic language. The ordinary man on the street has no such reservations when riled, but in diplomatic terms a remark said to be "unacceptable" is pretty strong wording. That de Gaulle got the message and left for home, indicates that he is not completely irrational, or that he at least has some sensible advisors.

How much damage his visit has done to the healing relations between Quebec and the rest of Canada is a matter of conjecture, but we have a feeling that the wound will heal easily and quickly, and that the only aftermath will be a lowering of world opinion for a man who at one time held a fair amount of world admiration. The sad part of the situation is that such a man end his career on such a note. His influence in France is on the wane.

France, of course, has had a stormy life and on more than one occasion has been invaded by would-be world conquerors. Twice in the lifetime of the writer men and supplies from England, Canada, the U. S. and other "Anglo Saxon" countries have come to her rescue. Mr. de Gaulle, of course, is ashamed of France's inability to defend herself, but instead of being grateful for her preservation, is now showing his real character by being abusive. It is probably for this rather than anything else he has done that history will remember him, for the evil that men do lives after them, while the good is oft interred with their bones.

After Expo, What!

One of the things that fascinated the writer after a visit to the site of Expo, was, after the big show, what? Would those expensive and eye-catching pavilions be destroyed after this fall, and if not what would be done with them? It is hardly likely that they will be taken apart and shipped back to the various countries. Some, such as Habitat housing complex will remain as a status symbol of modernistic housing development. The U. S. has already given its pavilion to Canada. But what about the rest of the site?

At the moment the best bet for the balance of the Expo layout would be a permanent role as a World University, devoted to the "Arts of Peace". In fact there is a moving force for just such an idea in the Canadian Home and School and the Parent -Teacher Federation. The promotion of this idea has been their Centennial Projects.

The ideal place for the World University would be the manmade islands near Montreal, and a World University would be a fitting culmination of the Expo theme, Man and His World. What could be more fitting in this Centennial year than a gift from the people of Canada to the people of the world?

Last Thursday the editor and myself went to Lacombe for the second day of their baseball tournament, and were not particularly impressed by the calibre of play. All four teams in the semi-finals were from Saskatchewan and each had two imports from the States. I've often been told that the teams in the Saskatchewan Baseball League play real good ball and I would judge that any of those teams would be too strong for any of our local squads to handle, but to watch, they are no better than many games seen locally this summer. On Thursday they were playing real ragged ball. It would be good to see a couple of innings and then go all to pieces, with errors and sloppy play. And all the teams seemed to be short of pitching, in a tournament with $4500 in prize money.

I sat week now one of the few times in history the Canucks have stood up to one of the top leaders of the world, and told him where to go. It's not often that we are even in a position where this is necessary, but it was on this occasion, and most people I have talked to agree that the best place for "Le Grande" Charles, with his bigoted pride and grandiose ideas, is back in France. I find it very hard to believe that he didn't know what he was saying or have a fair idea what his reaction would be. He mentioned the liberation of France, and this would appear to be the source of his great hatred for all English speaking peoples. Twice as a generation France had to be rescued from her own countrymen proved themselves unable, and unwilling to defend themselves. Instead of being grateful, he coverts his shame with hatred of the countries that came to France's aid. For years he has done all he possibly could to abuse and insult Canada, the United States, and to hinder their policies in International Affairs. It now appears that Canada has been added to the list. We'll survive, but he isn't doing France any good.

The Letter Box

Strome, Alberta

Editor Community Press,
Dear Sir:

Observations on this Centennial year. We have put in a wonderful crop and are looking for a bountiful harvest, full purses & many luxuries; but we have never once thought of the Giver of all things. In fact we are doing it all ourselves without His help, but He is not going to be left out entirely. He wants us to think of Him and is showing us plainly that He is still overhead.

How many times these peculiar little clouds clouds hover overhead, and the little drops of rain fall, a little thunder, with a sprinkling of rain, and the crops ripen.

Friends the Lord is speaking to us. Will we not listen to Him. We just must not leave Him out. If we do we will be the losers, not only in crops but in our greater need.

* MACDUFF REPORT

De Gaulle Departs!

OTTAWA — Before General Charles de Gaulle arrived in Canada the Federal Government was apprehensive over the difficulties he might create. But even in their wildest moments of concern the Ministers never expected that the President of France would precipitate the kind of crisis that exploded in the country during his visit to Quebec for Centennial year.

When he arrived and made a few speeches which spoke of the close affiliation of the people of France with the French speaking Canadians in the province of Quebec, the press sought out the things into these remarks. At least this was the official reaction in Ottawa.

Even Prime Minister Pearson was annoyed over what he believed was a tendency of the press to try and create a "crisis atmosphere". The word was quietly passed to the parliamentary press gallery that Mr. Pearson had been concerned by the statements made that first day of de Gaulle's visit with statements he had made in the past to Mr Pearson and to External Affairs Minister Paul Martin. Most of de Gaulle's speeches, when he visited Canada in 1960, were also produced for the Prime Minister. He scanned the texts and came to the conclusion that the General was not saying more than he had said before.

But that was before the French President made his triumphant journey to Montreal.

Monstrous English - speaking Canadians outside of Quebec had watched on their television sets. They had heard commentators describe how Premier Daniel Johnson's government in Quebec had raised the Quebec flag and the flag of France — but that the new flag of Canada was conspicuous by its absence. This stirred resentment in the breasts of the English speaking Canadians who felt that they had accepted the new Maple Leaf red and white flag partly to meet the demands of the Canadians in Quebec, who wanted no part of the Red Ensign.

Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, obviously a much smarter politician than the Premier, had insisted that the new Canadian flag be flown on the streets of Montreal. This the English, and many French speaking Canadians appreciated. Their hats are off to Mayor Drapeau.

But Canadians watching their television sets and reading newspreading news reports heard. Could they believe it? General de Gaulle making a blatant and bold appeal to the separatist element in Quebec. By his words he was engaging in demagogic tactics which could be designed only to drive a wedge deeply between the English-speaking and French speaking sections of the Canadian confederation. He was bluntly encouraging Quebecers to seek separation from the rest of Canada. And to put it his way, to seek "liberation".

General de Gaulle was engaging in what one Federal Minister described as "dangerous brinkmanship in the Canadian domestic field". But when the President shouted at the conclusion of his emotional address in Montreal "Vive le Québec Libre" — the rallying cry of Quebec separatists; he went over the brink as far as Prime Minister Pearson was concerned.

The Prime Minister who up to that time had been tending to regard the General's activities with a half amused tolerance, suddenly lost his cool. He became angry and indignant. He summoned his Cabinet into an emergency session.

Parliament Hill shook with shock wave after shock wave of angry protests breaking against it from across Canada. There were well over 1000 telegrams & long distance telephone calls from irate Canadians outside French Canadians who resented de Gaulle's interference in Canadian affairs.

The Prime Minister had every right to be angry. He has spent most of his public life carefully seeking to knit more firmly together the loose ends of this country as French & English speaking peoples. His every move in political life has been made with the end in view of building a stronger and more united nation. He had used the ses and ambitions coming closer to realization in this Centennial year than he had really expected.

Now the French President, a haughty and aging statesman draped in his garb of grandeur, had arrived in Quebec. This dignified old man by blatant appeal to separatist sentiment had now threatened the fruitful decade that had grown up between the English and the French in Confederation years; a decade heralded by the new prime of confidence emanating from Expo.

Was General de Gaulle going to tear down in one quick trip everything that Prime Minister Pearson had carefully built up? Not if Pearson could help it.

The French President has done what he ought never to be done by statesmen. He took intolerable advantage of a state visit to a friendly nation to meddle actively in that country's internal political affairs, even going so far as to encourage disruption, or worse, rebellion. The Canadian Cabinet was aroused.

It was agreed that drastic steps were called for, and the Prime Minister was left to issue a strongly worded statement. But the first draft as called over in the Cabinet was very tough. The Cabinet then had to consider what the results might be.

If the statement was too-heavily handed and blunt to the point of suggesting that de Gaulle depart at once, he might take his ambassador with him. And if the French President in a fit of temper left with his ambassador there was the chance that he might shut down the French embassy in Ottawa and retaliate by later opening a French embassy in Quebec City. What then?

These factors had to be taken into consideration. The Cabinet was called back into session. It spent the rest of that afternoon (Tuesday July 25) rewriting and editing the statement. Finally a very diplomatic statement was agreed upon and issued at 5:30 Ottawa time. Prime Minister Pearson walked from Parliament Hill to the National Press building across the lawns on Wellington street, to read it before the national TV cameras. He adopted a sharp, forceful tone, reserved for Mike Pearson. It was clearly a diplomatic rebuke to President de Gaulle. The Government hoped de Gaulle would get the message and leave Canada. He did, and the next day he departed for France, cancelling his visit to Ottawa. What damage he has done remains to be seen.

Minutes Of Flagstaff M.D. Council Meeting

pensation Safety Committee held on July 5th were read, with only five employees present.

A request was submitted to council for leave of absence to monthly meetings over the busy season, until November. This was granted.

Reeve reported that the building committee will be meeting tonight with the contractor to discuss several aspects with respect to the construction of a new municipal office building. Any other members of the council wishing to attend would be welcome to do so.

Correspondence from Mr. Brownlee, solicitor for the M. D., pertaining to the Municipal Medical Plan was read. In his letter of July 10th he confirms his advice to the delegation of council on June 13th that by virtue of the Alberta Health Act it will be impossible for the M. D. to continue the Medical Scheme after theexpiry of its exemption on December 31st, 1967.

Information is being sought with respect to the Alberta Health Plan, to be circulated in ratepayers.

A copy of the proposed by-law to implement the Fire Protection Plan was read and deferred to the afternoon session, to be typed out

Coun. Chet advised that on his visit to the Hutterite Brethern of South Bend he was approached by the Brethren to construct a private road. Some discussion followed and Secretary was instructed to advise the Brethren that council has no authority to construct a road on any property for private use.

Applications from the Provincial Planning Director to subdivide and transfer 30 acres in NW 21-41-13 and four parcels in SE 3-40-15 were tabled to the next meeting.

Canadian Utilities submitted preliminary plans showing the proposed power lines extended to serve Mr. Maschke. It was moved that the plans be approved and that the line be erected 51 1/2 feet from the centre of District Highway 26T and that council adopt the resolution submitted by the company.

Reports of Coun. Vanderwoude & Coun. Olson were read, for the month of June and accepted.

A summary of fire bumns in the Municipality for period ending April 30th, 1967 was examined.

Letter received from the Town of Sedgewick advising that the Town is very interested and would like to be included in the M. D. Rural Fire Protection Plan, and that a delegation of the Town Council would be pleased to meet with the Rural Fire Committee to discuss the plan. The Town is to be informed that the committee will call them whenever it holds its next meeting.

Question was raised with regard to appointing a committee of council should a need arise, to investigate a pound dispute between the council meetings.

By-law No. 305, authorizing council to enter into an agreement with the councils of the Towns of Daysland, Killam and Hardisty and the Villages of Forestburg and Alliance relative to acquisition of and operation of a mobile fire fighting unit for the purpose of providing fire protection to persons and property in the rural areas of the municipality, was presented, given three readings and duly passed.

It was moved that the council of the Municipal District of Flagstaff

BUFFALOWED BILL

I think I can say, without fear of contradiction, that I am the simplest English teacher in Canada if not the whole of North America. I may add that I am the most dunderheaded columnist between Vancouver and Marysville, Newfoundland.

Why? Aside from the things that naturally spring to mind. It's this crazy column contest, that's why. English teachers spend their evenings muttering & cursing into the small hours as they read and mark what are jocosely called essays.

At the end of June the intelligent ones begin their holidays, or run off with somebody's mistress, or get roaring drunk. The stupid ones enter a guest-columnon contest and spend his whole summer muttering and cursing into the small hours reading columns that make him extremely insecure about his future as a columnist.

Well, I guess you know what all this is leading up to. That's right, chaps, I still haven't picked the winner of that fantastic prize of the flat. Like a jerk, I didn't put a deadline on entries, and the damn things are still coming in.

But that's not the problem. They are all so rotten GOOD. Readers of Sugar and Spice, or at least a couple of hundred of them, are among the most literate, articulate and witty in the land.

How would you like to be asked to judge a beauty contest in which every entrant was a knockout and also the daughter of one of your best friends? That's how I feel.

A person with some method in his madness would promptly sort the entries into groups: Excellent, Very Good, Pretty Good, A Definite Potent Yet Lousy, Stinko, and so on. Then he would put an elastic band around each group.

He would then put aside all except the Excellent. He would read them all again, then narrow everything down to two. And he would make a decision. And everybody would be unhappy ever afterwards, except the winner.

I don't operate that way. I am reckless, harrowed, tortured. One day I think I have the winner. My wife agrees. The kids don't like it. I suddenly remember a better one that I read last week and spend two hours searching for it, only to find that it should have been in the Stinko file.

Another day I have everything narrowed down to the TOP TEN. I place them carefully on the floor beside my desk. And my wife, tidying up while I'm not around, puts them back in with the others, shuffles them, and I have to read the whole ruddy lot again, in the process discovering several which were much better than the TOP TEN.

My ears are already burning because I can hear the shouts of indignation from right across the nation when the winner is announced. It will definitely be, for all other contents, the worst column they've ever read.

Ah, the hell with it. Here I am, an old fighter pilot who dived into the blazing flak as Coun. scarred stiff because 100 people are going to think I'm a clod for not picking their column.

Next week, the winning column will appear in this space, even if I have to write it myself and dismiss the prize to the Stupid English Teachers Association.

Now, here's what to do. If you want your manuscript back, and have not already indicated so, please write me at 303 Hugo Ave., Midland, Ontario, and it shall be sent. Then take it to the editor of your local newspaper and say, "This column was Honorable Mention in the Smiley-to-Expo Contest." He'll print it. If he doesn't he's a cad, and you can tell him so, from me.

There is some absolutely first-rate stuff in the heap and in almost every case, should be printed.

A COMPLAINT ABOUT CONSUMERS

"This is the title of the following article which appeared in the May-June, 1967, issue of "Canadian Consumer", the magazine of the Consumers' Association of Canada.

" Housewives have been complaining almost the high prices they have been paying for their groceries and other items of their purchases ever since the days of the Sumerians. Not many of us, perhaps, have the other side of the story. The grocer has legitimate complaints about the consumers, and we are now getting him. Yes, consumers are partly responsible for rising prices.

How? One of the reasons is shoplifting. This problem is by no means confined to supermarkets, but has been an increasing problem for all merchants. This return has to be paid in the greater ease of shoplifting cited by the modern trend towards self-service with its lessened supervision of store merchandise by clerks, but it also suggests some lowering of moral values.

Grocers report that the biggest increase in shoplifting has occurred in the 6 to 18 year group with college students among the worst offenders. The latter are inclined to pick up expensive items from the gourmet section. Is this the result of childhood trips to the supermarket with a careless or indulgent parent? The child of 6 who is not taught to pay for the candy bar he takes from the grocer's shelf, may develop into the teenager who forgets to pay for cigarettes or stands he picks up.

Children are not the only offenders. Adults, who usually have money to pay for what they have taken, are at fault, too. Many stores are now laying charges against shop lifters and courts are handing out further penalties. One Kitchener grocer estimates that he lost merchandise worth $100,000.00 to shoplifters last year!

A particularly expensive item that is rapidly disappearing from the supermarket with alarming frequency is the cosmetic item. Toronto's 200 supermarkets report that they are each losing an average of 1 1/2 carts a week. At $36.00 a cart, this is nearly $1 Million Dollars a year in one city! And we pay for them eventually in the price we pay.

Shoppers casually push a shopping cart home, sometimes returning with it on their next trip, sometimes finding it useful somewhere in the house. One lady asked to exchange her ten year old model for one of the new ones her local grocery store had just installed! And then there was the cartonpony caught with 25 shopping carts stored as his varsanda. "Hadn't had room before. This return he" he said.

Remember that we must all pay for these losses in the cost of our food. Do your part . . . be alert, help prevent shoplifting. "

High Temperatures Ripen Crops Quickly

Temperatures ranging into the high seventies and eighties during the past two or three weeks have ripened grain crops to the point where harvesting is now underway.

Very little moisture has been received in the last three weeks, and with the high temperatures some crops have been damaged, while all have been ripening very fast.

Swathing of wheat was reported last week although it would not be considered general as yet, and it is expected that some wheat will be combined this week. Fall rye, barley and some other crops were being harvested two weeks ago, and of course haying operations have been in high gear for several weeks.

No one knows for sure what the yield will be on this year's wheat crop but most farmers seem to believe that locally the yield will compare favorably with those of recent years.

Authorities have not been rating this year's crop prospects across the West as being very good, as there has been a decided lack of moisture in most areas of the west. Locally we have been more fortunate than many areas and our crops are expected to be reasonably good. Rainfall this summer has been below the long-time average, while last year at this time we had reached the point of three inches more than the long-time average.

Subsoil moisture levels were very good at the start of the growing season and this along with what moisture has been received has been enough to support a fairly good crop as most farms. The poorest crops are reported to be those planted on stubble land, while those on summerfallow have stood up well.

The warm, dry weather of the past weeks has been helpful to the farmers who have been putting the hay crops, which in most cases have produced heavy growth. The good moisture levels in the spring got these crops off to an excellent start and good yields are being reported.

Moisture would be welcome for pastures where the hot weather has almost brought the growth to a standstill.

If the high temperatures continue it is expected that the grain harvest will be completed in the next month, with many farmers finishing much sooner. About four years ago similar weather conditions brought the wheat crop to maturity at an early date and by the end of August a large percentage of grain was in storage and the combines put away. This year's crop may not be quite that early but it is ahead of normal.

REAL MOD OUTFIT — Corporal J. P. R. Brisebois (L) of Montreal fits an old-fashioned sailor's uniform on able seaman Gerrard Richards, also of Montreal, for his part in Armed Forces Tattoo which is being made this year as a part of our Centennial celebrations. The tattoo depicts over 300 years of military history.

Dayland Man, J. Gerhart, Receives 25 Year Award

DAYSLAND — At a banquet held on August 16th at the MacDonald Hotel in Edmonton, Mr. John Gerhart received a Plaque for twenty-five years of service to the public.

These long service awards were given by Shell of Canada.

Mrs. Gerhart accompanied her husband to the banquet.

CAUTION! — Every coffee-break provides a security reminder to federal employees at the Marshall Spaceflight Center in Huntsville, Alabama. Sugar containers in Mobile colorare Navy ensign — and sugar cautioning against leaving classified papers where an unauthorized person could copy them.

Increase Limit On Game Birds

The 1967 Migratory Birds Regulations released today by the Canadian Wildlife Service, reveal that the bag and possession limits for ducks have been raised in eight and sixteen. Limits in 1966 were six and 12. Take of mallards is restricted in Zones 1, 2, 4 and 5 — in these zones not more than five may be taken daily and not more than ten may be possessed. On and after October 14, two additional scaup or goldeye may be taken per day and four additional may be possessed.

Limits for geese this year are five and ten of which not more than two and four may be white-fronted. The limits for rails and coots are eight and sixteen, except that Indians, Eskimos, Metis and other persons living by trapping and hunting may take twenty-five daily with no possession limit Limits for Wilson's Snipe are ten and twenty.

Season Dates

Zone 1 — Sept. 4 to Dec. 2 for Ducks, Rails, Coots and Wilson's Snipe, Canada Geese and the White Fronted Geese as well as other Geese.

Zone 2 — Sept. 11 to Dec. 2nd.
Zone 3 — Sept. 22 to Dec. 2nd.
Zone 4 (Goose Management Area); Zones 5 and 6 — September 22nd to December 2nd.

Hospitals Receive Full Accreditation

The Boards and Management of the Killam General and Flagstaff Seaver Auxiliary Hospitals have been notified of full accreditation status awarded the hospitals after a recent survey by Council representatives.

The present standards are conceived by men whose only motive is to render public service and were written only after due deliberation as to their reasonableness.

Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation is made up of 12 representatives from the Canadian Conductors of Canadian Hospital Association, the Canadian Medical Association and the Royal Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. This body has the final word in the granting of the award received by the local hospitals.

It is noted that a fairly large number of the large and small active treatment hospitals are in the Accreditation program, but the local Auxiliary hospital is the first of its kind in Canada to receive the full Accreditation Award.

A SPRAWLED CHAMPION — Over the years Harry Jerome of Vancouver has been a controversial figure in track. Many observers have felt that he faked injuries and defaulted as always give him an edge. But this year at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg, Jerome proved all his detractors wrong by winning the 100 metres with a diving lunge into the tape. His lunge sent him sprawling to the track, but his pain was forgotten as he heard his name announced as the winner.

Rainfall This Summer Is Far Below Normal

Figures kept by Federal Grain Co No. 3 Elevator in Sedgewick, show that the amount of moisture that has been received up to August 23 this year is far below the long-time average for this area, and just about half that received up to this date last year.

Total rainfall to August 22nd has amounted to 5.35 inches, while the long time average for this area is 8.35 inches to August 15th. This is 3 full inches to three inches less than normal.

Last year up to August 15th, the local area had received 11.84 inches which was almost three inches above normal and close to six inches above the amount this summer.

MIGHTY MOUSE — Elaine Tanner is certainly the darling of Canadian sports fans after her world-record performances at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg. The 115 pounds of competitive dynamite traded swimming strokes with the best in the world, and usually came out on top.

C. P. Hayes To Be Honored September 14

Four new members have been named to the Agricultural Hall of Fame, maintained in the Legislature Building by the Alberta Dept. of Agriculture. Premier Manning will present certificates of membership in the Hall of Fame to the four men in a special ceremony in the Legislature at 2:30 p.m. on September 14th.

Those being honored are Charles P. Hayes of Stronne, Ben Plenner of Bassano, Hugh Allan of Grande Prairie and J. W. Hosford, South Edmonton.

BIOGRAPHY OF CHARLES P. HAYES, STRONE, ALBERTA

The president of the Alberta Livestock Co-operative for the past 17 years, Charles P. Hayes, of Stronne has been elected to the province's Agricultural Hall of Fame.

Mr. Hayes won his election on a strong record in local municipal government, in the co-operative movement and in livestock circles. He was nominated by District Eight Board of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, which said in recommending his election: "Mr. Hayes, in our opinion, has been interested in the welfare and betterment of the rural and agricultural people of Alberta from the time he became a resident of Alberta, and his interest remains as to the present time."

The Unkept Fraternity!

It's an interesting diversion from the ennui of everyday life to get away from the routine, to just cruise around the country, see this land of ours and watch the people and their activities.

On our recent vacation jaunt, we saw a lot of Alberta and a goodly portion of B. C. We also saw a host of people bent on the same pursuit as ours, and this is the most interesting aspect of any vacation. There are all manner of people with every way of doing the same thing. We have no possible way of knowing just how many people watched our various units and wondered what kind of fool is this, but we do know exactly how many we watched and wondered about the same, thing.

We've often wondered about these individuals they are calling Hippies, and had some doubt that all they said could be true and real. Well we saw a few, not too many, but enough to convince us that the Hippie is for real and in their own peculiar way, a "hep" group. We just couldn't see anything "hippie" about the female members of the outfit, nor much that was manly about the male section. To us they were simply a group of uncut, unkept and unwashed queers who were trying to live up to something most of them really didn't believe in. To the ordinary tourist they were a repugnant fraternity, who for reasons best known to themselves have decided to live apart from the rest of society.

Society has apparently decided to let them live apart. There are scores of hitch-hikers along the highway's, going from here to there for reasons that are best known to themselves. The practiced eye can sort mankind into his various categories, and the respectable looking, neat appearing person was getting the "hitch" while the unkept and unwashed stood alone with his thumb in the air. He seldom, if ever, got any attention. We particularly noticed a tall, gawking youngster replete with beard & long unkept hair who had a girl friend with him. She was down on one knee snapping her fingers, probably to a transister in the background, or to show us she was "with it". She wore large, dark glasses, long tangley hair, a long dirty jacket and a knowing grimace. We left them there and for all we know they are still standing there. That's where they can stay too.

Just In Case!

Of course there is more to see on a trip than people, and we tried to see as much of it as we could. From the flat prairie farmland with its compact villages and towns, to the mountain peaks with its scattered urban centres, there is a vast variety of activities and ways of dealing with local terrain, in which water plays so important a part. There are farms of sections of land where nature supplies her own moisture, to the farmstead of a few acres where the artificial application of the moisture spells success or failure. For the most part Alberta is amply supplied with rain and crops are abundant, while in B. C. the application of water produces results just as good. The two western provinces are most fortunately blessed with plenty of water resources which are the envy of our neighbors to the south, but we are gradually and surely doing our best to pollute the streams and render them incapable of performing their very necessary service to mankind. Some means must be used, and soon, to protect ourselves from our own foolishness. Time is beginning to run out.

Conditions look good in Alberta agriculturalwise, & even though the 1967 crop will not be a record breaker, it is far from anything like a failure. So just in case you haven't thought of it recently, Alberta is a pretty fine place to live

Totally Inadequate!

There is little doubt that the trans-Canada highway, particularly in B. C., is something of a masterpiece in engineering, yet for today's traffic it has become obsolete and totally inadequate to handle present summertime traffic. Time of course will alleviate the situation as improvements are made but in the meantime many tempers are going to be frayed and junk yards piled ever higher with demolished cars and trucks. While Alberta's portion of the highway is for the most part sufficient for the day, many portions will have to be improved for fast moving & continuous traffic. B. C. has a problem through the rockies that will take years to overcome and many millions of dollars to complete. In the meantime much is being done to alleviate the situation. However, more than this is needed. It appears to us that the motoring public must be educated to proper driving, the hard way if necessary. This fact is evident. The many cars pulling trailers are obviously slow moving, and yet their drivers stubbornly maintain their right to hug the centre lines, and even on two-lane roads refuse to take the right-hand lane for slow traffic. This type of driver is dangerous. The speed artist is another danger, but the most dangerous of the lot is the angry and frustrated who doesn't want to wait on anything or anybody. He darting and out of traffic like a serpent, not realizing that at high speeds at least a quarter mile is needed to make a safe pass in the face of oncoming traffic. He generally ends up at the same place at the same time as those he passed. Another danger on the highway is the slow driver of the ordinary car. He almost consistently holds up a long line of traffic, and out of this comes the angry driver in a hurry who fed up with crawling takes the chances he wouldn't ordinarily consider. And therein lies the reason for filled junk yards.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.H.

Summer vacation is over for the staff of the Community Press and we are now back at work & resuming up on our rest. We managed to get at least a month into the two weeks, but enjoyed every minute.

Started out by taking the family and two little nephews to the Air Show at Namao Air Force Base. It's a full day and well worth seeing.Little boys sure enjoy climbing in and out of all those military vehicles, and playing combat.

Spent the best part of a week at Jasper where we climbed Whistler Mountain(the easy way) in the cable car, learned all the sights, soaked in the hot spring Miette, sweltered in the sun, and ate a fair amount.

Also learned not to tell my children that something is impossible. While driving a back road we spotted a mother deer, and stopped to watch. The boys wanted me to call her over so they could feed her, and I very promptly informed them that wild deer don't come when called. So they started yelling, "Here deer, here deer" and the darned thing came over and stuck its head in the window (got a piece to prove it), and made a liar out of me. From then on their motto was the early bird gets the worm on which they would rely.

Went on the Miette Wilderness Walk with Andy Kropp and his family from Lougheed, and besides eating moore I also found out the secret of Andy's hitting in baseball games. It's his eyes. Andy spotted those mountain goats up near the top of a mountain and then spent ten minutes pointing them out to us. They were there alright, and once you knew where they were, they were easy to see, standing on the side of a cliff looking like they were glued on. Now I've tipped off all the ball teams there will be no excuse for any more Andy Kropp homeruns in the future.

Ended up the holidays by taking to the Edmonton & Toronto football game on Saturday night, along with 21,000 other people, and it has to be one of the best games ever. The old Eskies started out playing ball at the start of the game and never quit until it was over. It looks like they have finally got a quarterback worthy of the name. If that was a sample of the football they are going to play for the rest of the season then We're going to be a good fall. I just hope they can keep it up. It has been a long wait.

It wouldn't be right for a holiday to be all fun, so somewhere in between everything I managed to cram in three day to paint my house, and myself.

Did you hear about old Jock McTavish who was seen running down the street? When a friend inquired why Jock and he was going for an undertaker as his wife was scrubbed to death. Jock's friend told him he should be going for a doctor. "No, no," was Jock's reply, "I cannot afford to deal with middle men."

How About Bargain Departments in Grocery Stores?

Moderating a housewives panel at a recent food distributors conference in Montreal, Pierre Berton, outspoken TV personality, put in his own idea for lower grocery prices: "Wouldn't it be feasible for food stores to have food sections for the high-priced fancy items?"

Berton asked the eight women members of the panel if they agreed that one way to lower food prices would be to do away with in-package premiums and all it costs. He added the panel what single change or improvement they would most like to see introduced.

Sample replies: "Stop the in-store music and let shoppers concentrate on prices"; "Fewer mistakes are made at checkouts and rarely in favor of the customer"; "We don't need sales in store from 7 1/2 oz. to 365 oz. cans;" "Let's go back to the old cracker barrel days — more bulk items and less expensive packaging"; "I'd all ready be at a high level where the kids don't grab it;" "Women can't afford it and they can't waste their children every minute". — St. Paul Journal.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

More Yawns Than Cheers

OTTAWA — For a political meeting that could be the most important of the decade, the Conservative leadership convention next month has generated surprisingly little interest. Put it down to Centennial madness, or Expo, or Gaullist visitations, or to predictable candidates saying predictable things — whether the reason, the battle for John Diefenbaker's job has inspired more yawns than cheers.

John Diefenbaker himself has from time to time spiced the flat leadership brew by refusing to say whether or not he'll be a candidate for his own job. Most Conservative Members think he will step aside, but apparently he has confided in no one. His lonely decision will probably be made at the last possible moment — whether to retire gracefully, if not gratefully, or whether to stand and fight his Party enemies, running the risk of being beaten and deserting a loser.

Trying to read Mr. Diefenbaker's mind has always been hazardous. It has become an even more demanding sport in recent months, since Party President Dalton Camp led the successful campaign for a leadership convention.

But it's a reasonably safe guess that major influences on his decision will be his staunch Party Loyalty, and his assessment of how he personally can be of best use to his Party and his country in the years that remain to him. It won't seem that those influences both point to a quiet retirement leaving the Party to choose a new leader from among the several eminently qualified candidates

Mr. Diefenbaker's own concept of what the PC Party should be may differ from others. But ever since November's fateful Party meeting he has been declaring that he would not let the Party fall back into the hands of reaction. He has never defined this danger very closely, but it's presumed he means to prevent the Party from becoming the Party of Bay Street, St. James Street, the Eastern image makers and manipulators of the ordinary man.

Even now, if he thought a representative of these old and malign interests had a chance to win the leadership, he would no doubt throw himself into the battle, caring little for risks to his own dignity ,and hoping to save his Party. He may not feel he has to do this, since there are several good candidates who could scarcely be described as members of the privileged class. Mr. Diefenbaker will do what he can.

He does what he could, to make sure the Party notches on the right man. His support of any candidate will be an enormous and perhaps decisive factor in the convention's decision.

At the moment, it looks as though the new leader to be on September 8th will be Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin, Nova Scotia Premier Robert Stanfield or former Finance Minister Donald Fleming. Davie Fulton and George Hees are somewhat further shots, Alvin Hamilton longer still, and the others have scarcely any chance at all.

Mr. Diefenbaker therefore will feel reasonably satisfied that when he leaves, the Party will be led by a competent, resourceful man from among these leading contestants. A Duff Roblin or a Bob Stanfield, even a Don Fleming or some of the others, could reshape the Party, lead it down a new road, elaborate new policies, give it strength and in confidence.

In a more personal connection, Mr. Diefenbaker must surely sense that he, even if he fought for and won the leadership again could not unite the Party and could not set it on that new road.

That would be his most useful role. What would be was likely vouched on by Burt Richardson, Mr. Diefenbaker's former special assistant, in an interview with a newspaper columnist.

"I was with him at Churchill's funeral in London early in 1965" said Mr. Richardson. "I think right then there was some kind of turning point in his thinking. He came back realizing that in this age it is not enough to be a Prime Minister — he should write about it, set the record down, as Churchill did about his

Frozen Fruits

There are essentially three ways to pack fruits for freezing. Flavor and texture will be superior if a syrup or sugar pack is used. The unsweetened pack is suitable for fruits to be used in pies or jams — and of course for special diets.

Sugar Pack — Berries and juicy fruits may be sliced, sprinkled with sugar, mixed gently until juice is drawn out and sugar dissolved. Generally one cup sugar to 4-6 cups fruit is used.

Syrup Pack — Slice or cut fruit directly into syrup. Heavy syrup is not recommended — it doesn't freeze readily and masks fruit flavour. It takes 2/3 to one cup of syrup per pint package of fruit.

Syrups Used Are:
(Dissolve and chill beforehand)
THIN — 1 cup sugar to 3 cups of water — yield 3 1/2 cups.
MODERATELY THIN — 1 cup sugar to 1 1/2 cup water — yield 2 cups.
MEDIUM — 1 cup sugar to 1 cup water — yield 1 1/2 cups.

Covering fruit with a syrup helps to avoid colour and flavour changes. Fruit can be kept submerged by placing a crumpled piece of wax paper on top and pressing down before closing.

Unsweetened Pack
There are three alternative methods:
1. Pack fruit without liquid or sweetening.
2. Pack with water containing ascorbic acid.
3. Pack crushed or sliced in own juice.

Syrup packs can be made using artificial sweeteners as well.

Darkening Of Fruit
With peaches and apricots on the market now, apples and prune plums yet to come, the use of ascorbic acid to prevent discolouration of fruit is a good note to end on.

Ascorbic acid tablets are more difficult to use than crystals. 1,000 mg. of ascorbic (Vitamin C) is equal to 1/2 teaspoon in powdered form. 1/4 ounce will do for about 40 pints of fruit.

In dry sugar pack, use 1/4 teaspoon ascorbic acid dissolved in 1/4 cup water for 4 cups of fruit. If a syrup pack is used, drop fruit first for 3 minutes in chilled brine (one tablespoon salt to 2 cups water).

SUMMERTIME SETTING Views like this are not rare in Canada it is little wonder that today tourists from around the world spend many vacations traveling in our country and thrilling at the marvelous scenery and settings. The raw excitement of nature, is perhaps, at its very best in Canada.

Mr F. Tabberer of New Mexico, son-in-law of Mrs R. Eckstrand went around the Sedgwick Golf Course with a score of 35, two under par. How about that?

Drain. Drop fruit into syrup, using 1/3 teaspoon ascorbic acid for each cup of syrup. Vitamin C is destroyed by long exposure to air so work quickly, dissolving ascorbic acid in syrup just before using and stirring only enough to mix.

In Memoriam

ALEXANDER — In loving memory of Agnes Alexander who passed away August 26th, 1965.
The stars are bright shining,
On a grave not far from here.
Where peacefully sleeps our mother
Who though absent is just as near.
In our home she is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to her name.
We who loved her in life sincerely,
Still love her in death just the same.
Ever remembered — Gle & Ray.

In Memoriam

ALEXANDER — In fond memory of Agnes Alexander who passed away August 26th, 1965.
When evening shades are falling,
And I sit at home alone,
To my heart there comes a longing,
If Mom could just come home.
Dear Lord forgive a silent tear,
And constant wish that she were here;
Others have gone, yes I know,
But she was mine, and I miss her so.
Sadly missed — Norma. 12 1 c

Baptist Church Killam Social Notes

The past week was the first birthday for Pastor and Mrs. Lorne Carlson in our church. Pastor Carlson is a recent graduate of Bethel Seminary, St. Paul, Minn. Though his home is in the Wetaskiwin district, His wife Eileen comes from Superior, Wisconsin.

The Sunday activities included the usual Sunday School session in the morning and evening worship. The music for the services was provided by Mr and Mrs Ken Hall, Mrs Marlene Hirsh and Mrs Lillian Bernard. The sermon titles and texts were: The Pastures and the Resurrury, from Ephesians, and The Call of God to Abraham, from Hebrews.

Following theevening service the people gathered in the lower auditorium for a time of fellowship in honor of the new pastor and wife. Included in the program was a Pastry shower in which the church families gave many food items to the pastor and his wife. Many thanks come from them for the generosity.

The young people of the church are looking forward to Friday when they, with other young people and adults are planning to view the film "Teenage Rebel".

MacLeod-Larson Vows Pledged At Daysland

A lovely wedding took place in the Daysland United Church on June 24th when marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Marilyn Larson, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs Clifford Larson, and Mr William MacLeod, son of Mr and Mrs Peter MacLeod of Ohaton. Decorations consisted of assorted flowers graced the church for the double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. McNeil. The guest pews were marked with bouquets of assorted roses.

Given in marriage by her father, the charming bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of organza over satin and net, trimmed with lace and pearls. Her matching chapel veil was held in place by a crown of flowers and jewels. She carried a bouquet of red roses with white satin streamers and ivy rose buds. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Attending the bride was a friend. Miss Carol Wilson of Edmonton, as maid of honor, and the groom's sister Miss Jean MacLeod of Ohaton, as bridesmaid. They were identical full-length gown of pale turquoise brocade with matching headpieces, and carried bouquets of turquoises & white carnations.

Little Miss Brenda Robbins, niece of the bride, was a radiant little flower girl. Her dress of pale turquoise brocade was trimmed with a sash of turquoise peau-de-soie with matching headpiece. She carried a little basket of turquoise and white carnations.

The groom was attended by Mr. Greg Thirsk of Edmonton and Donald MacLeod of Ohaton. Ushers were Mr Jon MacLeod and Alvin Koshi of Daysland.

While the bride and groom knelt Mrs A. McNeil sang "The Wedding Prayer" and during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love", accompanied by Mrs Winchester.

Mrs. Larson chose for her daughter's wedding, a coat and dress ensemble of aqua lace with white accessories and corsage of pink roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held for 125 guests in the Daysland Community Centre. The UCW catered. The brides table was centered by a 3-tier wedding cake, topped by the bride's mother, and decorated by Mrs D Makarowski. Master of ceremonies was Mr Herb Robinson and Grace was saluted by Rev. McNeil. Mr. Joe Krejci proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded Mr. H. Robinson read telegrams from San Diego, New Westminster and Fort Alberni. Assisting the bride and groom to unwrap their many lovely gifts were their bridesmaids, their best men and their mothers Mrs. Robert Robbins, sister of the bride, took charge of the guest book.

A very large crowd attended the wedding cards held in the Heisler-brae Hall, when moonlight lunch was served.

For going away the bride donned a two-piece suit of pale green crepe with matching blouse and headband with white accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Out of town guests were from Manitoba, Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Wetaskiwin, Barrhead, Leduc and Sedgewick.

Previous to the wedding a shower was held for Marilyn in the Church social room with 60 friends present. The hostesses were Mrs Herb Robinson and Mrs George Candlish and Mrs Carrie Rawson. For a bit of entertainment Bonnie Thomson and Gerry Robinson were dressed as a bride and groom, while bringing in the gifts. They presented the gifts to Marilyn to be opened. She was assisted by her mother, her maid of honor Carol Wilson and the groom's mother Mrs MacLeod. Two other showers were held for Marilyn, one at Gladstone on June 14th, with 75 guests and the other at Kelsey with over 100 guests present.

Brighter Prospects For Wheat Crop

Prospects for this year's prairie wheat crop are much brighter than had been expected a few weeks ago.

According to R. E. English, statistician with the Alberta Economics Division, wheat yields in the prairie provinces are not expected to be much below the long-time average despite the cool, wet spring and pro longed period of drought in many areas.

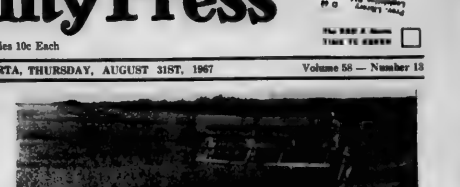
With an increase of 800,000 acres, bringing the total acreage sown to wheat to 29,570,000, this year's crop should yield approximately 505 million compared to 800 million bushels last year which was the largest crop ever recorded in Western Canada. This year's yield per acre is expected to average about 16 bushels.

Compared to wheat, coarse grain yields will not be as high as they were last year because a large percentage of these crops were grown on stubble. Stubble land suffered more drought damage than was the case with summerfallow land. With few exceptions, says Mr. English, there should be sufficient feed to carry livestock through the winter months.

Due to a wet backward spring, late seeding, and a summer devoid of a single general rain, Alberta's wheat crop yield is expected to be about 20 per cent below average. Crop variations between farms and between regions make yield forecasts extremely difficult, but indications are that wheat, oats and barley will all be about 20 per cent below normal.

The light frosts that occurred in many regions of Alberta during late June and again in late July did very little damage to cereal crops.

Despite the late spring, all Alberta crops will be harvested earlier than usual this year, says Mr. English. With such a large percentage of the crop being seeded so late, prospects of harvesting a crop without frost damage were dim. However, good growing conditions and the hot weather experienced during the last two weeks have now dissipated that danger.



HARVEST TIME — Warm dry weather matured grain crops quickly this summer and harvest operations were in full swing, with hundreds of acres already swathed and combining starting. A light rain in many areas on Monday evening slowed operations down for a few hours, but didn't cause too much of a delay.

Rapeseed Association Fights Margarine Tax

WINNIPEG, August 23 — The newly formed Rapeseed Association of Canada has asked the Hon. Mitchell Sharp, Minister of Finance to remove the present 12 percent federal sales tax on margarine.

"Special supports to help butter producers are one thing but it's quite another to discriminate against rapeseed producers whose crop is used to make margarine," James Marsh, Executive Director of the Canadian Rapeseed Association said in Winnipeg today.

He said the 12 per cent sales tax on the basis of 150 million pounds annual consumption, was costing Canadian consumers over $5 million per year.

"If the federal tax savings were reflected in a lower price of margarine, it would benefit rapeseed producers since it would probably result in a greater consumption of margarine. In fact margarine industry imported some 36 million pounds of butter during the 1966-67 Dairy Year and if margarine could capture this margin it means a taxpayer saving of another $18 million."

Mr. McAnsh said a letter was forwarded asking Mr. Sharp to drop the tax last week.

'LOSER' AS MURDER SUSPECT. At the age of only 21, Victor Friend Hoffman may go down in history as the perpetrator of Canada's greatest multiple killing — almost the entire Peterson family of Shell Lake Sask. His mother called the slayer "clever" and feared people.

Battle River To Be Represented At P C Leader Convention

The Federal Riding of Battle River will be represented by a full slate of five delegates at the P. C. Leadership Convention to be held in Toronto from Sept. 7th to 9th.

Delegates named earlier this year at a meeting held in Stettler, are Mrs Erick Nelson of Killam, Mrs Ken Enveld and Bruce Ferguson of Camrose, Graham Harle and Glen Dvaal of Stettler.

Ernie Moore will be attending the policy meetings held on Sept. 8th and 9th prior to the convention.

School Board Holds Regular Meeting

A regular meeting of the Board of Killam School Division was held, with all members and the Supt. in attendance. Also present was Mr. Sorensen, the representative of the Municipality of Flagstaff.

The secretary reported that two certified copies of Board Order No. 2235 had been received from Local Authorities Board, approving the borrowing by way of debentures of $34,000 for the purpose of acquiring two teacherages. One (Duplex) at Killam for $18,500 and one at Lougheed, to be built.

It was passed that no additional teachers be hired for centres at Hardisty and Galahad for this term but considered for next year.

Secretary reported that one bid had been received for installing of heating system in the teacherage at Daysland. The bid was for $508.80, by Killam Sheet Metal. It was moved and passed to accept the bid.

The two propane tanks at Daysland are to be sold to Mutuel Propane for $270.00.

Approval was given for the installation of a milk vending machine in the schools at Daysland, Killam and Hardisty.

A delegation of seven caretakers of Divisional Schools met with the Board for a discussion on general working conditions in the various schools. It was suggested that they arrange for a committee of not more than three to meet at the Principals' Assn. meeting in Oct. The board felt that this was perhaps the proper approach to ensure better public relations with schools between teaching staff and other employees.

The resignation of Mrs Antionette Bilinski, caretaker of the Daysland Elementary School, was accept ed, effective August 31st, 1967.

A committee was appointed to make a division of caretaking duties at the schools to Daysland.

Secretary was instructed to request the Diplomat Mines and the Battle River Coal Mine to submit prices for the supply of oiled stoker coal, and further that tenders be advertised for supply of coal heating.

Applications for bursaries from the following were approved: Helen Jacobsen of Sedgewick and Margaretha Fankhanel of Heisler.

The town of Hardisty was given approval to connect for heating the "Crafts of Alberta" trailer on exhibition o nthe Hardisty School Area on Monday, September 11th.

Approval was given for Mr. Art Armstrong's daughter Valerie to attend school at Sedgewick.

The accident report on Robbie Powell attending Strome School was filed at no negligence was evident.

Requests for equipment in Industrial Arts at Daysland and Sedgewick were reviewed by the board. Since the Supt. is making a trip to Edmonton to interview teachers, it was suggested that he check the equipment lists out closely with the Supervisor of Industrial Arts in the city, so the Board felt the list for Daysland was rather extensive.

With respect to the requests for repairs at Strome and Central Hi, It was suggested that the trustees endeavor to hire a local man to do the necessary work.

Correspondence was dealt with from North-West Utilities; the W.J. Stewart Contractors; Roosevelt Project; Gas Conservation report; A.G.T.; AHTA; Miss Cade and Mrs. Marlow.

Tolerance and Tolerance!

Today, to accuse a man of intolerance is nearly as insulting as to say that he doesn't have a sense of humor. But the semantic ball seems to have bounced in some rather peculiar directions, and now the whole notion of tolerance is heavy with ambiguity. There is the kind of tolerance which is a pillar of democratic order. This is the moral virtue which enables persons of differing convictions and opinions and creeds to live and work together in a practical degree of mutual trust and concord. This kind of tolerance is a necessity in our kind of society. This kind of tolerance enables Roman Catholics, and various kinds of Protestants, and Jews, and adherents of other religions, and persons of no religion at all, to get along with one another. This way calls for no compromise in fundamental conviction: it is, rather, a matter of how we carry our convictions. Sometimes we do strain this tolerance pretty severely, but on the whole, we do quite well with it.

But much of the tolerance of which we are so proud is a quite different sort of thing. It is a petty tolerance, a trivial tolerance. It has certain superficial resemblances to the tolerance which undergirds democracy, but at heart it is either simply indifference and apathy or merely a cloak for what is in reality a sneaky form of intolerance. This is the petty tolerance which blunts all distinction between right and wrong. It assumes that anything goes, providing you don't get caught at it or your toes don't get stepped on.

Today many of us are more afraid of being called intolerant by some yahoo than we are of failing to measure up to a decent moral standard; we are more afraid of appearing silly than we are of being sinful. As someone has said, "Quite often when a man thinks his mind is becoming broader, it is only his conscience stretching."

An Assist To Driving!

Dr. Charles Gibbs of Ottawa's National Research Council, has recently marked that a small number of killer drivers with marginal ability and a low tolerance to stress, cause most of the accidents on Canadian roads.

Dr. Gibbs has invented what he terms a stress-analyser test that takes only two minutes to spot flaws in driving reactions. The test is conducted with the use of a machine that is quite simple. The driver sits in a seat facing a panel of five target lights, a steering wheel to turn to align a needle against whichever light flashes on. Subjects have only a fraction of a second to react to movements that range from the predictable to the improbable.

The inventor says the test can record the effect of a single drink, a sleepless night or even a family quarrel. He is quite certain that it can spot marginal drivers before they get their chance to do any damage on the highways, and predicts that his equipment will become a routine part of provincial driving tests. If this pans out it will be a big step forward in traffic control, for the present system of testing drivers concentrates on speed and precision. They don't eliminate the driver who may react quickly but inaccurately, and fatally.

Grain Hauling!

Those who were expressing concern a while back about the slow movement of grain from rural points, have been quite for some time now. But the railways are talking. The CPR reports, for instance, that grain loadings in Alberta during the 1966-67 crop year totalled 76,378 cars, 12,690 more than the 63,879 loaded in 1965-66, the previous record year. Expressed in bushels the figures compiled showed loadings of 152,756,000 during the crop year ending July 31, 24,798,000 more than the 127,758,000 loaded in the previous record crop year. By the end of the crop year, and in many cases weeks before it, every Canadian Pacific station in Alberta had reached the maximum shipping quota of eight plus five bushels per acre for all farmers in its territory.

Thus the CPR explains to the public how it is dealing with the movement of grain, but who knows just how much bearing the agitation of the farmers and the public in general had on the speed-up.

Labour and Leisure!

Modern technology is rapidly reducing the amount of labor required to produce the food and goods and the services required in our society. A radically shortened work week, probably a three day week for many workers, seems just around the corner now. This means quite unprecedented leisure for most people, and this new leisure will hurt at society one of is greatest challenges.

We must recognize that in this technological age for many persons there is little personal satisfaction, little self realization, little fulfilment, in their daily work. For many work is merely an ordeal that must be undergone in order to get the money necessary for subsistence and for those leisure-time activities in which the worker can find some personal fulfilment. Fortunate indeed are they who find personal satisfaction and fulfilment in their daily work. But let us never forget those whose work is dull or distasteful. The joint problem of labor and leisure is among the most fundamental which we must face in our new society. The complete life requires work which the worker finds meaningful and leisure which is enriching and re-creative. What we do with leisure will to a very large degree determine the humaneness of the brave new technological society which is rapidly emerging. We must act now for it may already be a bit later than we think.

by A.C.E.

When you are travelling about the country on holidays you meet and see a large number of people, and most of them are careful and courteous in their dealings with other people, and with nature. But some (a small minority) through ignorance or just plain not caring, can sure make things miserable. In driving several hundred miles during the past few weeks, the one thing I noticed particularly on the highways was the mat on the left of the white line was to drive on. It is amazing how many drivers will travel with their vehicle covering the centre line, and this includes truck drivers. Big trucks or cars with and without trailers go merrily along their way while traffic lines up behind them. Any good and courteous driver will not be hogging the centre line to start with, and will pull over to give passing vehicles as much room as possible, and this is the way the majority behaves. It is too bad we can't descriminate more severely against the tiny minority

* * * *

One other thing which I noticed there is no need for, is people who go happily about their business, leaving every junk, camp site, picnic area, etc. littered with their garbage. These same people are the ones who will throw anything into a lake or stream and are causing pollution of our valuable water supplies. Alberta is blessed with some of the best parks and wildernes areas in the world, and they remain in such fine condition probably because people are few. The population is so small. If we had a population several times larger than it is, I doubt if nature could withstand the abuse that many people bring to her. Not only that, but it makes things unpleasant for the people who come afterwards. Many people seem to think, or at least behavet because it is doubtful whether they will ever pass that way again, that putting a litter barrel and cleaning up after themselves. I often wonder what their homes look like.

THE LOST CAUSE!

It has been said that the road to hell is paved with good intentions, and in other words, good intentions are not enough. We must back them with action or they are a lost cause and worth just nothing. One philosopher observed that there was nothing wrong with good intentions in the way of providing we were prepared to put foundations under them.

In every community there are many people with wonderful ideas which are never implemented or brought to fruition. It is a shame that these ideas are not brought to life in the form of tangible projects, but that is part of the way of life today. The big question is why aren't these suggestions ever adopted? Are they are not willing to assume the responsibility and the effort required to do something about it themselves. Then they complain if these asked do nothing about it. Some people with good ideas which they cannot carry through themselves are unable to "sell" their ideas to those who could put them into effect. After making the suggestion once, if it did not meet approval, the idea was dropped and nothing but complaining was done afterward. Our community and our country could be better places in which to live if every good idea or suggestion was worked on by those who dreamed them up until something was produced as a result of the suggestion. — Nanton News.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Mr. Pearson Stays On!

OTTAWA — Prime Minister L. B. Pearson summoned a press conference in mid-August to talk about the large amount of legislation that will go before Parliament this fall. He also spoke of the strenuous efforts being made by the Cabinet to cut government spending, both now and in the future.

Massive cuts in government expenditures have to be made if Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp is going to be able to hold his deficit for 1967-68 under the one billion dollar mark, and there is the $740 millions he foresee in his last budget. Mr. Sharp took a look at the rate of rise in government spending this year and after examining the preliminary departmental estimates for the coming fiscal year 1968-69 he knew his goal.

A series of special cabinet meetings was called. The ministers were told of the critical financial situation and took on the tremendous task of slashing the estimates. As always each minister vigorously defended his own estimates but agreed with the others that another department's proposed expenditure "is far or perhaps Trade Minister Robert Winters. There is no problem involved

But if the word gets around, and is not squelched, that Mr. Pearson is preparing to step down, the Liberal leadership race will be on with a vengeance For the Prime Minister to state categorically that there is no leadership race within his own party is nonsense. Messrs Hellyer and Sharp have been quietly building an organization and also getting ready to spring from the mark as soon as Mr. Pearson fires the gun. Mr. Martin has been hearing from supporters in the field, urging him to become more active But in his post as No. 2 in the Cabinet he is in a difficult position and cannot appear to be crowding the heels of Mr Pearson.

John Turner the young registrar general who began soon to have his department renamed the Department of Corporate and Consumer Affairs, is also feeling it he knows quietly that he will be in the running when the race starts. In fact, he along with Mr. Hellyer and Mr. Sharp have been creating up and down the Dominion, showing an eagerness to get into the track and start running in earnest

All this show of enthusiasm increases the conviction among Liberals in the field that Mr. Pearson is ready to bow out. It undermines the national leader's power and prestige. It is bad for the Party and the Government.

The reasons have been rehearsed at Ottawa and understood. Hence Mr. Pearson, while not directly declaring that he will not be soon retiring, did say he will be with the newspaperman "for some time to come". This could mean until the spring of 1968.

Meantime Mr. Pearson is now waiting and watching with considerable interest the developments within the Conservative party. If that party's leadership convention selects an eager and bright young leader to replace John Diefenbaker then Mr. Pearson will definitely step down, according to his close associates. But if Mr. Diefenbaker is re-elect ed national Tory Leader, then Mr. Pearson might just decide to stay on throughout 1968. He is now enjoying his job.

SAGE GROUSE SEASON
October 21st to October 24th

This year a random selection of a limited number of antelope and sage grouse licenses will be made from all properly completed applications received from Alberta residents. "Residents" means a person who is a Canadian citizen and who has resided in the Province for a period of three months immediately prior to the date of application for a license, or who is not a Canadian citizen but has resided in the Province for a period of 1 year immediately prior to the date of his application for a license.

Before applying for a license it is necessary to have a 1967 Wildlife Certificate. A group of friends, up to a maximum of four, who wish to hunt in the same vicinity may submit their applications in one envelope. Each applicant is allowed only one application. PICKLING

Vinegar and salt are the preservatives used in pickling. You will find four types of vinegar on your supermarket shelves:

CIDER — the best for pickling. Its flavour is excellent and it is highly aromatic. However, it tends to discolour white or light-coloured vegetables.

WHITE PICKLING — has less flavour but gives better color where foods such as onions or cauliflower are used.

MALT — is dark-coloured and rich in flavour (especially good for chutneys).

BLENDED — is usually half white and half cider vinegar (it may contain some malt).

Dairy salt is preferable to table salt for pickling. Iodized salt can be used, but additives to make table salt free-running will produce a cloudy brine or pickle mixture if the proportion of salt is high: e.g., dill pickles. It is salt that draws water from the vegetable tissues by the process of osmosis, making them crisp and firm. Salt also adds flavour, preserves and controls fermentation.

Spices should be bought fresh each year, used with caution and ALWAYS be measured level. Whole spices are your best choice. They should be tied loosely in a cheesecloth bag to allow the hot vinegar to circulate freely, cooked with the vinegar or pickle, and then removed. Prolonged cooking of whole spices or use of ground spices will darken your pickle.

PROBLEMS ? ?

SHRIVELLING can be a result of several factors: was your vinegar too hot or too strong? brine too strong? too much sugar used? stale products? TOO MUCH ALUM? If using alum to preserve crispness, never use more than one teaspoon powdered alum to one quart brine. Avoid using alum if possible.

SOFTENING — perhaps your vinegar was too weak to prevent growth of micro-organisms (boiled too long?), your brine too weak, storage place too warm, your pickle has exposed above the brine or vinegar, or overcooking or simply because you used stale products.

CHANGE OF COLOUR. Use enamel, aluminum or stainless steel cookware when pickling. Vinegar & salt react with iron, copper and brass, causing discolouration. Too strong vinegar will bleach your pickles. Improper curing in brine may produce white blotches.

SLIPPERY PICKLES are a result of pickles being exposed above the brine solution or vinegar or having a brine that is too weak to prevent bacterial action.

HOLLOW PICKLES may be a result of using stale products or of growth conditions. I.e., a hot dry season. This well may be a hollow pickle year!

SUGAR AND SPICE

by Bill Smiley

A BEACH SOLILOQUY

With summer on the wane — and boy, how it waned around here — I've made a discovery. With the minimum of encouragement, I could spend the rest of my life as a beach bum.

Never was much of a bound for the beach life before. As a boy, I swam in rivers and lakes, but not at beaches. Anyway, kids are too busy swimming and diving and horsing around to be bothered lying on a beach.

As I grew older, beaches still had little attraction. I just didn't like sitting in the sun. I don't tan. I just sort of turn a burnt orange. Beaches were for women, little kids and old people. I preferred golf or fishing.

Well, I'm not a woman or a little kid, so I must be turning into an old people. Someone will think unkindly, no doubt, that it's the advent of the bikini that has prematurely aged me. This is merely a half-truth. I'm not particularly addicted to the sight of navels, though some of the other stuff displayed is mildly interesting.

No, it's the other sights and sound that fascinate me. Now, I don't like the huge, commercialized beach. It inspires in me, with its noise and bustle, a feeling of claustrophobia and screaming humanity, nothing but noxious.

But the beach we go to, almost every day the sun shines, is not like that. It is clean sand and cool, blue water and fresh air. And I observed a field last week where the farmer had sprayed his wheat field of wild oats and Tartary Buckwheat and other weeds. He used chemicals costing Sic, $1.40, $1.70 and $2.50 an acre at the recommended application.

The cheapest did only a fair job and the costly chemical was great. The $1.70 chemical controled the weeds but delayed the crop and even looked as though the crop yield was affected. The time of application of this chemical was critical. For best results it should be controlled weeds at various stages of growth and did not harm the crop. The stand of wheat was beautiful to see.

Observations would indicate that the extra two dollars spent on the more expensive chemical was going to pa yoff hansomely for- the far mer this year. As we mentioned at the beginning, the dollar saved is not the most important thing. The quality job and quality margin in the end can easily offset the additional initial cost.

It's fun to watch and listen. Over here are a couple of Italian grandmothers, in black dresses, both built about the size of cows, yattering away eighty miles an hour. Just over there is a majestic young woman with flaxen features, a baby, a bikini so sparse you couldn't blow your nose in it, and a bust that would knock your eye out. Maybe both of them.

Back up on the sand a bit is the teenage crowd. They too have discovered our beach this summer. About sixteen of them sprawled in a loose circle, beach tousled, indulging in harmless ass-play, laughing, punching, smoking and making their intricate plans for the evening. But they're decent youngsters, who apologize when they hit you on the head with their football. No hippies, thank the powers.

Here comes an elderly German gentleman who must have drunk half the beer west of the Berlin Wall to produce that magnificent pot. There's a young Jewish father, spoiling his kids rotten. There's a Hungarian couple, tanned the color of tar, with two beautiful blonde urchins.

And speaking of urchins, this is the real fun of the beach. They are through, over and around the prone bodies. They build castles and dams and forts. They hurl themselves into the water, shrieking with delight. And they're all as brown and firm and smooth you could eat them.

Why do all those darling, chubby five-year-old girls have to turn into bored, neurotic, harassed women? Why do all those careless, sturdy, happy little devils of boys have to turn into hard, suspicious, ulcerated men?

A good question. But I still have not told you why I like the beach so much I've discovered that it's the only place in the world where my wife will shut her mouth for two or three hours at a stretch.

SOIL AND FEED TESTS COST MORE!

Starting August 1st the Alberta Dept. of Agriculture reported that the charges for testing soils would be $2.00 for routine analysis plus $1 00 if lower soil depths are tested. Charges for routine feed tests will be $2 00. Special analysis such as Carotene tests (Vitamin A) or Prussic Acid, will cost an added $1.00.

Increased operating costs have made it obvious for some time that the fee schedule needed revising. The charges for the same services have already been increased in other parts of Canada.

Farmers are reminded that fields for spring seeding should be sampled after October 1st. Other fields should be sampled one month before seeding. Pasture or Hay lands may be sampled after September 1.

Representative soil samples are very important. Pick up the instruction sheet for proper sampling, along with the sample kits from your nearest District Agriculturist office.

THE ACTUAL COST!

We are all very conscious of the cost of things today. If we can purchase items for a few dollars less, we feel real happy. But the cost has to be related to the quality of the product. If the quality is inferior a few dollars saved, are not really a saving at all.

Weeds can interfere with weed control. The least expensive chemical may not be the cheapest in the end. Back on the land, I observed a field last week where the farmer had sprayed his wheat field of wild oats and Tartary Buckwheat and other weeds. He used chemicals costing Sic, $1.40, $1.70 and $2.50 an acre at the recommended application.

As we mentioned at the beginning, the dollar saved is not the most important thing. The quality job and quality margin in the end can easily offset the additional initial cost.

New Pattern Developed In Population Growth

A pattern radically different from most forecasts of Canada's population growth has emerged in recent years, according to the Bank of Montreal in its business Review for August.

While an increase in the relative size of the "family-forming" section materialized as expected in the 1960s, accompanied by a trend to earlier marriage an increase in the number of marriage, the population rose only 9.7 percent between 1951 and 1966.

This, the B of M notes, compares with increases of 15.4 between 1956 and 1961 and nearly 15 percent from 1951 to 1956.

The bank attributes this sizeable shift from predictions to a marked change in fertility pattern. in response to the influences of changing economic standards, the fertility rates for younger women levelled off during the late fifties and, following the introduction of contraception of new methods of family planning, sharp downward trends developed in the rates for all age groups.

Consequently, the annual number of births has been declining steadily in the past seven years.

While the change in the birth pattern has been quite a shock, a steady but slight downward movement in marriage rates, has led to a lowering in the "natural" rate of increase, net immigration has acted as a counter balance, and, overall, the overall rate of population growth has remained roughly constant throughout the sixties.

Given no fundamental change in government policy, and with Canada's economic prospects comparing favorably with those of Europe, net immigration probably will continue to exhibit buoyancy in the years ahead, while the fertility pattern will continue on its downward trend, the bank says.

The change in the rate of growth of the age groups under ten should be radically different from that which occurred between 1956 and 1961. The country's population in 1971, the next census year, should total 21.6 million.

The B of M expects the reduced rate of entry of young people into the working population to be offset by increased participation by women. Despite the trend to younger marriages, a pattern of both limitation of family size and the postponement of child bearing is emerging; consequently, more women than ever before have been entering the labor force.

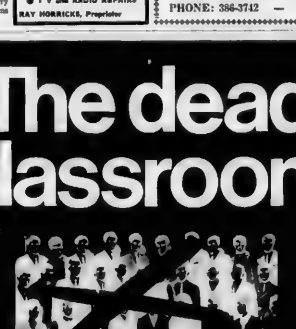
The dead classroom



A startling and proven fact: one classroom of high school students is wiped out every week because of [illegible]

It is an unbearable statistic, but true. More young Canadians are killed in automobile accidents than by any other cause.

Young drivers as a group are involved in more automobile accidents than any other drivers. This is the simple reason insurance rates are higher for them.

We, in the automobile insurance industry, provide training courses, bursaries and technical assistance to high school instructors to help them teach safe driving to their students.

Students who pass approved high school driver training courses earn lower insurance premiums.

At present, only 14% of high schools across Canada have these driver training courses.

Parents, teachers — just ask yourselves: Must a classroom be wiped out next week?

You can help prevent such tragedies by supporting driver training programmes in your community.

Erickson-Galletly Vows

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized in the Sedgewick United Church on Saturday, July 8th at 4:00 p.m. when Patricia Ann, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Galletly became the bride of Mr. Dale Erickson, eldest son of Mrs. Amy Fenske of Killam. Rev. Donald Lewis performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of white peonies. Clusters of white and pink daisies marked the pews.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to strains of the Wedding March played by the organist Mrs. Martin Reggensack of Lougheed.

For her wedding the bride wore an empire line floor-length gown of white silk nylon tulle over organza. The bodice of nylon applique lace featured a rounded neckline with short sleeves. A matching floor-length coat with attached cathedral train enhanced with nylon applique lace fell in soft pleats from dainty shoulder bows. The shoulder-tip bouffant veil was held in place by a cluster of white flowers that matched the lace of the dress. and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white daisies.

Mrs. Richard Kyle, close friend of the bride, was Matron of Honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Carol Ann Bonar, cousin of the bride, and Miss Marguerite Galletly, sister of the bride. They were identical floor length empire styled gowns in blue point d'esprie, which featured a back ruffle and a ruffled bamline Their headpieces were clusters of shasta daisies that matched the nosegays of yellow and white that they carried.

The attendants of the groom were Douglas Fee of Killam and the groom's brother Douglas Erickson. Ushers were Donald Erickson, brother of the groom and David Galletly brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs Galletly wore a tangerine ensemble with beige chippe straw hat, with gloves and shoes of matching tone. and a corsage of yellow and white carnations. The groom's mother wore a two-piece beige lace afternoon dress with pink nylon tulle hat. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall. which had been daintily decorated for the occasion. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake Present were the groom's grandparents, also the bride's grandmother and five great aunts and uncles.

Mr. William Johnson, close friend and member of the bride and groom, was Master of Ceremonies. The toast to the bride was proposed by the bride's uncle, Mr. David Bonar, and was ably responded to by the groom. Wendy Johnson was in charge of the guest book.

Guests were from Devon, Olds, Red Deer, Edmonton, Wainwright, Victoria, Holford, Sask., Daysland, Killam and Viking.

Open house was held at the home of the bride and a wedding dance followed in the Elks Hall at Killam.

For her wedding trip the bride changed to an apricot colored linn suit with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. After a honeymoon trip to Jasper the happy couple will reside in Daysland where the groom is Vice-Principle of the Elementary School, and the bride is on the teaching staff.

Farewell Held For Fr. M. Heffernan

A large crowd filled Camp Kajo at Hardisty to capacity on Monday August 28th in spite of the harvest time to bid farewell to Rev. M. C. Heffernan who is leaving the 6th of September for Sylvan Lake.

The evening was spent playing military whist for those who could find table space and the rest visited. Peter Guenard, spokesman for the community, presented Father with a purse of money and a leash. When the leash was pulled in a small live dog which was a faithful church attender was at the end.

Mr. Paul Lefebvre from Hughenden presented Father with a gift from the Knights of Columbus. He also added that Father Heffernan & his untiring and capable ways would be really missed by all as he was always ready and willing to help in anyway.

Rev. W. G. Zwicker of the United Church gave a tremendous speech and was happy to see so many of his parishioners there joining in the farewell. Rev. Zwicker told of the co-operation he had received from Father Heffernan and then added some funny experiences of theirs.

Father Heffernan in thanking his friends for the gifts and many nice tributes bestowed upon him, said he would be pleased to welcome all who came his way for a visit.

A lunch was served to about one hundred and fifty people from Hardisty, Czar, Hughenden, Killam, and Stroma.

J. McFarlaine Wins Golf Tournament

SEDGEWICK — Sixty-six golfers entered the annual Sedgewick Open Tournament held on August 26th, and a total of seven flights were run off during the day.

Jack McFarlaine of Coronation won the Championship Flight, defeating Bill Copper of Calgary in the finals.

Weather for the tournament was hot, with little wind, and the sky became overcast late in the afternoon which brought some relief.

A new feature of this years tournament was the fact that all flights got started at the same time, with each of the seven flights starting from a different tee. By doing this it was possible for all flights to be run simultaneously instead of having the last flight getting started after the first had already finished, as so often happens. It is believed that this was the first time this has been done in this area.

Bill Cooper set a new course record when he shot a four-under-par 33, in his qualifying round.

Championship: 1st Jack McFarlaine of Coronation; 2nd Bill Cooper of Calgary; 3rd Marvin Lawes of Edmonton.

First Flight: 1st L. Wallis, Camrose; 2nd G. Mendon, Edmonton; Con, C. McLennan, Killam.

Second Flight: 1st. W. French of Camrose; 2nd. R. Robbins, Stroma; Con., E. Oberg, Forestburg.

Third Flight: 1st B McKenzie of Czar; 2nd A. McLennan, Killam; Con., N. Rose, Sedgewick.

Fourth Flight: 1st E. Friesen of Killam; 2nd B. McMahon, Drayton Valley; Con. S. Flalkow, Edmonton.

Fifth Flight: 1st, G. Mitchell from Swift Current; 2nd J. Powers, Forest burg; Con., J. Simpson, Sedge.

Sixth Flight: 1st, R. Lindquist of Sedgewick; 2nd, R. Kleghers, Lougheed; Con., E. Holmes, Killam.

Seventh Flight: 1st E. Watkins of Hardisty; 2nd L. Mallet of Forestburg; Con. G. Bateman, Coronation.

The draw for the Golf Cart which was raffled by the Sedgewick Club, was won by M. McMahon of Drayton Valley.

Defensive Driving

As this is being set up in 'hot' type on the afternoon of Labor Day, there seems little doubt that more people are needed to teach Defensive Driving. A report coming in early on Labor Day stated that already somewhere over 75 people had been killed, most of them involved in motor car accidents.

Seeing the need for just such a program the Alberta Safety Council is expanding its program of Defensive Driving Courses. However in order to accomplish this and render the service to more Alberta centres, a greater number of volunteers will be needed to teach the new courses. Some headway has already been made, but to fill the need the Safety Council is inviting interested persons to attend three day Instructor Training Courses in either Edmonton or Calgary this month. Those accepted to train will be responsible for their own expenses unless sponsored by a local organization. The Edmonton Course is to be held September 14, 15 and 16 and the Calgary Course on September 21, 22 and 23.

Qualifications necessary for those taking these courses includes ability in public speaking, some background knowledge of traffic safety, and a willingness to teach Defensive Driving as a public service without pay.

This is a pretty big challenge in this day and age.

A good approach might be to ask service clubs and other organizations to sponsor prospective instructors attendance at the schools. They might also be invited to sponsor Defensive Driving Courses in their communities this fall & winter.

Any group interested is invited to get in touch with the Alberta Safety Council in Edmonton.

The Threat to Rural Society

By Walter McCutcheon

It is critically important in my opinion that the country at large recognize the value to us all of the rural society. Rural society enriches our nation out of all proportion to the rural population. Unfortunately, the continuing existence of a traditional rural society is now called into question and this, I believe underlies the deep and disturbed concern of rural areas over the future.

Traditionally the conservative position has been that the most important values in our way of life must be preserved even if that means slowing the rush to change. The socialist approach is to expand government power and use that power to transform society. Politically, we are now witnessing the spectacle of the socialist turning his back on the farmer, forgetting past promises of support and subsidies and chasing the urban voter. The importance of rural society is something quite distinct from the rural vote.

What is it that poses a threat to rural society?

The city is the obvious answer. The farmer views the city with a mixture of pride and distrust. He shares the national pride in the growth of our population and our industrial prosperity. However as younger people leave the farm for the bigger pay checks of the city, and as fertile farmland is subdivided to give them a place to live, he is worried that this urban expansion may displace the rural way of life. But this worrisome population shift and take-over of land does not pose nearly as serious a threat to the fundamental values of rural society as does the growth of Big Government.

In urban areas there is widespread belief that agriculture in Canada is a declining industry, despite the fact that net income from farm production has never been higher. This mistaken impression is undoubtedly due to the fact that the number of individuals engaged in agriculture is dropping. The trend to bigger and better farming does bring with it economic & social problems. Our whole ramshackle structure of price supports and subsidies is overdue for re-examination. In some cases, better results could be achieved by expanding our foreign aid programs through the purchase & distribution of some of our abundance. This would insure reasonable prices for the farmer & could save an army of children from starvation. In a hungry world it is immoral to force farmers to accept payment for producing less food. It merely lessens their dignity without benefit to the taxpayer or aid for the less fortunate in other countries. Ideologically price supports are neither good nor bad, and must be approached in each case on a purely pragmatic basis. There are special situations such as those affecting the dairy farmer which must be resolved just as rapid transit problems must be overcome if our urban communities are to continue to be viable.

There are families still on the land who live today at a subsistence level & this is not good enough. An ARDA-type program of federal - provincial cooperation under which uneconomic farms were purchased and consolidated into workable units, could provide a solution.

These are all economic problems and for these, answers can be found if sufficiently pressed. The pressing need is to find the means of strengthening the rural community.. I find it perplexing, for example, that compared with the emphasis on training & retraining in industry, we spend so little on improving the technical knowledge and efficiency of our young farmers.

—Fifty-Eighth Year of Service—

by A.C.E.

After the Israelis defeated the Arabs in lightning-like fashion in their short war last June, there was talk of all the lessons that the big nations could learn militarily from this small country, that packed such a big punch when the chips were down. I just finished reading a book about the success of the foreign-aid program which the Israelis curry. While the U. S., France, France and others spend many billions of dollars each year in foreign aid programs, the gratitude they receive in return just wouldn't fill a thimble. It seems no one response is usually not "Thank you" but "You didn't do enough". Certainly in the case of the U. S. program, it has been no guarantee of co-operation in international affairs, and the countries which have received the most help are usually the ones who side against the U. S. Israelis program by comparison, isn't even a blip on the screen. Israel's population is only about 13 or 13 million dollars a year, and most of this is technical assistance. The Israelis have for years concentrated their foreign aid in the under small nations of Africa. These are not very powerful nations, but they all have votes in the United Nations. These countries are also mostly Moslem & have ties with the Arabs. But when the United Nations voted recently on a communist resolution calling for the complete withdrawal of Israeli forces from conquered Arab territory, it was those same Black African nations which lined up to block passage of the resolution. It may be that his small, hard-driving nation has more lessons to teach the great powers.

Did you hear about the group of construction workers who had their hands in the asphalten monopolized by a young self-styled Hercules who strutted and bragged about his many remarkable feats of strength? Finally it grew to be too much for one old-timer on the crew.

"Look here son," he interrupted. "I've got ten dollars that says I can move a load in a wheelbarrow that you can't wheel an equal distance."

"You've got a bet grampa," replied the youngster with a wink at the other men.

"Alright," said the old man, agreeing to a wheelbarrow. "Get in."

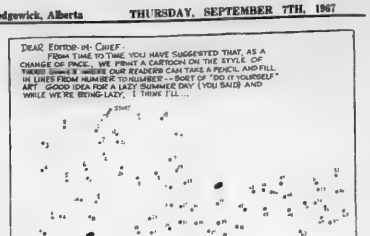
WHEAT — VOLUME OR QUALITY!

The story is being widely circulated that the high protein wheat from the prairie provinces of Western Canada will soon lose its preference and premium prices in world markets. It is related that flour millers and bakers have found a method of utilizing lower grades of wheat for the production of bread which will rank in taste and nourishment equally with bread made from our high protein wheat.

Mexico is said to have developed a wheat which will outproduce Canadian wheat twice over and be as satisfactory as a bread-maker. The Japanese are reported to be buying the low protein Australian wheat which is much cheaper than 3 Northern wheat from the Canadian prairies. We do not believe our wheat producers should be greatly alarmed about these reports. Protein is still an important factor in the human diet and our wheat has a higher protein content than any wheats entering the export market in volume. But if it is actually volume that is wanted instead of high quality is sought, the newly developed Triticale variety, which is a cross between Durum wheat and rye, may be the answer from Canada. It is claimed by the scientists who developed Triticale that it will outproduce established varieties of the prairie provinces by fifty percent. It was developed at the University of Manitoba. — The Brooks Bulletin.



★ MACDUFF REPORT

The Grits Are Tuning Up

OTTAWA — As this is written, the Conservatives are playing out the last act of their great Centennial feature, Dump the Chief. The audience sits, weary but spellbound, waiting to see which of the many braves walks off with the scalp.

But wait! This is only the preliminary.

No sooner than the Tories mop up the blood off the convention floor, the Liberals will be off and running in the next event, to find the successor for Lester B. Pearson as Prime Minister of Canada.

In fact the race has already begun. Mercifully, it shouldn't take as long as it's taken the Tories to make their choice. By next February or March, it may all be over.

Party insiders expect Mr. Pearson to make the formal announcement in November. He is stepping down as soon as the Party can select his replacement.

He will then remain in office until the convention, sometime early in the new year.

The struggle for succession will be lively, perhaps more so than the gang performance staged by the Tories. There will be fewer candidates, and unless some surprise entries turn up, all will be members of the present Pearson government.

Their names? In order of their present standing in Cabinet ranks, Paul Martin, Paul Hellyer, Mitchell Sharp and Allan MacEachen.

There's not much secret about their intentions. Fellow members of Cabinet pinpointed them months ago. Two of them, Messrs Hellyer and Sharp, have let it out publicly that they are interested in the prize, and will have more to say when the time comes, as soon it will.

It is important that the decision be not too long delayed, for the country's sake. Accordingly to Cabinet informants, the long-term planning has long since been abandoned, in anticipation of the coming change at the top.

Mr. Pearson's bag is still full of tricks. He is planning a whopping load of legislation, including a number of eye-catching & new ideas, for the new session of Parliament opening at the end of this month.

But beyond next February or March, the governing party just simply doesn't know where it is headed. Blueprints for the future, under preparation in government departments, are being pigeonholed until the leadership question is settled.

Whoever takes the Grit crown will inevitably become Prime Minister. He may not remain one long, unless the Party revitalizes itself and comes up with a solid and appealing program on which it can fight an election.

The Liberals are, as they have always been since they returned to office in 1963, a minority government. A combined force of opposition votes could throw them out at any time.

Such a combination is quite unlikely, however, during the period of upset between the Conservative and Liberal conventions. Politicians, most of them anyway, are gentlemen. A short-term advantage gained by turning the Grits out during a leadership campaign would not bring long-term benefits, even in the early election. And the NDP and Social Credit do not want to see a Liberal majority in behind a new Tory chieftain, whoever he may be.

The Liberals will therefore have some breathing space, not much, but enough, to settle their future while Mr. Diefenbaker's successor feels his way into office. Because time is relatively short, and Mr. Pearson knows it, the November deadline for his announcement is likely to be met.

Messrs Martin, Hellyer, Sharp or MacEachen? It's too soon to seek any meaningful assessment of their prospects. Much will depend on the kind of man the Tories choose to lead the opposition.

Mr. Sharp would be an unsatisfactory match for Duff Roblin; they both come from Manitoba, and geographical reasons would dictate another choice. The same reasons would eliminate Mr. MacEachen against Robert Stanfield. Nor would it be good for Canada for two Toronto politicians to head the two major parties. Mr. Martin & Mr. Hellyer represent Toronto ridings. Mr. Martin, too, is based in Ontario, as are the Tories' George Hees, Donald Fleming and Michael Starr.

If the Tories go West for a leader, it is at least probable that the Liberals will search the East for geographical balance. Or vice versa.

Whatever the outcome, within the next few months Parliament will take on a new character, with fresh leaders and policies to match Canada's second century of Confederation.

And that will be good for all of us.

Mr Bert Hayward, an old timer of the Killam district, having arriver there in 1905 is moving to Calgary where he will make his home with his son Frank.

A disastrous hail storm Sept. 3rd, hit north of Lougheed, and in most cases damage was 100%, though fortunately the strip was narrow. The deluge accompanying it was almost as bad. One farmer had his stooks washed down from one field over a high grade road and into another field. The rear of rushing water could be heard a mile away.

Mr. Ed Hall, member of the Hardisty and district turned out to search for the two-year-old son of Doug and Olive Bell on Friday. The wee fellow wandered away from the Kenah home, evidently intending to return to his own home. The child was finally found by his grandfather, Jimmy Bell. He had crossed the creek on a narrow plank and had crossed two fields, a considerable hike for an older person. He was tired but okay.

Four new typewriters have been purchased for the Lougheed School and pupils have the option of study and practice under the instruction of Miss Voorhees.

About 95% of the grain is cut in the district, but rain is again hindering operations. Farmers now front will catch immature crops.

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

ME A HIPPY?

Every so often I experience an overwhelming urge to throw everything to the winds, run away, and become a middle-aged hippy.

Those kids have the world by the tail. With the rest of us, it's the world that has us by the tail, and does the twisting.

Think of those baby bums. No taxes, no insurance premiums, no shaving every morning, no hanging over a bank and a half for a haircut.

The hippies have abdicated from a society that has no reality for them, a society in which they are useless little bits of human energy and a great deal of hate and hypocrisy. They have said, "include me out," and in many ways I don't blame them.

So let them grow their hair and beards. Let them live two-to-the-acre and smoke grass and give each other flowers and refuse to work. They're harmless compared to many people and things that are highly respected in our society.

But after the first, fine, careless rapture of seeing myself among the hippies, the cold mind of reason blows and I know I couldn't make the scene.

For, I could let the hair and beard sprout, get some purple pants and hide behind a pair of shades. I could look the part. But I'd never fit in. I don't have the hippy attitude or mentality or whatever it is. And it's all the fault of my parents.

They brain-washed me into a set of Victorian clichés and Puritan maxims that made me the warped, inhibited individual I am today. You know the sort of thing: Cleanliness is next to Godliness. A rolling stone gathers no moss. A stitch in time saves nine.

Pure pappycrats, most of it. Puritan-ism, our own children have not allowed themselves to become indoctrinated. Try that rolling stone thing on Alan, and you just keep on and points out how many million records the Rolling Stones made last year. The only "Stich in Time" she knows is a rock-and-roll group from Boston, and she thinks they're great.

My parents injected a lot of other brain-washing into my innocent little skull. They convinced me that you should do an honest day's work for a day's pay. That gives you some idea of how old-fashioned I am.

They said you should face your responsibilities, not run from them. That's another reason I'd never make it as a hippy. I'd be completely out of tune.

They believed in helping people who needed it. My mother must have fed 1,000 bohoes during the depression. My father lost his business because he kept giving credit to people who could never pay their bills.

They believed that you bore your troubles as best you could and did not inflict them on others. They told us, many times, that if you couldn't say something nice about a person, you shouldn't say anything about him.

They debunked the idea of charity and fought tooth and nail, and successfully, to keep from going on relief. My mother sold home-made bread and Avon products, took in boarders and tourists. My dad, who couldn't sell air-conditioners to the Congo, took a series of humiliating jobs on a salesman on commission, fighting it out with younger, brasher men and selling almost nothing but his pride.

They believed in God and law and order and the Golden Rule and honesty. They believed in neighborliness, but also in minding your own business. They believed in the family, in total attendance, in good manners.

They believed in paying your bills and sweating agonies when there wasn't the money to do so. That's one thing that didn't rub off on me, thank goodness. I pay them eventually, but I don't sweat in the interim.

And to hell the truth, I'm afraid a lot of the other things didn't take with me. I did have some resistance. But a lot of it did. Now, how could anybody be a hippy with a rotten upbringing like that?

So don't worry. If you come across a middle-aged hippy with a flower over his ear next time you're in San Francisco or Vancouver or Yorkville, I'm sorry, it won't be me.

I was ruined by my parents.

GREEN ACRES

WEED ESSAY CONTEST!

We hope the boys and girls of Alberta will make a real effort this year in the $300 prize contest sponsored annually by the North-

Green Acres

Central Weed Control Conference. It has been won only twice in the past by Albertans.

To contest is open to boys & girls between the ages of 12 and 16 whose families are actually engaged in operating a farm in one of the three prairie provinces or fourteen North Central States.

Mr W Lebsy, Supervisor of Soils with the Provincial Plant Industry Division says the essay, which should not be more than 1000 words in length, should deal specifically with how weeds are controlled on the writer's family farm. It should either be typed or written in ink on one side of the paper only, and it should be written in English.

The Scholarship can be used at any recognized Agricultural or a Home Economics college providing the courses chosen lead to a degree or diploma in these subjects. It can be used up to four years after the winner graduates from high school.

In addition to the scholarship, there will be a Provincial award of $25 for the best essay from each province. Many municipalities in Alberta are also offering attractive prizes at the local level.

Mr. Lobay advises all would-be contestants to prepare their essays now. They must be in the hands of the District Agriculturists or Agricultural Fieldman before Oct. 1st. Complete details on rules for entering the competition can be obtained from your local D. A. or from the Plant Industry Division, Alberta Dept. of Agriculture, Edmonton.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Roy William Nelson who passed away September 6th, 1966.

It's such a helpless feeling
There's nothing we can do.
To bring back all the yesterdays
That were so filled with you.
Only those who have lost someone
Can ever really know.
The empty feeling in our hearts.
The cry why did you have to go
We did not know that morning
What sorrow the day would bring
The bitter grief, the shock severe
To part with you boy who was so dear.
For memories of you dear will never die.
Ever remembered and so sadly missed by Mom & brother Lorne.

HELLO CANADA. This great land of ours has many scenic adventures from Victoria to St. John's to Canadians and tourists alike. Such is the vacation playgrounds. However, as the August sun begins to fade into the horizon, and the surf lops gently against a sandy beach, people can be heard to gasp with pride: "Hello Canada."

Hardisty District News

Mr A Kuczma of Altario, accompanied by his nephew Carl Anderson, have returned from holidaying in Cultsack, Montana, Prairieville La C. and Sequin, Washington. Hi-lite of their trip was Salmon and Oyster Bakes.

They also enjoyed a few days with Jack and Margaret Wright of Parkville, former Hardisty residents. They wish to be remembered to their many friends.

On Monday August 28th Mrs Jessie Hawthie celebrated her 87th birthday. A nephew, Ken Clark, with his wife and family of Edmonton, paid her a visit during the weekend. Later Mrs Raymonde Davey entertained at tea for her, gathering a number of old friends to wish her well. Nor did the young friends forget, as a group of teenagers called, complete with birthday cake and greetings. Mrs Hawthie has recently been a patient in St. Anne's Hospital.

Mr and Mrs Harold Morrison and family have moved to Airdrie. They are staying at present with Dr Jim Marrison, but plan to make their home in Airdrie or Calgary.

Mr and Mrs Don Wilder are holidaying this week at Waterton Lake.

Strange happenings at the Cliff Nockleby farm have caused much interest. At about 10:30 one night a neighbor noticed an unusual light moving in the direction of the Nockleby place and disappearing. At the same time Mr and Mrs Nockleby were awakened by a humming noise like a swarm of bees, but did not get up to investigate. In the morning their car which stood in the open some 12 feet from the house, was spattered with a dark substance on the top and trunk. It seemed black, but when wiped with water turned green. The RCMP were notified, also the local health officer, and samples of the substance were taken for analysis.

Mrs Weatherall of Edmonton is visiting her granddaughter Mrs Jim Drever and family.

St. Paul's United Church will resume the usual services on Sunday, Sept. 10th with church and Sunday School at 10.00 in the morning.

An inter-church picnic was held a tthe United Church camp at Hardisty Lake on August 27th, with parishioners of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church joining with their Protestant friends. A brief worship service was addressed by Rev. Zwicky and Fr. McLellan, and a film shown on mission work in India. Swimming and games were followed by a picnic supper. With the cooperation of the weather, it was a most enjoyable occasion, the first of its kind in this area, and we hope not the last.

Mr John Leedholm observed his birthday on Sunday, August 20th. An early settler in the district, he has lived in town the past number of years, and is still active & in good health.

Andrew Leedholm arrived home last week from Schellerville, Que. where he has worked the past year.

Mr and Mrs Joe Korel and family of Penticton have been visiting with the Walter Korals.
